Hotline Closed While Staff Is Being Retrained

The Community Service hotline has been closed while the staff is retrained.

The hotline, which has been operated by the youth services division of Elk Grove Village's municipally funded mental health agency since Sept. 1970, was closed about one week ago and will remain closed until Nov. 1, Youth Worker Florence Anderson said.

Mrs. Anderson, who recently replaced youth worker Tom Woodard, reported to the Community Service Board that she had arranged a five-session training program for the 19 teens and 10 adults who will serve as volunteers.

The training program began last week and will include sessions on venereal disease, drugs, suicide and law conducted by experts, she said.

SEVEN OF THE adult volunteers are new to the program and several of the teens are also new, Mrs. Anderson said. The training sessions are being held because there is a need for more consistency between shifts of volunteers, Mrs. Anderson said.

Mrs. Anderson indicated no dissatisfaction with the training program run in the past by Woodard, but said she was calling in outside experts from the public health department and other areas because "I feel they are more qualified than I am to talk to the volunteers."

When the hotline, also called the Listening Post, is reopened, she said, one teen and one adult will be on duty to share the responsibility of handling telephone calls. In the past, although an adult was present, calls were handled by the teens.

When it reopens the hotline, with the telephone number 439-0500, will be staffed from 7 to 11 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 8 to midnight on weekends, Mrs. Anderson said.

WHILE THE LINE is open an adult and teen will work together "at all times" to answer calls, she said. In addition a 24-hour answering service that is being used by other area hotlines will go into service early this week and will refer calls whenever the hotline is not staffed, she said.

In addition, the youth services committee of the board headed by Morton Greenberg, reported that it is pursuing the proposal of establishing a drop-in center, perhaps in cooperation with the park district, separate from the hotline headquarters. The hotline is now operating out of a trailer behind the fire station at 666 Landmeier Rd.

Greenberg also reported that the committee is working with Alexian Brothers Medical Center to set up procedures for working with drug overdose cases and to use the hospital laboratory for tests for venereal disease and pregnancy when required by youth service cases.

The youth services committee and Mrs. Anderson will also be setting up a program for runaway teens, Greenberg said.

IN OTHER ACTION the Community Service Board voted to recommend to the village board of trustees that the salary for Jordan Rosen, executive director, be raised five per cent to $16,800.

Rosen was hired in March at $16,000 per year to replace Executive Director Thomas Smith who was asked by the board to resign. The pay increase for Rosen, if approved by the village, would be effective Sept. 8 or as soon as allowed by the wage price freeze, board chairman Rev. Quentin Goodrich said.

Sept. 8 was the end of the six-month probationary period agreed to by the board when Rosen was hired, he said.

Man Found Guilty After Gas Station Tiff

A Buffalo Grove man who charged Elk Grove Village police beat him March 14 was found guilty of aggravated battery and resisting arrest Friday by a jury in a trial marked by conflicting testimony.

Byron Crowell, 33, of 871 Westbourne La., was found guilty of misdemeanor charges after the jury deliberated three hours to end a four-day trial in the Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court before Associate Judge John Ouska.

Crowell's nephew, Allen Batton, 19, of Michigan, who also was on trial, was found guilty of resisting arrest but not guilty of aggravated battery. Another hearing in the case is set for Nov. 30.

Both men, who admittedly had been drinking, charged police used unnecessary force in arresting them last March in an incident at a gas station at 1 E. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village.

Included in the trial was the testimony of Crowell's 10-year-old daughter, who said she saw her father struck by police in the service station while watching from a parked car, and of Crowell's wife.

THE INCIDENT stemmed from an argument when Batton lost 45 cents in a cigarette vending machine in the service station. The argument became heated when a service station attendant refused to return the change, but told Batton to leave his name and address.

Crowell joined the argument and police were then called in.

Crowell was treated for a broken jaw and Patrolman Kenneth Krzywicki suffered a bruised left cheek. Other police officers involved in the incident were Joseph Tortorici, Mike Severns and Sgt. Raymond Marinac, all of the Elk Grove Village department.

SOMETIME LATE NEXT YEAR students from Elk Heights Road over Salt Creek on the way to installation of sidewalks over the bridge. Last week the high school district granted easements for the project along school property.

'Sell Out To God'

'Jesus Freak' Shows The Way

by WANDALYN RICE

The Rev. Sammy Tippit says he has put aside his ambition to be the next Billy Graham, but he is still spreading his gospel successfully.

At the first of three scheduled Jesus rallies Friday night in Elk Grove Village, 20 teen-agers, a few weeping, answered his invitation to commit their lives to Christ.

"We don't want it to be easy," cause we don't want any more phonies," the "Jesus Freak" told the group of more than 100 as he made the invitation.

After the rally many members of the crowd, mainly high school students, came shyly up to him to shake his hand or tell him about a problem.

One girl, nearly in tears, described a problem she was having. Tippit gave her encouragement, the phone number of his church in Chicago and led her in private prayer, while many others waited.

Then the handsome, 23-year-old Evangelist who first gained public notice when he was arrested on Rush Street for handing out religious tracts, turned to his followers, shook hands and greeted them with "Praise the Lord."

HE IS A SLIGHT man, with brown hair falling just over his ears and a space between his front teeth that is only visible when he smiles, which he did often during his rally and afterward.

His voice still carries the drawl of his native Louisiana when he speaks. He explained he had been in Chicago a year because "Jesus brought me."

Before the ordained Baptist minister had been working with street gangs in New Orleans and "wanted to open a ministry of my own for street kids in a major city. I prayed for more than two years and finally I felt Jesus wanted me to come to Chicago."

During the rally, he told the crowd he had converted when he was 16 years old after he had used drugs, alcohol and sex in a search for meaning for his life. "Nothing filled my emptiness and I was on the edge of suicide, but when I asked Jesus to come into my life I got up off my knees and I had something to live for," he said.

His girl friend told him the feeling would wear off, he said, because it was "just emotion."

"If this is just emotion it's the biggest trip I've ever been on."

He attacked hypocrisy and told his audience they must be committed. "We've been playin' our little games too long and people are turned off by it," he said.

"Before I became a Christian I thought they'd been vaccinated by pickle juice 'cause they looked so sour," he added.

"The problem with Christians is that too many people haven't seen the difference in them."

As the rally neared its end, he opened the invitation for those whose life had been "touched by Jesus," to come forward "and sell out to God."

His face became intense as he prayed "do your thing God." For long minutes no one came and he paused. "If no one comes we'll close our invitation. We don't want to coerce you."

Slowly they came, kneeling in front of him — 20 young persons whom he led in prayer.

AT ONE POINT during the rally, he referred to giving up his ambition to be the new Billy Graham. Afterward he amplified the point. "When I was first converted, my ambition was to speak before all the masses of people and that ambition almost came before Jesus. Since I put away my ambition and put Jesus first I have spoken to more people than ever before."

His ministry in Uptown has a staff of 11 now, he said, and he is spending more of his time with rallies "so we can reach the kids in the suburbs and all over the country."

And Rev. Sammy Tippit turned to greet some young girls who had been puzzling over the hand embroidered message on his leather vest.

It read, "Jesus Loves You."

Board To Eye School Name

The Board of Education of Elk Grove Township Elementary Dist. 59 will consider a name for the new junior high school in Des Plaines at tonight's meeting.

The board will hear recommendations from board members Sharrie Hilbrandt and Paul Neuhauser on the name at 8 p.m. in the administration building, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

The new junior high school will be located next to St. Zachary Catholic School near Algonquin and Elmhurst roads in Des Plaines.

In April voters approved a bond referendum for $2.3 million for the school.

The board also plans to adjourn its Monday night meeting until Tuesday at which time the architect's final plans will be submitted for approval.

In other action, the board will review a new evaluation procedure being implemented for teachers this year in accordance with the new teachers' contract negotiated last spring.

Quotables

"We'd love to see more of you at our meetings," said Trustee James O'Brien, addressing a group of 48 residents who attended a meeting of the judiciary, planning and zoning committee. Committee meetings usually have no audience.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Police posted a heavy guard at the New York hospital where H. Rap Brown was recuperating from gunshot wounds as a precaution against liberating the long-sought black militant by force.

Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., made public a congressional audit he said indicated the Air Force spent more than $500,000 in 1970 on junkets for civilians. Reuss said the costs of the tours were audited by the General Accounting Office.

Presidential adviser Henry Kissinger and a group of aides spent Sunday in Hawaii making final preparations for their trip to China to discuss details of President Nixon's visit.

The House will consider for the second time this week a proposal to set a specific date for withdrawing all U.S. forces from Indochina. Increased antiwar sentiment indicated a possible close vote, perhaps on Tuesday.

Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., one of two announced candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination, predicted that a Negro could be elected vice president. He said Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Me., made a serious mistake when he said a presidential candidate could not win with a black running mate.

The World

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin left for Canada to tighten the new Soviet-Canadian "partnership" as part of the Kremlin's worldwide public relations campaign. It was the first trip by a Soviet premier to Canada.

Two Israeli soldiers were killed and two others wounded when an anti-vehicle mine planted by Palestinian guerrillas went off in Israeli-occupied Golan Heights.

The War

B52 bombers attacked Communist positions near the Cambodian border in a renewed effort to break up a Communist offensive entering its fourth week near strategic U.S. Fire Base Pace, the U.S. command said.

Sports

The Pittsburgh Pirates capped a stunning comeback by winning the World Series, getting four-hit pitching from Steve Blass and a home run by Roberto Clemente to beat the Baltimore Orioles, 2-1. The seventh-game victory gave Pittsburgh its first world championship since 1960.

School Hands Tied On Track Issue

Local school districts may find their hands tied if they decide to seek redress in the courts for the alleged under-assessment of the Arlington Park Race Track.

According to Allyn Franke, school attorney, "a school district cannot expend funds to pay a lawyer or to pay court costs in a suit against the assessor to force the assessor to change assessments."

The assessment of the track needs to be changed to strike out a $2,322,927 tax break now granted to track owners, according to "Citizens Action Program" (CAP), a non-profit Chicago-based group. CAP and the Daily News recently issued a report which contends Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton has allegedly underassessed five race tracks including Arlington Park.

CAP CLAIMS the alleged under-assessment resulted in a 1970 tax loss of $338,566 in High School Dist. 211, $493,566 in High School Dist. 214, $813,083 in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15, and $88,366 in Harper College Dist. 512.

School boards in the four districts voted last week to authorize their attorneys and administrators to investigate CAP's report. Franke represents three of the districts, while Harper College is represented by Atty. Frank Hines.

The school administrators plan to meet with their attorneys to study the CAP report and discuss action. CAP has urged the school districts to take court action which could involve: 1) a petition for reassessment of the track; 2) a petition for placement of Cullerton's office under a trusteeship or a petition for a special grand jury to remove Cullerton from office.

However, Franke has notified the districts he does not believe they can use school funds for a suit against the assessor. In a letter to the Dist. 211 superintendent, Franke said he based his opinion on a number of Illinois cases in which "municipalities have hired so-called tax ferrets to discover under-assessed property. The courts have consistently held these contracts to be illegal."

FRANKE ADDED that a suit could be filed against the assessor, but the action would have to be taken by some group other than a school district. CAP members earlier said their group does not have enough influence to win such a suit without the school districts' support.

CAP has proposed the school districts bypass the question of legality by obtaining free legal counsel. According to Bob Kramer, CAP director of research, "we think it is possible to obtain free legal counsel for the school districts. The data has already been collected. All the districts have to do is support the court action."

Kramer contends this step is not necessary however, because "our attorney believes public bodies may spend money to force another body to perform its function." Kramer proposed the school officials discuss the conflict in legal opinion at the upcoming meeting.

"The real issue is whether the school boards are willing to become party to this kind of action, not whether they are willing to spend money," added Kramer.

Racing's Scandal Figures Spearheaded Disannex Bill

by DOUG RAY

Key figures in the recently disclosed race track stock scandal spearheaded a bill through the Illinois General Assembly in 1955 which allowed Arlington Park Race Track to disannex from Rolling Meadows.

The legislation benefiting Arlington Park may have been one of the first in a series of legislative bills which were hand-tailored for Illinois racing magnates.

Included among the legislators who actively supported the bill was then president pro tem of the senate Arthur J. Bidwill, R-River Forest, who has been implicated along with other top politicians for having either direct or indirect ownership of race track stocks.

Removal of race track properties from Rolling Meadows meant a loss of only about $2,500 in 1955 but more importantly a reduction in the property valuation for bonding purposes for the newly formed city. However, last year the race track facilities generated more than $300,000 in tax returns to Arlington Heights and with future developments, which may include apartment complexes and a sports arena, the tax revenue will continue to increase.

IN FEBRUARY, 1955 the City of Rolling Meadows was incorporated. Included in the boundaries were the Arlington Park Race Track properties, the Arlington Crest subdivision of 100 homes, the Chicago and North Western Ry., right-of-way, along with adjacent land. Under existing laws there was no way for this property to avoid inclusion in Rolling Meadows.

The law was changed within four months of Rolling Meadows' formation, when House Bill 795 passed the Illinois General Assembly, allowing the track and other properties on the perimeter of the city to disannex. The bill provided that the properties could be removed within a year of annexation, if the majority of the voters and the majority of the land owners requested to be detached.

The bill was introduced in the House on April 19, 1955. After approval by the House Committee on Municipalities, it was approved in the House on May 18 and sent to the Senate.

The Senate voted approval on June 29,

the day before its required adjournment. Gov. William Stratton signed it into law on July 13.

The bill was unanimously passed despite opposition from the Illinois Municipal League. It was termed "special interest legislation."

Legislative leader Bidwill was instrumental in passing the bill. He and other 1955 legislators have recently been named as recipients of race track stocks. According to some published reports, Bidwill's daughter, son and nephew have more than $900,000 in racing stocks. Bidwill has also been named as an intermediary between Illinois officials and former Arlington Park Operator Mrs. Marj Everett.

INCLUDED IN THE 1955 legislature were Paul Powell, former secretary of state; John W. Lewis, present secretary of state, and William E. Pollack and others who have been named in the race track scandal.

Rolling Meadows Ald. Thomas Waldron was a city official at the time of the Arlington Park disannexation and made attempts to stop the legislation.

"I made a telephone call to Bidwill,"

Waldron said. "I asked him if something couldn't be done." But Waldron recalls that Bidwill said it was not in his power to change the bill's certain passage.

Former Rolling Meadows Mayor John Northcott traveled to Springfield to seek Stratton's veto of the bill. He argued that it would have serious consequences to any newly formed community. But Stratton signed the bill only days after the meeting.

WALDRON SAID he talked to race track representatives and asked why they were seeking disannexation from Rolling Meadows. Arlington Park officials feared restrictions, according to Waldron.

Undoubtedly the track would have been subject to some restrictions by being forcibly annexed to Rolling Meadows. Annexation of the race track property without prior negotiations for city benefits to the track, would have been less than desirable to Arlington Park officials.

When the race track was finally annexed to Arlington Heights in 1969, there were many concessions the village guaranteed operator Marj Everett, president of Chicago thoroughbred Enterprises Inc. (CTE).

Included in the 1969 preannexation agreement, the Village of Arlington Heights guaranteed to furnish additional police protection "as may be required for the effective management of crowds and traffic control." Also police and fire substations may be built on race track property.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS agreed to petition the Illinois Commerce Commission to locate a new passenger station for the Chicago and North Western Ry., on track land and the village agreed to pay its share toward the cost of the station. The CTE contribution was limited to providing the site for the station.

Arlington Heights stated it would amend its liquor control ordinance to permit "sufficient liquor licenses to be issued" as well as an agreement not to oppose any night thoroughbred racing at the track.

Village officials are under contract to "issue all licenses necessary to operate the existing uses and facilities on the property."

As a final agreement between the two groups, the CTE may elect to disconnect the property from the village, if the village breaks "any terms" of the agreement.

When the announcement was made that Arlington Park would become a part of Arlington Heights, Mayor Jack Walsh said the agreement took several years of negotiations.

HOWEVER, IN February 1955 Rolling Meadows took jurisdiction of race track activities without any such agreement. Four months later, the law changed and Arlington Park and all the adjacent property could be and was removed from newly created Rolling Meadows.

Shortly after House Bill 795 passed and was signed by Stratton, the owners of the Arlington Crest subdivision petitioned to remove the area from Rolling Meadows. Then came the disconnection of the railway and then Arlington Park properties pushing back the northern boundaries of Rolling Meadows to Euclid Avenue.

Rolling Meadows attorneys appealed House Bill 795 on grounds it was unconstitutional but the Illinois Supreme Court upheld the legislation in 1956.

Officials To Eye Shared Clinic

Community leaders in Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships will hear from the Elk Grove Village Community Service and Mental Health Board in the next few weeks of a proposal for a clinic to serve the area.

Members of the board for the village-funded social service and mental health agency agreed at their meeting Thursday to make contacts in both townships to gain support for applications for state funds for the clinic.

The agency is planning to apply for a grant from the Illinois Department of Mental Health to establish a mental health clinic in the two townships, which have been designated as a planning area by the state.

In the past the state has funded the Northwest Mental Health Center in Arlington Heights to serve Elk Grove, Schaumburg, Palatine and Wheeling townships. The area has now grown large enough to be divided into two planning areas by the state and funds can be given to a second center.

BECAUSE THE newly designated two township planning area does not have a mental health clinic, the Community Service Board has decided to apply for state funds to establish a clinic.

If a grant is awarded the Community Service agency, it may mean the $53,600 budget provided by the village may be doubled and the agency will provide services to the entire area.

The application for state funds must be accompanied with statements of support from community leaders in the areas to be served. Board members agreed to contact persons in both townships to obtain the letters.

"We aren't asking people to endorse an Elk Grove Mental Health Center as such, but we are asking them to support the development of a mental health center in our planning area," board Chairman Rev. Quentin Goodrich said.

He said the two township areas will probably be divided in half in a few years as the population grows and explained that the joint arrangement would be for an interim period until each township forms its own center.

"The Community Service is the only organized agency that is prepared to expand now into the planning area," he said.

The agency plans to submit the application to the state by Nov. 1. The grant would not be received until the beginning of the new state fiscal year July 1.

Elk Grove Village Community Service was established by the village board in 1966 and provides family and individual counseling for adults, operates a youth hot line, youth program, and youth employment service.

A SALES OFFICE for Centex Corp. will be the interim home of the Suburban Bank of Elk Grove, now under construction at Devon Avenue and Tonne Road. The sales office was moved from Rte. 53.

Pay For Services, Forest View Told

The president of the Forest View Homeowners Association has advised residents of the 123-home subdivision to pay the village the $84 for fire protection and ambulance service.

John Jackson said residents should pay the fee as they had voted to do Oct. 13 until a ruling is made by the Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP).

Last week James Thomas of the OEP in Chicago said the fee charged by Elk Grove Village for fire protection was a violation of the wage price freeze.

Thomas said he would not act on the matter unless someone filed a complaint. Jackson said he would not file a complaint. However, Village Finance Director George Coney said last week that the village attorney would see a determination from the OEP.

Jackson said if a refund is due homeowners he believed the village would comply with a ruling by OEP.

Jackson said if a refund is due homeowners he believed the village would comply with a ruling by OEP.

THOMAS EXPLAINED that the $84 contract for one year's fire protection and ambulance service is a violation of the freeze because a previous contract between the village and the subdivision for $3,900 in 1970 was the last contract the village had with homeowners. Under the old contract, the average cost for fire protection for 123 homes was $84.

Thomas said it made no difference that the original contract was a joint one between the homeowners association, the Forest View Fire Protection District, and the village, and that the new contract was with individual homeowners. He said the $3,000 total is the ceiling price.

The village board last month voted to offer homeowners individual contracts after failing in more than 18 months to get the homeowners to pay for fire protection either by signing an $11,000 contract or annexing to the village. As of Friday, 16 residents had paid the $84 for fire protection. The deadline is Nov. 1.

In the 18-month period, the homeowners have contributed $800 to the village for fire protection though there was no contract. In the interim, residents have received free fire and ambulance protection from the municipality.

Forest View is an unincorporated subdivision bounded by Ridge Avenue, Landmeier Road, Laurel Street, and Woodview Avenue. It was in existence prior to the incorporation of the municipality in 1956.

Palatine Police Protection Of Inverness OKd

A three-year, $155,000 contract for Palatine police protection of Inverness was approved last week by the Inverness Village Board.

Terms of the agreement, which now goes to the Palatine Village Board for approval, call for $42,000 the first year, $32,500 the second and $60,500 the third.

Palatine Village Mgr. Berton Braun said Wednesday he expects the board to approve the terms. They were drawn up in a meeting between Braun, Police Chief Robert Centner and Daniel Wachs, chairman of the police and health committee of the Inverness board.

The current contract, which expires Dec. 1 was for $32,000 in each of two years.

Braun said the amount was raised because a calculation of patrol time disclosed more than was originally estimated. Centner indicated most of the expense is for salary and motor vehicle costs incurred from routine patrol.

Two-Day Minority Group Exposition At Randhurst

'Alls Fair' In Love, War And Business World

by ALAN AKERSON

Winford Bryant and Everett Jones first met early last summer at an Operation Breadbasket meeting in Chicago.

Now, only a few months later, the two have formed a corporation that makes and leases business and home security equipment at a price, they say, that is far below that of their competitors.

Bryant and Jones, both black, were among the minority group entrepreneurs — some 40 in all — who came to Mount Prospect's Randhurst Shopping Center last week to show their wares to the Northwest suburbs.

The two-day minority group business exposition, called "Alls Fair," was sponsored and paid for by more than 30 area human relations groups, churches, individuals and businesses.

Thousands of shoppers at Randhurst saw the exhibits in the shopping center's mall Saturday and Sunday. It was the second "Alls Fair," the first being held in June, 1970.

AMONG THE exhibitors were black artists, Indians displaying clothing from their country, and Mexican-Americans who sell Mexican food products.

According to Patricia Vockeroth, a spokesman for the event, the goal of Alls Fair is to give Northwest suburban residents a chance "to view the multi-faceted talents and accomplishments of the various minority groups" that live in the Chicago area.

The businesses represented at the event ran the gamut from one-man operations to corporations that cost thousands of dollars to organize.

As for Bryant and Jones their start was of the shoestring variety. "All our products, I invented," says 22-year-old Bryant, who, incidentally, dropped out of school in the ninth grade.

HIS PARTNER, Jones, is 33, holds a bachelor's degree in business administration, a master's degree in urban studies and is a former college teacher.

Jones said that after they met, he became impressed with Bryant's inventive abilities that led to the corporation. Bryant said it took him about three weeks to build the security device, known as the "Ghost Control System," and ready it for marketing. The device looks like nothing more than a gray metal box about the size of a cigar box. But, the two contend it can detect a break-in, a fire or any other kind of damage in any size business or home.

And, while the two readily admit the profit motive was behind their enterprise, there is another reason for their business: "Currently we are employing three mothers on welfare," said Jones.

At the other end of the financial scale is the Azteca Corn Products Corp., also from Chicago. Set up by 10 Chicago Mexican-Americans, it required an initial investment of about a quarter million dollars, according to one of the backers, Joseph Canchola, a Chicago stockbroker.

THE FACTORY, currently employing 17 persons, most of whom are Mexican-Americans, supplies Mexican corn-based foods to Chicago area grocery store chains and to several Mexican restaurants. "We're here at Alls Fair," explained Canchola, "to introduce the product to the Anglo market — one which we feel the surface has only barely been scratched in. And, there's no question the market is growing. There's lot of potential out here."

The Azteca Corn Products Corp. has done about $50,000 business thus far in its first year. Canchola's prediction for next year? "We are shooting for a million five."

EVERYTHING FROM ART objects to oil filters was on display for shoppers at the "Alls Fair," a minority group business exposition held last weekend at Randhurst Shopping Center.

Religion Today

by Rev. Lester Kinsolving

When it comes to grandiose titles, neither the most "High Exalted Ruler" of any lodge or Ethiopia's Emperor Haile Selassie ("Lion of Judah," etc.) have anything on San Francisco's Michael Itkin.

For this diminutive and ecclesiastically ubiquitous young man not only wears the large cross, ring and purple shirt of a bishop, but identifies himself as:

"President and Metropolitan Bishop-Abbot of The Holy Orthodox Catholic Synod of the Syro-Chaldean Rite; Evangelical Catholic Communion Brotherhood of The Love of Christ, Incorporated."

The Exceptionally Reverend Itkin, in addition to pastoring a somewhat skeletal coterie of devotees, occasionally has made ecumenical visitations (uninvited) to the more orthodox and established churches of the city, where he usually creates something of a sensation by processing in his vivid ecclesiastical vestiture.

In his conversation, as well as in a stream of documents he issues, Itkin manifests a rather impressive ecclesiastical vocabulary — which sounds as if he were a senior member of the Vatican's Curia. A bulk of these documents consist of ordination or consecration certificates, the number of which is very nearly matched by his fiery anathemas, suspensions, depositions and excommunications — frequently of the same people he had previously ordained or consecrated.

One particularly notable Itkin encyclical was illustrated: a nude man with an erection.

FOR ITKIN is one of a growing number of homosexuals who play church in the grand manner, creating occasional havoc and frequently obtaining recognition, honor and hospitality due to bona fide prelates.

They disdain the crude, if ludicrous, technique of California's illiterate ordaining machine, "Dr." Kirby Hensley, of Modesto's Universal Life Church (700,000 people ordained, plus a number of cocker spaniels and Siamese cats). Instead, these "paper priests" carefully acquire a smattering acquaintance with liturgies (the study of worship) and church history — and use both to the hilt.

They learn there have been thousands of different denominations in history, some of whom have the Apostolic Succession. This theory, cherished by Roman Catholics, Orthodox and Anglicans, holds that Christ's 12 Apostles passed their authority directly to select successors, and through history to the bishops of today.

Occasionally, however, there have been bishops who have been willing to pass on this authority by consecrating everyone and anyone — either for fame, profit or to recruit followers while leading a schism. This has led to the existence of a small army of questionable prelates, which the Church of England tried valiantly to catalog in a book called "Episcopi Vagantes," which is now, unfortunately, out of print.

One experience of San Francisco's Roman Catholic Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken illustrates the problem. The Archbishop recalls that during the consecration of Bishop Mark Hurley

"SOMEONE SHOWED up for the procession in a very impressive regalia, wearing something that looked like a helmet — and which outshone my mitre! So he was seated up in the chancel near Cardinal McIntyre, while a leading Oriental prelate was left down in the pews. This prelate knew who the first man was — and we certainly heard about this after the service!"

National publicity, even in the "The National Catholic Reporter" as well as the homophile press, has been given to another of these paper priests: "Father" Robert J. Richards, founder of the "Community of St. John The Beloved." This homosexual group has held regular services on the campus of the Jesuit-owned University of San Francisco. "Father" Richards, whose real name is Robert Tato, was received into the Catholic Church — after being ordained a priest of the Antiochian Orthodox Archdiocese of Toledo. He claims that since he is a priest and a Catholic, he is therefore a Catholic priest. But Archbishop McGucken does not recognize his claim and on March 6, 1971, Antiochian Archbishop Michael of Toledo wrote:

"Robert Tato has been suspended for many violations, plus leaving here with many debts to many people, businesses and churches."

Still another in the unnumbered host of paper priests is the Rev. Donald Pierce, whose "St. Valentine's — A Church For Lovers" was bounced out of San Francisco's First Unitarian Church. This despite Unitarian minister James Stoll, a self-professed homosexual, having been appointed "Minister to The Loving Revolution" by this denomination's Pacific Central District Board, headquartered in Berkeley.

Scofflaws Being Nailed At Record-Breaking Rate

Scofflaws are being caught at a record-setting pace this year, according to Cook County Circuit Court Clerk Matthew J. Danaher.

He reported last week that revenue for the first eight months in 1971 in the Traffic Court's scofflaw project is $5.1 million — an increase of $1.4 million over last year's collection.

A scofflaw is a person who is a habitual parking violator. The crackdown, limited to Chicago, has produced 600 arrests a month, according to Danaher.

"He said, anyone with more than five outstanding parking tickets is liable to arrest by the Chicago Police. In the 28 months since Scofflaw Court began, it has resulted in the collection of over 600,000 unpaid parking tickets and produced additional revenue of $5,986,699."

Sacred Heart To Form Advisory Unit

An open meeting will be held tonight to set up a lay advisory board at Sacred Heart of Mary High School, in Rolling Meadows.

Parents of the 550 girls who attend the school are invited to attend the meeting at 7:30 in the school cafeteria, 2800 Central Rd.

Principal Leonard Baenen said he hopes a 10 to 12-member board can be set up by April.

The Doctor Says

Stroke Destroys The Brain Cells

by LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Two years ago I had a stroke, not severe, thank goodness, and I recovered the use of my hand and could walk with a walker in a short while. But my leg is heavy and I drag my foot when I walk. Can you help me? Would circulation pills help? I've heard of some people taking them and I would appreciate any other help you can give to us folks.

Dear Reader — A stroke commonly means that an area of the brain has been damaged. Usually this is from a clot or related mechanism that plugs an artery to part of the brain. So the real disease that causes the problem is in the blood vessel.

The brain and spinal cord cells that are destroyed cannot be regenerated like a broken bone or many other parts of the body. Since almost all of our functions can be pinpointed to a specific part of the brain the area damaged determines if a stroke victim is paralyzed, can't speak or has other problems.

To illustrate, there is a small spot on the surface of the left side of the brain that is the central point for controlling the right leg. When you want to move the right leg impulses pass from this point, cross over to the left side of the spinal cord and eventually stimulate the right leg muscles to control movement. This sounds simple but it involves the integration of many complex signals to relax some muscles and contract others in a smooth fashion. If these cells in the brain are damaged you may not be able to move the leg at all.

Sometimes other cells in the brain that escape injury take over the function of the damaged ones or can be trained to replace them. A good example is speech. You can develop another area for speech in some cases, but it takes a long period of training. I suspect there is much yet to be learned in training the brain to take over functions of areas that have been damaged.

A STROKE PATIENT needs to have particular attention to the development of his muscles by special exercises so he can make the most of his ability and prevent, in so far as possible, crippling or loss of function.

Regarding circulation pills, if a person has high blood pressure it is sometimes advisable to treat this to prevent further changes in the blood vessels and possible further damage to the brain. There are other medicines that are given to help the brain function when the circulation is poor. No generalization can be made.

The things that prevent heart damage from blood vessel disease apply equally well to strokes, preferably before they occur. This means, no cigarettes, prevention of obesity, a proper diet, limited in any kind of fat, or saturated fat, avoiding too much cholesterol and getting proper exercise.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.) Please send your questions and comments to Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D., c/o Padlock Publications, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. While Dr. Lamb cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Drug Overdose Death Statistics Revealed

The person who died of a drug overdose last month in Cook County was most likely to be a white male between 20 and 30 years of age and a resident of Chicago.

Most like that person died of an overdose of heroin or morphine, statistics released last week reveal.

Those statistics also reveal that victims of drug overdoses died in record numbers last month.

County Coroner Andrew J. Toman reported there were 48 overdose death last month, compared to 30 for September 1970. He reports the total is the largest on record.

"This is the largest number of overdose cases that we have reported since we began keeping statistics three years ago. This indicates an alarming trend that may result in making 1971 a record year for drug overdose deaths."

A TOTAL OF 214 persons died of drug overdoses from January to September of this year. For the same period last year, only 194 died.

Last year 277 overdose deaths were reported. It was an all-time record, according to Toman.

Statistics outline the "typical" victim of a drug overdose last month:

—29 whites, 17 blacks and two Orientals died of drug overdoses.

—Thirty men and 18 women died of overdoses in September.

—By age, the 20-30 age category had 16 victims. The second largest age category was 40-50 years of age, in which there were 12 victims.

—37 of the overdose deaths occurred in Chicago; eleven in suburban Cook County.

—32 persons died of morphine or heroin overdoses last month (the two substances are chemically identical in the human body). Twelve of the victims died of barbiturate overdoses.

Rep. Chapman Seeks To Block College Aid Veto

State Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman, R-Arlington Heights, hopes to bring to a vote in the Illinois House of Representatives tomorrow a motion to override Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's vetoes of legislation raising the amount of state aid to junior colleges.

Ogilvie used his expanded veto powers under the new state constitution to veto various items in the legislation sponsored by Mrs. Chapman.

The most significant of the vetoed items was a provision to raise to $19 per credit hour the amount of the state grant to community colleges. Ogilvie used his "line-item" veto to reduce that amount to $15.50 per hour, the same as the amount paid last year.

HARPER COLLEGE officials have estimated that the reduction will cut their revenue by $400,000 to $500,000 this year.

The House must vote on the measure by Wednesday to override the veto. The constitution allows each house of the legislature 15 days to act on vetoed items. If the veto is overridden in the House, the Senate will then have 15 days to vote.

A simple majority is required in each house to override "line item" vetoes.

Reapportionment Causes Legislative Strain

by BOB LAHEY

Relations between Republicans and Democrats in the Illinois legislature have become more than usually strained over the issue of congressional reapportionment, which the Democrats regard as a political loss perpetrated through GOP chicanery.

The recent state reapportionment resulted in a congressional map which most concede will result in a gain of three seats in Congress for Republicans.

It came about, the Democrats say, because Republican leaders in the General Assembly backed down on a deal — and also, the Democrats admit, because they failed to protect their rear in the reapportionment battle.

In the legislature, backing down on a deal or breaking a promise is akin to horse thievery.

THE LAWMAKERS depend heavily on members of their own party as well as the opposition for votes to pass legislation. To secure these votes, it is often necessary to promise support in the future for their colleagues' favorite legislation.

The legislator who gets his vote and then fails to make good on his promises will soon find that nobody wants to talk to him.

In the opening session of the 77th General Assembly, neither party could marshal the 89 votes required for passage of a bill in the House of Representatives on a strictly partisan matter.

This resulted in intensive negotiations between the leadership of the two parties on every major issue.

When it came down to the crucial question of redistricting the state for elective districts for state legislators and for members of Congress, leaders in the House were unable to reach a compromise between the "Democratic" and the "Republican" plans, each of which was designed basically for partisan advantage.

AS THEY APPROACHED the final hours before adjournment — after which the legislature lost its jurisdiction over reapportionment — there had been no agreement.

The situation facing the leadership was that it had partisan proposals on both state and congressional redistricting about to die in the House and no proposals before the Senate.

To keep the measures alive, the leaders agreed they would pass all the proposals in the House so they could be sent to the Senate, where the compromise would be worked out.

As it happened, nearly everybody in the House voted to approve both the Republican and Democratic state maps. They did the same with the Republican congressional plan, sending it to the Senate with a vote of 146-1.

APPARENTLY THROUGH an oversight, however, the Democratic plan for congressional remapping was never brought to a vote in the House.

In the Senate, the hoped-for compromise was never reached, and all the redistricting proposals expired.

To this point, nothing had been done to disturb relations between the parties.

Republican leaders, however, later went before the three-judge panel which took over the redistricting task and cited the 146-1 approval of the Republican plan as strong bipartisan support in the legislature.

The two Republican judges apparently considered this a compelling argument and outvoted their Democratic colleague in approving the map.

The Democratic leaders now are making a belated attempt to have that map tossed out on the grounds they were lied to. Their outrage is probably as much due to chagrin at their own shortsightedness as to what they see as a broken Republican promise.

IT IS NO LESS galling to the Democratic leaders that the trap they got themselves caught in was probably not deliberately set by the Republicans.

"No one considers that what they did was done with foresight," said one Democratic representative.

"But when they realized what they had, they didn't hesitate to use it. 'None of which,' added the Democrat, 'is to say that we weren't foolish.'"

Should A College Staff Justify Its Activities?

by BETSY BROOKER

Should a college staff be expected to justify its activities to the public?

The Harper College Board of Trustees thinks so. At a meeting Thursday the board instituted a committee on accountability which will study the concept.

The committee will be composed of two administrators, two board members, two faculty members and two students. The committee will not actually implement the new concept but will do the initial groundwork. This task includes establishing potential goals and guidelines.

The committee is expected to report back to the board at the end of the school year with specific recommendations. Board members appointed to the committee include Gene Nugent and Joseph Morton.

FORMATION OF A committee on accountability was first proposed by trustee Nugent. In approving the proposal the board took the stand that "Harper College, a leader in community colleges, should continue its commitment to students and the community so that the results of educational services and experiences will be worthy of ever-increasing support."

The trustees pointed out that citizens are usually aware of the business side of a college, such as salaries and building costs, but want answers to more intangible issues. Generally, these questions concern the success of the educator in teaching and the success of the student in learning.

If accountability is implemented at Harper, it may result in the college staff taking a look at its performances to determine if it is doing as much as it can in the best way possible. The process of evaluating the staff-performance may also be refined by the committee. And a new salary program may be established which is more closely related to the performance of each staff member.

Robert Lahti, college president, approved formation of the new committee, pointing out, "your move is well in tune with what is happening on the state and national scene."

THE BOARD approved formation of the new committee after a lengthy discussion concerning the structure and objectives of the committee. Trustees Jessalyn Nicklas and Larry Moates voted against the motion to form the committee, indicating they were not opposed to the concept of accountability but to the manner in which the concept was being introduced.

At one point during the discussion, the board considered tabling the proposal until it clarified the committee's objectives and reported this information to the college staff. However, it was decided that it will be the committee's job to establish specific goals.

Swami Rama Healing Seminar Opens Today

His Holiness Swami Rama will be speaking during a three-day healing seminar which begins today at the Unity Northwest Church of the Daily Word, 1801 E. Palatine Rd., Arlington Heights.

The seminar will begin at 7:30 p.m. tonight and continue on Tuesday and Wednesday, beginning at the same time. H. H. Rama will speak on "Self Healing" tonight, "Healing Through Faith and Mind Control" tomorrow night and "Healing Others" Wednesday night.

The donation for the speeches will be $3 per night or $8 for all three nights. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

H. H. Rama is from the Himalayas in India and is an author, world lecturer and spiritual leader. His mental powers have been documented and he has been the subject of numerous articles, including one which appeared in the New York Times.

According to documented tests, he has been able to use his concentration powers to reduce his own heartbeat and to move a metal bar 30 degrees.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The letter, or rather the computer print-out, on the front of the Christmas gift catalog began as follows:

"Important final notice to the Wests. Our records show you have not made any purchases from us for quite some time even though we have sent you our catalogs regularly. Ordinarily we would remove the West name from our mailing list without notice. But we are giving you one last chance."

I went immediately to the telephone and called my lawyer, Virgil Whiplash.

"A mail order gift house is threatening to remove my name from their mailing list," I said, voice a tremble. "Can they do that to me?"

WHIPLASH GAVE a low whistle. "Looks like you're in a heap of trouble, boy," he said gravely. "How did you get yourself into a jam like that?"

"They are accusing me of not having made any purchases from them in quite some time."

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Oswald: "Your grandfather used to say that bad cards made bad players." Jim: "I guess he meant that when you hold bad cards you tend to get careless and give up."

Oswald: "Partly that — partly that a man who has been holding bad cards is likely to go berserk when he finally picks up a decent hand."

Jim: "You're right about that. Here is a hand where East should have scored a profit. Instead South wrapped up the rubber and took it home. He took his ace of spades and disgustingly returned his partner's lead."

Oswald: "A good example of the give-up play. The speed return was hopeless."

Jim: "If East had thought he would have seen that there was one chance to defeat the four heart contract. That would be to lead a diamond. Since West holds the ace of diamonds and the king of trumps this play succeeds. The defense collects two aces, the king of trumps and a diamond ruff."

Oswald: "This isn't a difficult play at all. It merely requires that East be alert enough to recognize the possibility that

"Suffering subpoenas!" Whiplash thundered. "This is more serious than I thought. Were they sending you their catalogs regularly during the period in which you allegedly failed to make any purchases?"

"I, I, ah, gu-gu-guess so," I stammered, trying not to sound too guilty. "But I don't have any conscious recollection of receiving them."

"If they have records showing they were sending you the catalogs regularly, they've got you nailed to the wall," Whiplash said. "You won't have a leg to stand on."

"Isn't there anything you can do?" I whined.

"A LOT DEPENDS on intent," the attorney replied. "If it appears you deliberately failed to order anything from a catalog that was sent to you in good faith, your goose is cooked. But if we can convince the jury that it was an inadvertent oversight, you might have a chance."

"I'll do anything," I blubbered. "I couldn't stand the humiliation of having my name dropped from a junk mail list."

"You're lucky they didn't summarily remove your name from the list without notice," Whiplash said. "At least they are giving you one last chance, which, I might add, is more than you deserve."

"What shall I do?" I cried desperately.

"My advice is to try to settle out of court."

Make It A Treat For UNICEF

There will be 3.6 million Spooks trick-or-treating for UNICEF this Halloween and this is why.

This year is UNICEF's (United Nations Children's Fund) 25th anniversary. It is giving help to one out of 10 children in the developing countries and this year's slogan is "A future for every child."

UNICEF began 25 years ago, when the nations of the world for the first time accepted their common responsibility to protect needy children in the wake of World War II. On Dec. 11, 1946, UNICEF was formed.

A massive campaign was mounted to feed and clothe the hungry and orphaned children of Europe. This was so successful that in the early 50s the task was completed and the need for UNICEF's continuing help was questioned.

THE UNITED NATIONS then took a look at the conditions under which the hundreds of millions of children in the developing countries lived. It was decided the agency that could best meet the emergency situation for educational, nutritional and medical care, was UNICEF.

The years that followed were years of change. New needs became apparent and were accepted in the agency's program. And UNICEF began to work in the fields of nutrition, basic health, disease control, education, and family and child welfare, as the provision of relief aid in emergencies that arose through the years.

These and many other long-term projects are UNICEF's daily task. Often there are additional programs of emergency relief and rehabilitation, necessitated by such conditions as the disaster in East Pakistan and the earthquake in Peru.

The United Nations Children's Fund is supported by voluntary contributions of governments, organizations, and individuals.

Today, UNICEF's income (exclusive of special emergency funds) is $50 million a year — the same amount of money the world spends on two hours of war. UNICEF has promised the world's children that by 1975 it will spend $100 million annually on their behalf.

For Control Over O'Hare

Seek Noise Pollution Law

Several Des Plaines aldermen are working for creation of a noise pollution ordinance to give the city more control over O'Hare Airport.

The city council's environmental controls committee, (created after the April election) is examining state laws, the new Illinois Constitution, and noise pollution ordinances in other cities to see if Des Plaines could be empowered to take direct legal action against airplane noise, according to committee members.

The new ordinance, which may be brought to the city council in several months for consideration, would also include controls over other noise producers, including cars, trucks, and lawnmowers.

HIGH NOISE levels — including jet engine noise — have been found by medical and psychological research to be harmful, according to committee member Ald. Alan Abrams (8th).

Noise affects the quality of life, and can cause permanent hearing damage, committee members said.

Ald. Robert Michaels (8th), committee chairman has said that the noise in his ward "shakes chandeliers and knocks dishes off shelves, and some residents say the noise is popping nails from the walls because of vibration."

Des Plaines is caught between the flight paths to two of O'Hare Airport's busiest runways at night, the aldermen said. Airplanes fly over the eighth ward every two minutes, during the day, according to Abrams.

A recent report from the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC), indicated that more of Des Plaines than any other Northwest suburb, is being subjected to high noise levels.

The report also said that by 1975 more than half of Des Plaines would be subjected to uncomfortable and unhealthy noise levels. NIPC recommended that in these areas of high noise impact, no new residential homes be constructed. Instead, only highly insulated apartment buildings should be built, to protect residents, according to report.

Unless steps are taken to reduce jet noise by 1975, the high noise impact areas will expand to the north and northeast parts of the city, to include the southern, downtown and northeastern sections of Des Plaines.

CHICAGO PLANS for O'Hare include construction of another runway, which would bring more airplanes over Des Plaines, according to Abrams.

The flightpath for this proposed runway, which Chicago can build without approval of surrounding communities, would be over several Des Plaines schools, including Dempster Junior High, 428 W. Dempster, St. Zachary School, 587 Algonquin, and a new junior high scheduled for construction, according to Abrams.

Des Plaines officials have backed suggestions of closing O'Hare at night. The northeast runway is now closed at night to cut down noise over hospitals in Park Ridge.

The Federal Aviation Administration is now studying landing and take-off techniques found successful at other major airports for reducing jet noise.

New jets, including the DC-10, with quieter engines are beginning to be used, but Michaels said 15 to 20 years will pass before DC-10's are used on a majority of flights. Ald. Abrams announced last week he would push for Illinois Environmental Protection Agency investigation, public hearings and action on O'Hare airport noise.

Abrams said that several legal and court changes recently have presented stronger possibilities that the city could gain more legal control over airport noise.

IN THE PAST, courts have ruled that cities have little control over airport authorities. But recently some court rulings, and a greater awareness of environmental problems, indicate that the federal courts may be moving from this strict rule, Abrams said.

The new Illinois constitution also granted Des Plaines new powers, which might allow more city control over O'Hare Home rule powers by the city without state legislature approval, to protect the health and welfare of its citizens, Abrams said.

Anyone Can Be People-To-People Volunteer

It's Volunteer Service Bureau Week

by SANDRA BROWNING

Stressing that anyone can be "a people to people volunteer," The Volunteer Service Bureau of Northwest Cook County will celebrate a special week beginning today.

"Volunteer" week will be celebrated in the areas covered by the bureau's five branch offices, including offices which serve Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights, Elk Grove Village, Palatine Township, Rolling Meadows and other areas.

The central coordinating unit of the bureau is under the direction of Hugh Kibbie, September's Volunteer of the Month named by the board of directors of the bureau. The bureau's main office is at Harper College, Roseville and Algonquin roads, Palatine.

The bureau was formed and continues to function on the belief that there are many individuals in the area who are interested in devoting part of their time to various agencies. The bureau provides assistance to both the agencies and the volunteers through selective placement.

COMPREHENSIVE listings of agencies and volunteers are maintained in the central coordinating unit and in the branch offices. Through a training program, agency coordinators are assisted so they may in turn help volunteers in their work. "The result is a bringing together of volunteers and agencies in a mutually rewarding situation," according to the bureau.

More than 1,800 volunteers have been placed in agencies which meet the guidelines of the bureau. One of these guidelines is the agency to be served has to be a not-for-profit organization.

Volunteers work with the juvenile court probation officers in supplying the extra touch of "someone who cares" for youthful first-time offenders. Volunteers are tutoring in the school systems, both public and parochial, assisting in the libraries and providing enrichment programs as they share their travel experiences with the youngsters to enliven their studies of those respective countries.

THE VOLUNTEER BUREAU'S SYMBOL

In other positions, volunteers are providing transportation for needy families to medical appointments, help in learning English and services such as legal assistance.

ANOTHER ASPECT of the bureau's operation is the directors of each brand office. These people are themselves volunteers.

During this week, the bureau is conducting a drive to register new volunteers. The bureau is asking that any interested residents contact the main or branch offices to register to become a volunteer. The offices will then help find a position for the volunteer, matching his time and talents with the needs of various agencies.

The central office at Harper is open from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday through Thursday and the phone number is 359-4200, ext. 230.

The Arlington Heights branch office, the oldest of the branch operations, is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mondays and Thursdays and from 9 a.m. to noon on Tuesdays and Wednesdays. The office phone number is 253-6100, ext. 223 or 392-6061.

The Lois Moore Office serving Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Inverness and immediately surrounding areas is open from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday and Thursday. The office phone number is 359-9363.

The Mount Prospect office is open from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesdays and may be reached by calling 392-6332.

THE ELK GROVE Village office is open from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Tuesdays and Fridays and may be reached by calling 298-2352. The Prospect Heights office may be reached by calling 359-4430.

The Volunteer Bureau offers speakers for any groups which are interested in hearing about the bureau's activities. Interested residents may call either the branch or main offices to arrange for a speaker.

Funds for operation of the main and branch offices are collected by donations. Larger donations to the bureau have been pledged by the Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect United Funds and various high school and elementary school districts which use volunteers placed by the bureau.

Registered Agencies List Grows

As the Volunteer Service Bureau of Northwest Cook County has continued to operate and expand during the last two years, the list of registered agencies have grown.

The list now includes more than 45 agencies which are not-for-profit organizations and which are registered with the bureau. Volunteers who register with the bureau are placed in positions in these agencies.

Among these agencies are ones which are served out of any of the five branch offices, including Campfire Girls, High School Dist. 214; Child-Development-Headstart; Cook County Hospital; 4-H Co-Operative Extension Service; Juvenile Court of Cook County; Cook County Department of Health; and Girl Scout Council of Northwest Cook County.

Agencies served specifically from the Arlington Heights branch office include the Arlington Heights Department of Health, Arlington Heights Memorial Library, Arlington Heights Park District, International Visitors Center in Chicago, Lutheran Home for the Aged and Northwest Community Hospital.

More include Northwest Mental Health Association, Northwest Special Education Organization, Our Lady of the Wayside School, St. James School, School Dist. 25 and the Northwest Suburban League of United Cerebral Palsy.

Agencies listed with the Lois Moore Branch office covering Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Inverness and surrounding areas include Clearbrook Center, Countryside Center, Harper College, Herrick House, Immanuel Lutheran School, Little City, Northwest Opportunity Center and Palatine Library.

More are Palatine Township Youth Committee, Sacred Heart of Mary High School, St. Theresa School, St. Thomas of Villanova School, School Dist. 15 and the summer migrant program in Dist. 15.

Agencies served by the Elk Grove Branch office include the Elk Grove Community Center, Hilltop Foundation, Alexian Brothers Medical Center and School Dist. 59.

Organizations listed with the Mount Prospect office include American Cancer Society, Community Services for the Visually Handicapped, Laubach Literacy Center, Mount Prospect Library, St. Raymond School and School Dist. 57.

Agencies and organizations served from the Prospect Heights branch office include Maryville Academy and School Dist. 23.

Rep. Chapman Bids To Override School-Aid Veto

A motion to override Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's veto of House Bill 1676, which affects state aid to community colleges, will be offered in Springfield early this week by State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights.

Such a motion, if approved by both houses of the Legislature, could mean as much as $480,000 to Harper College in 1971-72.

The bill, as originally passed by the House, would have raised the amount of state aid given to community colleges from $15.50 to $19 per credit hour per student.

Instead, Ogilvie reduced the appropriation, leaving the state aid at its present $15.50 figure.

Robert E. Lahti, Harper president, supported the move by Mrs. Chapman to provide more money for community colleges.

"This loss of $460,000 in 1971-72 is especially difficult to bear," said Lahti, "in view of the fact that a commitment was made in the 1964 Illinois Master Plan for Higher Education that the state share for financing operations of junior colleges should be approximately 50 per cent."

"Maintaining support at the present $15.50 level," Lahti continued, "would reduce our state aid from its current 35 per cent share to about 30 per cent."

Mrs. Chapman was chief sponsor of the Illinois Public Junior College Act creating the statewide junior college system which this fall will enroll more than 150,000 students.

Dubrow On TV

Astaire's Special Love Affair

by RICK DUBROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The never-ending love affair between theatrical audiences and Fred Astaire resumed with the extraordinary affection when the sublime dancer appeared on Dick Cavett's ABC-TV show, which ended after midnight Thursday.

It was the second time that Astaire was the sole guest with Cavett for 90 minutes. The first occasion was late last year, and was an all-around artistic and ratings success that demanded an encore, just as this one does — or, to be more specific, just as any Astaire appearance does. His is a special gracefulness that defies comparison.

I cannot recall any television programs that rate with Astaire's two outings with Cavett in terms of thrilling audience reaction.

What was thrilling on the first show, and even more so on this week's, was the honestly offered succession of impromptu cheers and applause that greeted Astaire as both a human being and a performer — a very special kind of cheering and applauding that, as before, seemed to be the audience's way of thanking him for giving us so much for so many years.

OTHER PERFORMERS get cheers and applause, but this was something different, and you could feel it in your bones. In part, it was as if the vocal admirers in the audience were trying to say how good it was to have a performer who unfailingly over the years radiated genuine modesty and graciousness rather than arrogance, tastelessness or a wise-guy know-it-all attitude.

As for the show itself, it was, again, predictably delightful and a feast of small pleasures to go with the big ones like the film clips of Astaire dancing sequences in such movies as "Funny Face" and "You Were Never Lovelier" — the latter segment almost unearthly in its wizardry.

And of course there was Astaire singing songs so that ordinary lyrics seemed to glow. As he phrased the tunes with his disarmingly direct sense of romance, he created that special warm intimacy of midnight in the piano bars of those fine small East Side hotels in New York, where, in a few special hands, the spirit of Cole Porter and Astaire lingers on.

Holy Family Administrator Leads Multi-Faceted Life

by DOROTHY OLIVER

Beneath the immaculate white habit of the nun seated at the executive's desk is a gentle, intelligent woman. Sister Mary Amata, administrator of Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, is completing her 32nd year with the Sisters of the Holy Family of Nazareth and leading a life of near total contentment.

"The only thing that keeps a person in my position not completely content is wanting to do more. If only there were more hours in a day. I receive great happiness and satisfaction from doing my best and doing it because it involves my fellow Christian brothers," Sister Amata said.

More hours in the day? It seems incredible that she fills as many as she does. By 6 a.m. Sister Amata is in the chapel for morning prayers which last until 7:15 a.m. By 7:45 a.m. she is in her office conferring with the medical staff, and arranging the remainder of her day. Her afternoon is taken up by appointments with administrative staff and department heads.

PRAYERS ARE said again at 5:15 p.m. followed by dinner and an hour spent with the other members of her religious community. After another period of praying, Sister Amata devotes the rest of her evening to meetings and professional reading ("It's my self-education.") Bedtime rolls around between 10:30 and 11 p.m.

Like many young Catholic girls, Sister Amata, then Agnes Sweeney of Wichita Falls, Tex., thought off and on of becoming a nun. She also considered a career in teaching or journalism in her teens.

After her junior year in high school she was hospitalized due to illness. The hospital was operated by Sisters of the Holy Family of Nazareth. She was impressed by the sisters and their work, and after she recovered she worked in the hospital. She decided her vocation was as a religious at 17 and entered the order.

"How one gets into religious life is a mystery of the Grace of God," said Sister Amata. "For me it was definitely a call — not a physical one. I heard no voices — but an inner conviction that I was being called into service of the church. I was determined to respond totally."

SHE SPENT HER novitiate at the Sisters of the Holy Family of Nazareth convent across the street from Holy Family Hospital. The training for the Texas order was done in the Des Plaines facility. Two and a half years later she professed her first religious vows.

"People wonder if a person at 17 knows her own mind. It depends on the maturity of the individual. I think I knew my mind at 17," she said, adding that she has never regretted her decision.

The religious in Sister Amata's order are mainly teaching and nursing nuns. Sister Amata was assigned to enter St. Mary of Nazareth School of Nursing and graduated after three years. She was appointed supervisor of medical services at the hospital and at the same time attended night school at DePaul University.

After spending a year doing staff nursing in Taos, N. M., she returned to St. Mary's as assistant director of nursing. Again she attended DePaul and Loyola University to work on a bachelor of science degree in nursing education.

That same year she made her final profession.

SISTER AMATA left nursing to attend Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C., as a full-time student and received her M. S. in 1951. Returning again to St. Mary's, she spent a year as assistant director of the school and the next 13 as director.

In 1961 the Sisters of the Holy Family of Nazareth realized a 15-year dream and opened the doors of Holy Family Hospital. They own and operate the 236 bed, non-profit hospital which employs 600 people. In 1965, Sister Amata was appointed administrator of the hospital.

"As chief executive officer I am responsible for the total administration of the hospital," Sister Amata explained. She has continued her education while in her present position and received a second master's degree, this time in business administration from the University of Chicago. Besides her administrative duties she is involved in several committees related to hospital work and religious life.

Sister Amata speaks freely of all three areas of her life — personal, hospital and religious. Religious, however, is an integral part of the other two.

"It is unfortunate, but the numbers of those entering religious life has decreased in virtually all orders. We have modernized in virtually all orders. We have modernized — but not to bring in more young women. We have simplified our habit and we have been asked to renew our religious life."

SHE EXPLAINED the process of renewal as one of "returning to the spirit of our founders to seek renewed inspiration in the principles on which they founded their order."

Could Sister Amata be considered a typical nun? Or is there any type of person suited for the vocation?

"I JUST HAPPEN to be a hospital administrator. First I am a religious." Three times a day Sister Amata engages in prayer in the chapel of the convent adjoining Holy Family Hospital.

"To be successful in religious life it takes a person with considerable potential for emotional maturity. The 'type' seems to be the better psychologically adjusted girl. An excessive introvert or extrovert might have more problems than someone more moderate. The person who loves life will probably succeed to a greater extent in total giving of herself to God and thereby be more available for the service of men."

"Some erroneously think the quiet girl who is always in chapel, doesn't like boys, etc., may be the type to become a nun. I'd like to think the 'type' is going in with her eyes wide open, knowing what she is giving and loving that giving."

As for Sister Amata, "I just happen to be a hospital administrator. First I am a religious. What I do will change — tomorrow I could be nursing, cooking or scrubbing floors. But I will always be a consecrated religious."

THE WORK DAY is over, and Sister Amata relaxes over game of Chinese checkers with members of her religious community in the convent. Her day begins early, at 6 a.m., and doesn't end till bedtime at 10:30 or 11. Yet she wishes there were more hours in the day so she could do more.

Suburban Living

Fashion

by Genie

Bob walked into a men's store recently and said, "Could you please show me a double-breasted gien plaid suit?"

"What size?" asked the clerk.

"Oh, about a 44 metric regular," replied Bob, who knew no better. He had arrived only yesterday from Germany.

Today the American clerk would only scratch his head, but in the near future he might know exactly what size was Bob's.

If the metric system is adopted in the U. S., there is the possibility that American sizes will eventually be computed in centimeters not inches.

The metric system would eliminate inches, pounds and quarts from our lives and replace them with meters, kilograms and liters. Since 90 per cent of the world is already on some sort of metric system, the United States in one of the last holdouts.

AND SO WHILE it would mean changing all the mathematic books for American school children, it would also necessitate some adjustment in the clothing sizes.

The most popular suit sizes today are expressed in multiples of two inches . . . 36, 40, 42 and 44. Converting to metric system would probably involve multiples of four centimeters (one centimeter equals 0.3937 of an inch.) They would run 88, 92, 96 etc.

Therefore, a size 36 would become an 88, or a 44 would be a 108.

However, metric experts are suggesting that a size system be established rather than use the above measurements.

Now this does become confusing. It would involve centimeter measurements in four centimeter intervals which would then be divided in half to give the size designation. A 36 inch suit would become not an 88 but a 44.

A MAN WEARING a 36 or 44 suit would have little conversion problem. However, a 40 might have to choose between a size slightly smaller or larger than his present size since he would be caught between a 48 or 50.

But don't lose any sleep over this quite yet, or convert all your present sizes.

If enacted the U. S. metric system probably would be instituted over a 10-year period. And even then, it might not result in being standardized with all the world because there is some present day confusion even within the metric system.

In West Germany and most of Europe, size intervals are at four centimeters while in Belgium they're every six.

AS FOR MANUFACTURE of men's clothing, metrication will make changes but no drastic ones. Fabrics will come in meter lengths, of course, and centimeter width and will be weighed in grams per square meter.

And of course, women will be all buying metric sticks. Hold on to your yardsticks. Someday they may be antiques.

"SELF-EDUCATION" in spiritual and job-related matters is an essential part of Sister Amata's life. A part of each evening is spent expanding her knowledge of her profession and increasing her spiritual understanding. Besides a bachelor's degree in nursing education, the Holy Family administrator holds master's degrees in science and business administration.

That's Just Sherry Nonsense

She Has The Key To Sure Security

MARY SHERRY

I suppose I'm as security-conscious as most people. I'm reasonably careful to lock the doors and windows at night and especially when I leave the house. A couple of weeks ago I had a rare opportunity to test my efficiency in this department. I locked myself out.

As soon as I heard the lock click shut when I pulled the garage door down, I knew I had left my keys inside. There I was with a few dollars in my purse, 37 credit cards and the only store within walking distance was a 7-Eleven. (The car keys were in the house too.)

I looked around to see if any neighbors were at home, but apparently everyone else thought that day was a good day to take off, for no one was around.

Because I wouldn't dream of calling my husband — at least not yet — there was obviously only one thing to do. That was to break in.

I WALKED AROUND the house looking for possible ways to gain entry. The sliding patio door was firmly latched. Each window was locked securely. I had made no mistake about the garage door. It wouldn't yield. The front door, though locked, seemed to have possibilities. Remembering the trick from a James Bond novel, I tried to slip the catch with one of the 37 credit cards. But there was a rim around the door frame that prevented this.

At this point I didn't know whether to feel secure or more frustrated. I looked in my purse to see if I could find any other useful tools and came up with a key wind-type can opener.

I worked on the front door lock with that for a while and then decided to try it on the garage. I put it part way into the lock, and it snapped open faster than if I had used the key.

LATER AS I told my story to my husband, he was very concerned. He wasn't concerned about our safety or about the fact that every cat burglar with a can opener could easily break into the house. He was concerned that I might lock myself out again.

"Of course, it's possible," I conceded, "but not likely. This is only the second time since we've been married," I reminded him.

"Well, why don't you play it safe and have an extra key made and hide it outside somewhere."

"It will be so long before I need it again that I'll have forgotten where I've hidden it," I protested.

He didn't argue but gave me a shrug that I interpreted as, "O.K. but just don't call me at the office."

"Don't worry, dear," I assured him. "I'll be all right as long as I have my can opener."

"IF YOU WANT to do it that way," he said, "but just don't put the can opener on your key chain!"

Sometimes his confidence in me is shattering. However, since that day my can opener let in a neighbor across the street who had locked herself out. After that she and I compared locks for future crises. Not only will my can opener open her back door, but her front door key fits in my front door. (Our houses are the same model.) Therefore, if I do forget my keys AND my can opener, I can still get in.

I feel a lot safer now.

A Special Bridal Bouquet

Exceptional care went into the bridal bouquet carried by Linda Ruth Seils on her wedding day. Her brother, Paul Seils, a designer at Busse Flowers in Mount Prospect, created the arrangement especially for her. It was a cascade of white roses, daisies, carnations and stephanoties with touches of ivy.

Linda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Seils of 306 N. Maple, Mount Prospect, became the bride of Edward Allen Mordue of Des Plaines on Sept. 11 in St. Paul Lutheran Church. The newlyweds are now living in Chandler, Ariz., while the bridegroom is stationed at Williams Air Force Base.

Edward's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mordue of 326 Wisconsin Drive, Des Plaines.

THE FIVE o'clock double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Clifford Kaufmann by candlelight. Yellow daisies and glads decked the altar, and yellow daisies also trimmed pew decorations for the candles which lighted the church aisle.

Linda's attendants wore navy blue organza dresses with white lace Venice bodice and wide lace cuffs on the bishop sleeves. They carried yellow daisies, white roses and baby's breath in a nose-gay bouquet.

The bride's gown was of white silk organza with peau d'ange lace trim. The lace motif covered the Empire bodice and accented the bishop sleeves and flowing skirt and train. A small lace bow held Linda's shoulder-length veil of nylon tulle.

Kathy Piepenbrink of Mount Prospect was maid of honor, while Paul's wife,

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mordue

Linda Seils, Hoffman Estates; Wendie Seils, a cousin from Elmhurst; and Kathy Mordue, sister of the groom, served as bridesmaids.

GEORGE DOLAN of Des Plaines was best man, and ushers were the couple's brothers, Tim Mordue and Paul Seils, and Lester Worchester of Mount Prospect.

For the reception dinner afterwards at the Camelot Restaurant, Mrs. Seils greeted in a mint green dress and Mrs. Mordue in light green, each with an orchid corsage. Dancing followed dinner for the 170 guests.

The newlyweds had a week's honeymoon in California before settling in Arizona.

Linda is a graduate of Prospect High School and Harper College and was a legal secretary until her marriage. Edward attended Maine West High School.

They Grew Up Together

Patricia JoAnn Lundstrom and David E. Lundie grew up together and on Sept. 12 they were married in Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses in Palatine.

PATRICIA, daughter of the Knute Lundstroms, 259 Harrison, Palatine, and David, son of Elmer Lundie, Garden Grove, Calif., and Mrs. Helen Lundie, of Ohio, both attended Pleasant Hill School, Palatine. Patricia went on to Fremd, and David, having moved from Palatine to Arlington Heights, went to Forest View; however, he was graduated from a California high school. He is now with International Quadrasonic at Newport Beach, Calif., and he and his bride are living in Garden Grove.

A white polyester and embroidered sheer with Empire waistline and long, embroidered train was Patricia's choice in wedding gown. A bow held her shoulder-length veil, and she carried red tea roses and white carnations.

PATRICIA WAS attended by her two sisters, Mrs. Jeanne Warren as matron of honor, and Mrs. Susan Tschantz as bridesmaid. Both are from Palatine. Their blue polyester gowns featured long sleeves and borders of multicolor flowers at the wrists and hems. They carried multi-color flowers.

Lincoln Hern of California was the groom's best man, and Richard Tschantz, brother-in-law of the bride, was usher.

Newlyweds Live In Peoria

The Richard Niemeyer family of 125 S. Highland, Arlington Heights, was in Peoria the weekend of Sept. 11 for the wedding of John Niemeyer and Roseann Way. The bride and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil E. Way, live in Peoria, and John is now working there.

A graduate of Arlington High School, he is assistant manager of Baker's Shoes at Sheridan Village, and his bride works at the local K-Mart Plaza.

The couple exchanged vows and rings in St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church at 11:30 Mass. A reception followed at St. Boniface School Hall. That evening a buffet supper at the home of the bride's parents also honored the newlyweds.

A RAINBOW setting surrounded Roseann as she entered the sanctuary. She wore the traditional bridal white, but her attendants wore pastel shades of avocado, pink, yellow, lavender and blue, each with a white pattern overlay on the colored sheer, with matching headpieces and veils. They carried white carnations tied with colored ribbons to match their gowns.

Christine Way, sister of the bride, wore pale avocado sheer as she stood at the altar as maid of honor. Bridesmaids Mary Flynn, Janet Knoblocks and Debra Schnackenburg, all of Peoria, wore the pink, yellow and lavender hues. Flower girl Sue Peters, 6, of Peoria was dressed in blue to match the adult attendants.

Roseann wore a white satin bridal gown, styled with a wide panel of lace down the front, the panel also edged with a ruffle of lace, and with lace sleeves ruffled at the wrist. A deep pleat in back was ruffled with lace and ended in a chapel train. A headpiece of white leaves held Roseann's elbow-length veil, and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

JOHN HAD his brother, Daniel, as best man. Groomsmen were Cecil E. Way Jr., the bride's brother, and Arlington friends of the groom, Richard Stoffels and James Bublitz.

Steve Higgs and Richard Arnold of Peoria ushered. Gregory Diemer, 5, of Peoria was ring bearer.

Pink crepe and lace was chosen by Mrs. Way for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Niemeyer wore turquoise, and each

Mr. and Mrs. John Niemeyer mother had white roses for a corsage. After a week's honeymoon in Illinois, Iowa and Missouri, John and Roseann are living in an apartment in Peoria.

One Wedding Leads To Another

Weddings have a way of radiating romance to those in attendance. Proof of that is the recent marriage of Sheila Mae Lass of Arlington Heights and David Francis Streit of River Grove. They met at a wedding a year and a half ago, fell in love, and were married Sept. 11 in Immanuel Lutheran Church, Palatine.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip R. Lass, 204 E. Knob Hill Drive, works at Hillman's Grocery at Mount Prospect Plaza. The groom is employed at Lockheed Air Terminal at O'Hare Field. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Streit of Stacyville, Iowa.

FOR THE FOUR o'clock nuptials, Sheila wore an ivory all-over lace gown with a high scalloped neckline, long sleeves and a chapel train. The lace was enhanced with a pattern of tiny beading. A beaded lace headpiece held the bride's shoulder-length veil, and her bouquet was a spray of white rose, orchids and stephanotis.

She chose Elnor J. Goes of Milwaukee as maid of honor. Her cousins, Linda Poehls, Northbrook, and Nancy Williams, Des Plaines; and the groom's sister Rose were bridesmaids.

Dave's brother Rob was his best man and another brother, Joe Streit, was among the ushers. Also seating the guests were Ed Brown, Dubuque, Iowa; Ken Gerk, Stacyville; and John Lonto and Mike Diak of Chicago.

The bride's attendants were gowned alike in apricot dresses and carried sprays of fall flowers tied with brown ribbons.

Mr. and Mrs. David Streit

Also in the wedding party were Teresa Scheltens, 10, of River Grove as flower girl and Andrew Streit, 11, the groom's brother, as ring bearer. Teresa is the groom's cousin.

MR. AND MRS. LASS hosted a reception at Bensenville Firehall for 300 guests after the wedding. Mrs. Lass and Mrs.

Streit both chose blue dresses for the festivities.

Sheila and Dave honeymooned in northern Wisconsin and are making their home in River Grove.

Sheila is a graduate of Hersey High School and attended the American School of Beauty Culture.

Law Protects Homeowners

New state and federal legislation is constantly being enacted to prevent accidental injury or death to homeowners, their families and their guests.

But no safety regulations, or even safer products, can prevent tragic accidents in the home if they are not actively enforced and supported both by industry and by the personal care and attentiveness of homeowners themselves.

Typical of new safety laws is the recently enacted federal Poison Prevention Act, under which the U.S. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare may compel child-resistant packaging for such potentially poisonous products as cleaning agents, cosmetics, insecticides, medicines and fuels.

Another precautionary law now passed in many states and pending in a number of others, requires installation of approved safety glazing materials in high traffic areas of homes and public buildings.

THIS WOULD INCLUDE a requirement that storm door windows, sliding doors and bath and shower enclosures be made of materials such as Plexiglas acrylic sheet which have greater break-resistance than glass.

When such materials shatter, they break into large, relatively dull-edged pieces, as opposed to razor sharp shivers of ordinary glass.

Many other products and devices now are available to the homeowner to safeguard his home and to prevent accidents.

They include improved insulated electrical wiring, fabrics treated with flame retardants, rubber bath mats and appliances to prevent injuries from slips and falls and caps to cover unused electrical outlets.

Ivyane Maruska

Joyce Hansen

Planning a Jan. 8, 1972 wedding are Ivyane Maruska and Morris Lee Fountain. The couple's engagement and approaching marriage are announced by Ivyane's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Maruska of Palatine. Her fiancé is the son of the Lawrence Fountains of Salem, Ark.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Palatine High School and works for Perfection Spring and Stamping. Morris is presently in training at the U.S. Naval Station at Great Lakes, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Hansen of Schiller Street, Palatine, announce the engagement of their daughter, Joyce Marie, to Myron I. Kuhlman, son of Armine R. Kuhlman of Newell, S.D.

A November wedding is planned. Joyce was graduated from Palatine High School and is a senior at the University of Illinois, Champaign. Her fiancé has a bachelor's degree from Purdue University, a master's from the U of I and is working on his PhD there in chemical engineering.

Next On The Agenda

WHEELING WOMAN'S CLUB
"Furs" by Jack Slade will be the program Wednesday for Wheeling Woman's Club. Members and guests will meet at 8 p.m. in the Old Church in Chamber of Commerce Park on N. Wolf Road.

HOFFMAN-SCHAUMBURG NEWCOMERS

Mr. Roberts, a psychic in the field of telepathy, will be guest speaker at Thursday evening's meeting of Hoffman-Schaumburg Newcomers Club. A social hour begins at 7 and the meeting at 8.

Husbands of the members are invited to this program.
Ladies Day for the newcomers is Tuesday, Oct. 26, when they go horseback riding at Springhill Farm in Algonquin. Those who are going riding must make a deposit at Thursday's meeting. Mrs. Don Searock, 529-8765, or Mrs. Len Wisniewski, 894-1272, can be called for details.

Reservations for the club's halloween party should also be made at the meeting.

ing Thursday. The costume party is set for Saturday, Oct. 30, at Golden Acres Country Club. Guests are welcome. Mr. Ken Mullins, 894-6793, is in charge of reservations.

SCRIMSHAW QUESTERS
The October meeting of Scrimshaw Chapter of Questers is Thursday at the home of Mrs. Rodney Wilson, 907 S. Elmhurst Road, Mount Prospect.

Mrs. Wilson will give a program on "Antique Molds," which she has acquired over the years.

COUNTRYSIDE 'Y' DISTAFFS
Countrywide YMCA Distaffs are planning a fun evening for Thursday's meeting. The fun starts at 8 o'clock with an auction of baked goods, white elephants, handicraft, decorations and other miscellany.

Mrs. Leonard Newendorp will be auctioneer; Mrs. William Stephens, ways and means chairman, is in charge of the event.

The Distaffs meet in Palatine Savings and Loan building.

Elegant Elephants Parade At Service League Luncheon

Here is an opportunity to acquire a unique buffet server... an unused wedding gift... a stainless steel casserole set. They are all "elegant elephants" — just a small sample of the wide array of merchandise that will be on sale at the ninth annual "Elegant Elephant" luncheon on Wednesday, Oct. 27.

"Last year, the 'elegant elephants' ranged from household items to a nine millimeter drop pearl with chip diamonds and a pin with 20 seed pearls and a sapphire," said Mrs. Alfred Prickett, benefit director.

Sponsored by the Service League of Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, the affair will begin at 11 a.m. at Nordic Hills Country Club, Itasca, located south of Irving Park Road on Route 53. The luncheon and featured entertainment will follow the sale. Sulee Harand, "a complete cast of one," will present a musical book review of the play "Fanny."

Tickets at $7 may be ordered from the Service League office at Lutheran General. Guests are asked to bring an "elegant elephant." Selected items from the Service League gift shop and specialties from the creative arts workshop will also be on sale.

Items not purchased at the benefit will go on sale at the Service League Thrift Shop, 712 Lee St., Des Plaines.

Beth Tikvah Plans A 'Spooky Splash'

A "Spooky Splash Party" is the seasonal event planned for the Mr. and Mrs. Club of Beth Tikvah Congregation in Hoffman Estates. The date is Saturday, Oct. 30, at O'Hareport Hotel and includes swimming, a buffet dinner and bar.

Splash off time is 8 p.m. Guests are welcome. Reservations should be made with Mrs. P. Needel, 885-1368, by Saturday (Oct. 23).

Club Sells Candy In Schaumburg

Schaumburg Woman's Club is anticipating Halloween trick-or-treat night by selling candy to area residents so they will be ready for the ghosts and goblins who ring their doorbells.

The club members will dress in costumes and sell candy from door to door Thursday and Friday evenings this week from 7:30 to 10 o'clock. All proceeds from the sales will go to brain research, a main philanthropy of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. John Brandenburg is club chairman of this project.

The Brain Research Foundation, created in 1953, promotes research on brain damage and gives care to persons suffering from brain-related illnesses. With the University of Chicago, the Foundation has created a Brain Research Institute.

At ORT Convention

Three local members of Women's American ORT (Organization for Rehabilitation through Training) are in Miami, Fla., this week for the 21st biennial national convention of ORT.

Mrs. Norman Katz and Mrs. Ronald Fischer, both of Buffalo Grove, and Mrs. Emil G. Hirsch of Hanover Park are among 1700 women from 700 chapters who are working to find new ways of expanding the global ORT program to meet the increasing demands for vocational training.

Who's Got The Best Brains?

by PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — Know what to do when you tire of arguing about which came first, chicken or egg?

Start an argument over who's smarter — males or females.

All except traitors among males will claim their sex has the claim on intellectual superiority. Ditto for all except traitors among the females who know, by their women's intuition, that women have cornered the homo sapiens market on brightness.

The debate over who's got the best brains now has some fuel to mix with its emotion, thanks to the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP), a project of the Education Commission of the States in Denver.

Based on a survey that drew on 80,000 young Americans, we at least know a little more about the brainpower, based on sex, in the fields of science and writing.

First, consider science.
"MALES PERFORM better than females... but they aren't in the same league when it comes to knowledge of the human reproduction and birth aspects of biological science," NAEP reported.

The superior rating for males came from their much better performance on physical science exercises such as the following:

"Most of the chemical energy burned in a car is not used to move the car but is converted into: electricity, heat, light, magnetism, sound, I don't know or no response."

Thirty-three per cent more males than females got the answer right: "heat."

In contrast, in a biological science exercise which asked, "Which of the following organs in mammals produces sperm? adrenal glands, kidneys, liver, pancreas, testes, I don't know or no response," two per cent more women than men recognized that sperm is produced by the testes.

WHERE WRITING is concerned, NAEP finds that girls do consistently better than boys. The better performance of females was not so apparent at ages 9 and 13 where girls did about one per cent better than the boys as it was by age 17 and older. In the older age bracket, women typically did about three per cent better than the males.

The Home Line

by DOROTHY RITZ

Dear Dorothy: For the first time we are moving into a home that's serviced by a septic tank. This being a new experience for us, we'd welcome any particular do's and don'ts. Just thought knowing a little about it might help prevent trouble. — ALK.

We had a septic tank for years and had not the slightest trouble. All we did was to follow the rules — and they are quite simple. Items like paper towels, newspapers, wrapping paper, rags or sticks should never be flushed down the toilet. They may not decompose and could lead to clogging of the plumbing and disposal system.

Depending on the number of people in the household, we were told the tank should be cleaned about every five years, which we did. There are any number of firms that clean these tanks. When we thought of getting a garbage disposer, we checked with the health department (which, as a rule, has the plans of most septic tank systems) and learned our tank was too small. Never having had a disposer, never knew what I missed. In short, ordinary prudence should give you worry-free service.

Dear Dorothy: Recently purchased a chunky-type necktie. After wearing it for a while, I found it leaves a black mark on my sweaters. Is there anything I can use on the metal to keep the color on the necktie and off the sweaters? — Maxine Fiedler.

The usual practice to keep costume jewelry from making marks on things is to coat it with colorless nail polish. Give it a try.

Dear Dorothy: In the fall, everything I plan to process for future use gets ripe at the same time — and it's almost impossible to do it all at the same time. I find if I cook the grapes and crabapples and let the juice drip through the jelly bag (separately, of course) I can freeze it and make the jelly later on in the winter — when I have more time. — Mrs. Ben S.

Lose Weight Class At 'Y'

Want to try a healthful way to take off doing it? Northwest Suburban YMCA is offering a 7-week course aimed at doing just that before the holidays.

It starts the first week in November and meets in two sessions; one Monday evenings, the other Wednesday mornings. The Monday class is 7:45 to 10 p.m.; the Wednesday one, 9:15 to 11:30 a.m. Babysitting is available in the morning session.

This is a group therapy diet, health and charm course, including a weekly, personal check on weight, measurements and daily in-take charts. Menu planning around low calorie foods, diets, exercise, posture, hairstyling and makeup fill the sessions.

Registration is now open by calling the 'Y' at 296-3376, or stopping at the 'Y' office, 300 E. Northwest Hwy., Des Plaines.

Abolish Secrecy In Land Trusts

There's nothing like a little advance knowledge to help in turning a profit.

That basic truth is again bubbling as an issue in Illinois, with two moves afoot in the General Assembly to scuttle the special protections of secret land trusts.

Land trusts are agreements whereby a trustee — the most commonly known being the Chicago Title and Trust Co. — can hold title to a piece of land while the actual owner or owners actually maintain control, and remain nameless.

It's a sheltering device open to real abuse, such as protecting the anonymity of slum landlords, or — more currently to the point — allowing politicians and public officials to hide interests in property and make money with knowledge of upcoming highway construction or governmental land purchase. They have an inside track to which few others are privy.

Most recently, the import of secret land trusts was underlined in the case of Secretary of State John Lewis, who through such a trust was able to hold an interest in Cahokia Downs Race Track, and transfer it to his daughter.

The trusts are a peculiarity of Illinois and only a few other states, where in fact they are called Illinois land trusts, because they were first devised here.

There is no law formally legalizing them, but they repeatedly have been upheld in court tests.

We think the time is at hand for a law on secret land trusts — not to uphold them, but to strip away their special protections.

There's not much optimism for such a statute getting passed. In the last General Assembly, four bills were introduced that would have done away with secret land trusts, and all four died without even getting to the floor.

Now, two new and separate thrusts are being launched to combat the abuses of the trusts. Rep. Anthony Scariano, D-Park Forest, is having two bills drawn up: one would prohibit the existence of any and all secret land trusts and require the names of all beneficiaries; the other would prohibit trusts established for the purpose of hiding ownership, but would allow temporary secret trusts to avoid driving up the cost of land being acquired for development.

The House Ethics in Government Commission, under Rep. George Lindberg, R-Crystal Lake, is working on a bill to require elected and appointed officials, as well as candidates for office, to reveal their interests in secret land trusts.

Action clearly is needed, and at this point we'd settle for either Scariano's softer approach, or that being drafted by the Lindberg committee.

Both would go a long way toward correcting the abuses, and at the same time allow temporary secrecy where it is legitimate — such as in allowing a developer to bargain for land without being hijacked.

What the state should not — and cannot — tolerate any longer is the cloak of secrecy that allows public officials to make substantial and questionable private gains, and never be answerable for it.

Deadly Play On Words

Much of the recent violence in Northern Ireland has erupted over the government's wholesale internment, or imprisonment, without trial of suspected members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

In the typographical nature of things, the word has sometimes appeared in news stories as "internment," or burial.

In view of the fact that the internments may have buried hopes of a peaceful reconciliation between Catholics and Protestants in Northern Ireland, and that the internments of victims of the violence have more than once been the scene or the occasion of renewed violence, this accidental play on words is heartbreakingly apt.

Living Up To Doc Welby

There's such a thing as too good an image.

It's reported that some doctors are annoyed by the popularity of the nation's most familiar family doctor, Marcus Welby, M.D., who first gained fame as a movie actor named Robert Young.

It seems that having watched Doc Welby's bedside manner on television, his intense empathy with his patients — yea, his willingness to make house calls even a lot of people are beginning to expect the same sort of impractical behavior from their own doctors.

They didn't get away with that stuff when surly Ben Casey was around.

In the meantime, as the 23rd annual convention of the American Academy of General Practice got under way in Miami Beach, one of the first orders of business was to vote on a proposed amendment to change the name to The American Academy of Family Physicians.

And guess whose picture is on the cover of the official AAGP program, hands professionally draped in the pockets of his white coat, stethoscope around his neck? Marcus Welby, of course.

Oil Company Probe Urged

I am writing to ask if the major oil companies and their retailers pay the Herald for the continuous barrage of oil dealer association articles lauding the poor retailers for their efforts to maintain high gasoline prices. The continued articles claiming "normal prices," "normal levels" and warnings of poor service if gasoline prices are lowered are oil companies marketing men's dream come true.

The truth of the matter is that the oil companies and the oil dealers associations should be investigated by the appropriate federal and state governmental bodies for attempting to fix prices and stifle competition.

The oil companies want four stations at every street intersection regardless of need, not caring if the operators can survive on the limited business available or whether prices of gas and service to the consumer are higher because of inadequate volume.

The appropriate solution is half the stations, twice the volume per station and lower prices. Hooray for competition.

Gov. Wallace Scores

Score one for Gov. George Wallace for his anti-busing bill. That bill allows parents to choose the schools for their children, regardless of Federal court order. It further provides that a parent can determine whether the time or distance in busing would be such that a child's safety or health would be endangered and whether educational process would be impaired.

Governor Wallace, when signing the bill, stated, "I hope parents, black and white, who have been burdened by Federal court orders calling for senseless busing of school children over several miles will take advantage of this legislation and make requests for their children to be admitted to the school of their choice."

In working for a private corporation, I commute 28 miles a day. I most certainly am opposed to legislation or court orders that would make my daughter commuted.

Nixon China Trip Opposed

The Elk Grove Village Chapter of The John Birch Society is taking part in the nation wide campaign of the Society — Under the firm and direct appeal, "Please, Mr. President, Do Not Go!" our nationwide conservative group is urging President Nixon to cancel his plans to visit Red China.

The plea appears in the form of a four-page "Protest Letter" to the President, with spaces at the end for five signatures. Members and friends of the anti-Communist organization are being asked to get the letters signed and sent directly to the White House. The Birch Society reports that already, nearly two million copies of the letter are in circulation.

"We are convinced that a visit by our President to the murderous criminals who control mainland China would be disastrous for all freedom-loving people. It would mean a betrayal of our anti-Communist allies in Asia, as well as an abandonment of millions of Chinese who are suffering under one of the most despotic tyrannies in history."

In a recent U. S. Senate Subcommittee report — entitled, "The Human Cost of Communism in China," Mao Tse Tung, Chou En Lai, and their band of cut-throats have murdered somewhere between 34 million and 63 million of their fellow Chinese while consolidating and maintaining their power. To treat these barbarians as a legitimate government, to have the President of the United States meet with them as equals, and to accept them as the rulers of the Chinese people would be a betrayal of all that this country represents."

The "Protest Letter" to the President cites a number of reasons why the visit would be unwise. These include the fact that the United States is still technically at war in Korea with Red China, that Red Chinese arms and equipment still fuel North Vietnam's war effort, that Red Chinese propaganda and direction support revolutionary activities in this country and around the world, and that, despite claims to the contrary, Red China is still the leading producer and exporter of heroin and opium. In fact, "Communist China has only two significant exports: drugs and revolution. And both bring enslavement and death!"

In announcing the Birch campaign, dent of the anti-Communist organization, declared: "Our undertaking is to persuade the President to call off his trip to Peking altogether. In that effort we need to bring more patriotic Americans to understand better what is involved in the visit; and to bring those who do understand to make their protests more numerous and more emphatic."

The campaign is meeting with a very good reception in Elk Grove Village, and most persons who read the "Protest Letter" agree to sign it. Copies of the letter are available upon request, simply by writing to me at 467 Cedar Lane.

There are too many people who never write Congress, to the press, and especially to the President. We feel that this is a good opportunity for concerned Americans to exercise their right to speak out on a major issue. And the cause could not be more important."

Meaning Of The Republic

Below is a definition of our Republic which I was so impressed with that I thought your reading public might also appreciate it. I wish I could say I was responsible for its origin but I have to admit that the author is unknown.

"AND TO THE REPUBLIC..."

Our Republic was never created to be a leveler of men. It was created to be a lifter, a developer of men.

Our Republic was created to let the gifted, the energetic, and the creative rise to new heights of achievement, and to let each man find his own level on the stairway of existence.

Our Republic was created to encourage men to meet their personal responsibilities and to shirk no public duties. It is why our people have always been concerned about the honest needs of their fellow citizens, the chief of these needs being liberty, justice, and opportunity.

Our Republic demands that the nation be governed by the capable, the honorable, the far-seeing, the clear-seeing, and not by mediocre men. In the beginning it was so. May it be so again.

Our Republic demands more from men than any other system in the realm of self-discipline, dependability, cooperativeness, industry, thrift, and honor. For anyone to foster class consciousness, class conflict, misrepresentation, covetousness, violence, theft, and an open defiance of established law — even when done "legally" — is to breed anarchy and tyranny.

Our Republic was not designed to interfere with the unalienable right of its people to be masters of their own destinies.

Our Republic was established to make men free!"

Put Money Where Mouth Is

My letter is in regard to your editorial which was in the Oct. 6 paper about giving a break to senior citizens. I most heartily agree with your stand as I entered this age bracket several years ago. Since retiring I have more leisure time fixed incomes.

on my hands and less money than ever in my life. It would sure be nice to save a few dollars here and there if someone would give a break to those of us on fixed incomes.

Your editorial is almost like the pot calling the kettle black, however. It would sure be nice if your newspaper gave the senior citizen a break by offering a special rate for a newspaper subscription. Many of the local newspapers in the suburbs do just that.

Senior citizens are probably some of your most thorough readers as we have a lot of time to spend with our newspapers. I hope Paddock takes its own advice and gives us a break.

Working Together To Help Handicapped

I recently read the article by Betsy Brooker in "Education Today" column. It was a good article about programs for the handicapped in the northwest suburban area and she did an excellent job outlining many services for the handicapped and the important role of NSSEO.

I would like to add to her comments about private centers such as the Clearbrook Center in Rolling Meadows. As Mrs. Brooker indicated in her article, there is a close working relationship between Clearbrook and the public school special education programs. Many preschool children who have attended Clear-brook's programs move into the public school programs when they are five years old.

There are also joint programs with Clearbrook's young adult vocational training center, which is housed in Elk Grove Village. Some high school age students receive academic training at NSSEO's Kirk Center and vocational training in the Clearbrook program. Many mentally handicapped children at Kirk Center will eventually move into Clearbrook or Countryside's sheltered workshop for long term sheltered employment after they pass school age.

Very clear cut codes and regulations guide school personnel in placement of a handicapped child in Kirk Center or a private facility such as Clearbrook. Though more severely handicapped school age children would tend to be placed in a private facility, not all individuals representing other agencies continue to work together to provide comprehensive services to the handicapped in the northwest suburban area.

Business Today

by LEROY POPE

NEW YORK UPI — The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. Ma Bell at last has started cracking down on the "phone phreaks" who have developed an underground toll-free telephone network that girdles the globe at the expense of the telephone companies.

A number of arrests of Phone Phreaks have occurred in several states in recent months and the Phone Phreaks admit AT&T has managed to curtail their free-loading activities a little by shutting off a few of the complicated methods they used for making toll free calls from pay stations in any American town to Moscow, Paris or just across the United States.

Nevertheless, the Phone Phreaks, who surfaced about 10 years ago, still are in business. In addition, a large number of other chiselers manage to "rip off" free long distance calls by simpler devices than the blue boxes or multiple frequency tone generators the "phreaks" use.

College kids, bookmakers and chiseling business men dupe long distance operators into putting through supposedly paid calls for them by using a tape recording that imitates the sounds of the correct combination of coins dropping into the pay phone's coin box.

Why did Ma Bell wait so long to crack down?

"In the first place it was, for a long time, next to impossible to catch them," an AT&T spokesman said. "Secondly, the public notion that the Phone Phreaks and other chiselers are stealing the telephone companies' blind simply isn't true. They are more a nuisance, but we are not prosecuting them as a matter of principle."

In fact, AT&T estimates that its total loss of revenue to the Phone Phreaks may be only $500,000 a year — which to Ma Bell is about as important as if you lost a one dollar bill. The telephone companies lose more money simply through inability to service pay phones because of lack of skilled manpower. Too many pay phones are constantly out of order.

Sometimes the service men can't empty coin boxes fast enough. They get so full people can't even force in a dime to call an operator.

In a recent article in Esquire magazine, unidentified Phone Phreaks boasted that as few as three of them could tie up the entire long distance telephone system of the United States if they chose to play ball with militant revolutionaries.

"Plain nonsense and fantasy," said a Bell spokesman.

Kemper Insurance Complex To Open

More than 1,700 employees, from analysts to secretaries and executives, will shift their place of employment as the Kemper Insurance group moves from its Chicago offices to new home office complex headquarters in Long Grove. The move is planned for Nov. 28, on Thanksgiving weekend.

The 500,000 square foot, three-story office is situated on 500 acres of land.

"In this new location we have an easily expandable building convenient to urban Chicago and O'Hare Airport via interstate highways," said James S. Kemper Jr., president of the major companies of the Kemper group. "This rural site provides a friendly atmosphere for employees and their families and permits room for future expansion and other development in a carefully preserved natural environment."

The Kemper group will expand and improve its training facilities. Plans call for about 14,000 square feet of space for eight classrooms, a lounge and a taping studio. The facility will be equipped with provisions for audio-visuals and television. Additional facilities will be provided in the Kemper library which will have individual study space.

AS PREVIOUSLY announced, the Kemper move initiates one of the largest simultaneous IBM computer installations ever undertaken. Frank H. Hoffman, manager of the data processing department of Kemper, announced that coincident with Kemper's move will be the installation of two of the latest, most powerful computer systems, IBM's 370/166 and 370/155.

The facility will include a large meeting room, an employee lounge, modern cafeteria and a number of conference rooms throughout the building. These rooms will be available to company-sponsored groups and special interest groups for meetings.

A notions store, baking shop, barber shop, laundry and dry cleaning service will be included in the new office complex as well as a chapel.

Six bus routes will be provided from Chicago for the Kemper employees.

W. E. O'Neil Construction Co. of Chicago is the general contractor for the new Kemper building.

COMPANIES IN THE Kemper group slated to move to the new offices are: Lumbermans Mutual Casualty Co., American Motorists Insurance Co., American Manufacturers Mutual Insurance Co., Federal Mutual Insurance Co., Kemper Security Insurance Co. and Kemperco Reinsurance Co. Fidelity Life Association and Federal Kemper Life Assurance Co., both located in Fulton, will be relocated in Long Grove next year. This office will eventually serve over one million auto and homeowner policies.

Other firms in the Kemper group are moving to Long Grove this fall. They are: Central Mortgage Co., National Agents Service Co., Kemper Securities Sales Co., National Loss Control Service Corp. and Kemperco, Inc. (a holding company).

MOVING DAY is approaching for Kemper Insurance building is shown above. Plans call for 14,000 square group employees as its new headquarters building in feet of space in the 500,000 square foot building as Long Grove nears completion. The three-story office training facilities.

Vets Job Rights Get Review

During 1971 approximately one million Americans will return to civilian life after having served in the Armed Forces, according to Commerce Clearing House (CCH).

An article in the September issue of CCH's Labor Law Journal on Veterans' reemployment rights notes that it has been ruled that veterans' reemployment rights and privileges are not affected by the present wage freeze.

The review of the law, court decisions and actual practice surrounding this subject is co-authored by Rudolph Oswald, economist with the AFL-CIO Department of Research and Douglas Smyth, an education specialist in the AFL-CIO's Labor Studies Center in Washington, D.C.

The article discusses, in addition to the right to job reinstatement, veterans' rights to promotions, special status as probationary employees, severance pay, vacation benefits, pensions and other fringe benefits.

The Labor Law Journal is published monthly by the nationally-known tax and business law publisher, located at 4025 W. Peterson Ave., Chicago, Ill., 60646. Subscription is $20 a year. Single copies are $2.

Select Correct Tires

Washington, D.C. — The careful buyer wouldn't purchase a new suit before making sure it fit, and this precaution is just as important in selecting replacement tires for your car, according to the Tire Industry Safety Council.

The council warns that interchangeability from the original set of tires to a new size and type may not always be possible.

When interchanging tire sets (between types of manufacturers' recommended options) fender clearances as related to tire dimensions and load ratings must be considered.

In recent years the profile of some types of tires has been widened for increased load capacity and a smoother ride. With the variety and number of vehicles on the road today, options should be checked before purchase of replacement tires.

The buyer can't "slip on" four tires the way he would a suit jacket, so it is most important to check the owner's manual or tire instructions affixed to the vehicle for the manufacturer's recommendations before you replace tires.

This caution on interchangeability is especially important where older cars are concerned. As an example, a car made in 1965 may have come with a tire size designated 7.75-14, the tire 7.75 inches across when inflated and the rim diameter 14 inches. Some of the newer, wide or lower profile tires, though the same rim size, may not fully clear the older car's fender in turning.

Another important point to remember, recommends council chairman Ross R. Ormsby, is never to buy replacement tires smaller than the originals. He adds, "They can't withstand the load capacity of the car, resulting in adverse handling and stability and possible serious effects on the braking capacity."

Radial tires or "60 Series" tires should not be mixed with other tires sizes or types, nor applied to any vehicle unless

by CARLTON SMITH

John P. Riebel is an optimist. He is convinced that anyone who has been addicted to writing stodgy, stuffy, lackluster and barely intelligible business letters can be educated, in 15 days, to the writing of letters that convey ideas clearly and forcefully, with personality and warmth.

Even if you believe that's overly optimistic, it might well pay you — literally, in dollars and cents — to heed Riebel's message. In today's business world, as he points out, almost no activity is performed without being somehow accompanied by a piece of paper. And the letters, or other pieces of paper, are to the businessman what tools are to the craftsman.

They are sharp and well-tempered, cutting cleanly or doing the job efficiently — or they're dull and ill-suited to the job, producing unhappy and uneconomic results. One of the nation's more eminent merchandisers, Marshall Field, making his nominations for the three most important qualifications for the successful business career, included among them "the ability to write good letters."

So Riebel can give you this ability in 15 days? So he says, in the preface to his book, "How to Write Successful Business Letters." It's organized around a three-week regimen of reading and practice — and if it doesn't quite transform your letters into scintillating masterpieces of business correspondence, it should at least contribute substantial improvement.

RIEBEL'S OPENING thesis is that we've inherited a stiff, artificial style left over from the 19th century: "Yours of the 15th ult. received and contents noted." Forget "business style," he pleads and use the words that one human being uses in speaking to another human being — natural, sincere, warm, to the point.

That may sound a little like saying, "Learn to have a better personality" — but the author doesn't leave you with just the preachment. He leads the reader through numerous examples of how to and how not to, and lists of rules that summarize the lessons.

Beyond this, Riebel deals with the mechanics of structuring a good letter. He denies that business letters are divided into "types," with resultant models that can be followed in writing any of the several kinds. His five-point recipe for what goes into the beginning, the middle and the end of a letter is designed to provide structural guidelines for whatever kind you're writing.

THE FACT THAT this "how-to" book, in an earlier edition, has been around for almost 18 years may say something about it. Now it's out in a second edition, published by Arco — $4 for the 276-page oversize paperback, $6.95 in hard covers. And if the Riebel 15-day method could produce only a 50 per cent improvement in the nation's business correspondence — even if it took 15 months, or 50 — the author should be entitled to a medal.

Maybe he should get one for the book's appendix, listing 123 hackneyed expressions nominated for oblivion. Just eliminating those from our yearly tons of business correspondence would help a lot.

WHAT'S SO DIFFERENT ABOUT OUR SAVINGS ACCOUNTS?

Waiting in line is out of date! We, at Northwest, have eliminated the waiting in line at interest time. Each savings account customer is furnished a completely itemized statement of deposits, withdrawals, and interest at the end of every calendar quarter.

We have developed a savings system geared to the customer. — and here is how it works

1 Each savings account earns daily interest at the highest legal rate. Earnings start with the day of deposit and continue to the day of withdrawal with interest being compounded quarterly.

2 A completely itemized statement showing all transactions is mailed to each saver. We do the bookkeeping for you and eliminate the need for a special trip to the bank just to have your interest posted.

3 Your signature is your guarantee of safety. No need to worry about lost or misplaced passbooks.

4 You can go to any teller and receive personal service immediately.

5 If you prefer to bank by mail, we pay postage both ways.

6 You may save automatically by transferring each month from your checking to savings account.

Elk Grove Stops Forest View In Showdown, 23-22

by JIM COOK

A simple blue pill called "Compose." Without it, you were risking anything from a severe case of bloody fingernails to complete cardiac arrest.

It was like following a tennis ball in a professional match. Elk Grove and Forest View played on a seesaw until both the Falcons offense and the clock ran out with the Grenadiers in the air, 23-22!

With just 1:20 remaining and the Grove leading by its eventual winning margin, the Falcons were romping down the field behind the running and gunning of bullet Mike Pryor.

The pocket-rocket, praised by Elk Grove defensive coach Brendan Flynn as the best area running back since Jack Bastable, was primarily responsible for digging the Falcons out of a hole at their own 17 in a gasping last-minute drive.

A 15-yard infraction against the Grenadiers, coupled with scampers of 14, two and one yards by Pryor, climaxed in a fourth down and three yards to go situation on the Elk Grove 39.

To absolutely no one's surprise, including Elk Grove cornerback Dave Chernick, Pryor got the crucial call, but Chernick came up quickly, lowered his head and blasted Mike out of bounds — a yard short of the needed yardage.

"You can't help but call that play as the turning point of the game," a collected Don Schaeke said. He didn't even want to think of what may have developed had Pryor given the Falcons a new lease on life.

He didn't have to. The Grenadiers are now all alone atop the Mid-Suburban League's South Division standings with an unblemished 3-0 record.

Listing individual Grenadier heroes would be like recopying Webster's Dictionary. The most obvious were quarterback Jeff Stewart who cleverly rampaged for all three of the victor's touchdowns and had two more called back on a clipping infraction and for hitting the chalk stripe on the Forest View sideline; Gary Adams who drilled a paramount 21-yard field goal; John Bicego who completed his first pass of the season and no less than seven running backs who accumulated 320 impressive rushing yards.

Elk Grove put points on the board in its first series of possession when Adams' foot clicked against the wind from the Forest View 11 to cap a 13-play drive spearheaded on 11 carries by Jim Leopardo.

The Falcons, meanwhile, recorded one first down — a 10-yard jaunt by Pryor before being forced to punt in a fourth and 10. Booter Tom Mueller was roughed on the kick, however, and Forest View resumed their attack at the Grove 33.

Falcon bulldozer Dave Schneider rambled 23 yards to the 14 and Pryor netted 13 more to the enemy one. Mike got the deserving nod and plunged in for the score. He also angled left for a two-point conversion and Forest View led, 8-3 at quarter's end.

By that time, though, Elk Grove was busy marching again. Stewart lumbered for an apparent TD from 60 yards away, but the ball was spotted at the Falcon 46 where he stepped out of bounds.

Jeff, racking up 115 yards rushing, varied his game plan by throwing to Bicego for 12 and a first down at the Falcon 33. Gary Martin promptly moved the chains again when he was stopped at the 19 before workhorse Leopardo established still another with a first and goal from the seven.

Stewart proceeded to drop back into the pocket, fumble, recover and carry it to paydirt — the broken play earning Elk Grove a 9-3 advantage since Adams erred on his first extra point attempt in one and one-half years of varsity play.

The first of only four punts in the contest was registered by Forest View when its drive on the ensuing kickoff stalled at the 47.

Stewart, realizing how effective a broken play can be, was forced into another desperate situation after the Grenadiers boomed for three first downs to the FV

Cards Capitalize On Costly Mistakes

Arlington Hands Hersey First Loss, 14-12

by PAUL LOGAN

Thanks to Arlington, the Mid-Suburban League's North Division football race is beginning to look like a possible first-class nightmare.

The Cardinals, capitalizing on a pair of Hersey lapses, climbed back into the title chase with a stirring 14-12 homecoming win over the previously unbeaten Huskies Friday night.

"The pressure's on us and Wheeling," said a disappointed Joe Gliwa, the Huskies' head coach, while referring to the showdown battle with the division leading Wildcats just two weekends away. But the pressure's also on Arlington (2-1 in MSL). If the Huskies (2-1) knock off the 'Cats (3-0), there could be a three-way tie for first. Nobody knows for sure how such a deadlock might be broken.

Bob Walther, Arlington's head coach, would naturally like to see a triple tie, but he was much more interested in the just concluded contest.

"I think Arlington played with emotions tonight," said Walther. "That's the first time we played with emotion this year. When the chips were down, we came through."

"I thought it was a well-played ball game," said Gliwa. "But I thought that we outplayed them. We made two mistakes and it cost us."

By "outplaying" Arlington, Gliwa was referring to the lopsided statistics which had the Huskies with a 237 to 145 bulge in total offense and a 15 to 7 advantage in total first downs.

"I think the basic point here is that it's not statistics that wins ball games — it's points on the scoreboard," said Walther.

"I think we learned that lesson last week at Wheeling."

However, for most of the first half the Huskies were dominating the scoreboard, too. They scored the first time they had the ball with a 69-yard drive.

Quarterback Brad Smith, utilizing his talented trio of backs — Mark Leonard, Matt Loris and Scott Miesfeldt — found plenty of holes in the Arlington line. A play action pass caught the run conscious Cards off guard and Leonard took Smith's toss down to the Arlington one, a 17-yard effort.

After a five-yard offside penalty helped push Hersey back to the nine, another play surprised Hersey's hosts — an end around pass. Marly Friel, the left end, took the ball from Smith and threw a bullet to Kip Koenig in the end zone. The first of two passes for two points failed and the Huskies led 6-0.

It appeared the single score would hold up for the first half until late in the second quarter when the Arlington secondary, termed "the best in the league" by Walther, picked off the second Smith pass of the game. Bill Welton made the interception at about the Cardinal 30 and dashed down the left sidelines for the score. Terry "TD" Ormsbee kicked the first of what were to be very crucial extra points and Arlington led 7-6 at the half.

Arlington opened the second half as Hersey had done in the first by scoring quickly. Starting from its own 24, fullback Steve Frankovic broke off left tackle and into the clear for a 43-yard gain before halfback John Browder pulled him down with a touchdown saving tackle at the Hersey 33.

After three plays netted just one yard, Ormsbee found tight end Dave Sherrow wide open for a 32-yard pass play and the score, 10-0's 18th in three varsity seasons. Another Ormsbee kick and it was 14-6.

Hersey came right back with what looked like the equalizer with the help of an Arlington lapse. Starting from their 30, the Huskies needed just 11 plays — the last one being a 36-yard scoring scamper by Loris on a draw play.

Smith — harassed by Dave Kabik, Ron St. John, Greg Watland and Doug Everhart — just barely completed a pass to Friel, but defensive halfback Mike Cleveland leveled Friel short of the goal line to keep the score 14-12.

Arlington gave Hersey another golden opportunity soon after being stopped on its own 22. A high snap on fourth down went over punter Jim Locascio's head. He just barely punted the ball and Dave Adams recovered on the Arlington 12.

Hersey moved to the eight on two runs and appeared about to get the first down when Leonard was tripped on a desperate dive by Watland to make it fourth and five from the seven.

With just 9:36 left in the final quarter, Gliwa decided to try a field goal. Leonard's attempt was wide to the left. Hersey had two more chances in the waning moments, but failed on both with Cleveland picking off Smith's last toss to end the game.

"I thought the defensive secondary not only came up real well but played the pass real well, too," praised Walther. Ormsbee accounted for the other interception, but the big senior signalcaller stayed away from tossing his own turnovers.

"When he doesn't have an interception that's a tremendous ball game," said Walther. "He was rushed pretty hard and got sacked a couple of times, but he ate it (ball) like a man. What more can you ask of a quarterback."

Terry realizes that it's not what he does as an individual but what the team does as a group that counts. It's a total team effort. Arlington has always been a total team effort.

Ormsbee passed for 49 yards, Frankovic rushed for 58 and Welton had 45 — a backfield team effort.

Walther was also very pleased with the tackling of linebacker Mike Prafke and tackle Dave Kabik. Both seemed in on almost every play.

Hersey also had a balanced attack with Loris (61), Leonard (60) and Miesfeldt (47) doing the rushing and Smith passing for 56 yards.

Aroused Palatine Rallies To Stun Touted Guilford

by DWIGHT ESAU

Palatine's footballers matured and put it all together Friday night at Ost Field. Beaten nearly groggy by an awesome Rockford Guilford ground game, the gritty Pirates came from behind, took ruthless advantage of several beautiful opportunities, and crushed a good but fumbling Guilford eleven, 21-6.

"That was the best game, and best second half, we've played all year," said an ecstatic coach Arv Horstedt as he enjoyed the Rockford team's first encounter with the Pirates. "We knew we could beat them, and the boys went out and did it. Execution in the second half was great."

Winning was so important, the coach said, because the Pirates, now 2-2-1 and on the rise, weren't supposed to have an easy time against Guilford, unbeaten in four games and rated by some as a top-state team.

"We knew what they could do, and we took their best shots and played better."

Horstedt said. "In the second half, we stepped playing 'round-robin,' or trying everything, and just went with the stuff that was working. And we got some breaks."

The game almost got out of hand early, however. Led by their great fullback, Scott Boettner, Guilford took the opening kickoff and put six points on the board in six running plays. Bettner and Tim Donahue, mostly on pitchouts from quarterback Brent Branca, got a first down on their own 43. Branca then ran a keeper behind near-perfect blocking to the Pirate 3, and Boettner took it in two plays later.

The Pirates couldn't gain much against a swarming, speedy Guilford defense, which took away Palatine's sweeps by Andy Knotek and Jan Fitzgerald.

After an exchange of punts, back came Rockford's foot troops again. Chip Donahue got loose for 43 yards to the Pirate 19, but now mistakes began to haunt Guilford. Boettner fumbled two plays later and Paul Strelar fell on it for the red shirts.

Twice in the second quarter, Guilford rolled down the field only to be stopped by fumbles or penalties. A Guilford clipping penalty, however, sent them back to their own 20, and their punt carried only out to their 49.

Suddenly, Jim Stauner and Knotek struck, so fast the fans hardly saw what happened. Jim, back to pass, couldn't find a free red shirt so he made like Red Grange, dodging and weaving 29 yards to the 29. Next, he hit Knotek on a short pass, and Andy, shaking off tacklers like a greased pig, plowed to the 11.

Then came on of the prettiest plays of the night. Knotek took a handoff and must have been hit by every Rockford player on a spectacular assault of the Guilford end zone. Andy, knocked nearly senseless, won the battle and the score

ALERT PIRATE. Craig Raddatz of Palatine came up with a defensive gem Friday evening when he blocked a punt in the Pirates' impressive 21-6 victory over state-ranked Rockford Guilford. Raddatz blocked the kick at the Rockford 17 and it set up what proved to be the winning score.

Power Problems

Lights Fail But Not Wheeling In 21-14 Thriller

by KEITH REINHARD

Contrary to some predictions, the big move at Fremd's homecoming contest with Wheeling Friday night was not the power play.

Overheating electrical circuits prompted nearly a dozen semi-blackouts at Hale Hildebrandt Field and the Wildcats must have read the handwriting on the wall. Rather than the power charge, they went to the air to set up one touchdown and score two others for a 21-14 triumph over the fired-up Vikings.

It was the third Mid-Suburban League victory in a row for Jack Liljeberg's visiting group and coupled with an Arlington win over Hersey that same night left his 'Cats perched all alone atop the North Division hill.

Al Ratcliff's host band nearly knocked Wheeling off the pile too. Jumping into a surprise opening lead on an abortive Wildcat field goal attempt, Fremd later came back to knot things at 14-14 in the second half and only missed retaining the standoff by inches.

A Dan Tonnancour to Mark Griffith paydirt pitch in the fourth quarter that barely stayed in the end zone turned out to be the game's decisive play.

"That's the first time in years anyone's caught three long passes on Fremd in one game," Ratcliff sighed afterwards. "Their quarterback did a fine job in there. He hurt us a lot more than anyone else did."

The signal callers on both sides turned in premier performances. Tonnancour and Viking QB Jon Ericson were the game's leading rushers. Ericson toed over both his squad's extra points in addition to sustaining several Fremd drives with big gainers on keeper plays.

Tonnancour connected on eight of eleven passes including a 32-yarder that paved the way to Wheeling's first tally and a 31-yard fling to Dave Giles that allowed the 'Cats to own a 14-7 halftime bulge.

Despite the healthy Wildcat edge in the statistical department though, the home team was not about to have their homecoming spoiled graciously. They dominated the third period with a nine-play march culminated by Doug Pettit's plunge across from the one. Moments earlier Ericson had completed a 14-yard aerial to Dave Sharpe to set up the score.

And in the fourth quarter the guests had to be somewhat concerned by another Viking march aimed at getting back the lead following Wheeling's third score. Only when the clock had dwindled down to the final few minutes did the 'Cats take control of the ball to run out the time.

"I told our kids to expect a tough game but I don't think they believed me," Liljeberg summarized. "I worried the whole night and felt lucky to get out of there the way we did."

The Wheeling mentor added, "It looked like our kids played only as hard as they had to. And it nearly backfired. Fremd's not flashy but they just don't make mistakes. They'll capitalize on our mistakes though and they almost took this one away from us."

By mistakes Liljeberg referred mainly to the opening stanza when, after each side had seen a drive stall, the Wildcats rolled down to the Fremd 11-yard line and set up for a field goal attempt.

The snap back was high however, and miscued by Wheeling kicker Tim McGowan. Terry Whiteley, a lanky junior defensive lineman had the presence to pick up the stray ball rather than jump on it and he subsequently rambled 82 yards down the field to put his outfit on the scoreboard.

The Wildcats didn't wait long to even things up. On the next series leading into the second quarter they went 72 yards on half a dozen plays. Tonnancour's hurl to Griffith and a 17-yard sprint by Mike Keenan keyed the drive and Bert Newman finally shot off right guard on a trap play to score from six yards out.

Wheeling scored again before halftime. On another 72-yard foray that took 12 plays they moved up 14-7 shortly before the gun. Giles was all alone in the end-zone when he hauled in Tonnancour's 31-yard pitch to cap the rally.

After Fremd created the 14-14 standoff in the third quarter on Pettit's score, the Wildcats started deep in their own territory and powered 82 yards in eight tries. On one play Tonnancour rolled around the right side and galloped 45 yards before Steve Morris nailed him at the Fremd 20.

After a first down at the nine and a penalty back to the 14 Tonnancour dropped back and teased to Griffith running toward the back of the end zone. Griffith snared the ball right at the back line and raced out of bounds. The official ruled the catch fair by inches.

Among the standout ball players in addition to the two quarterbacks, Pettit, Giles and Griffith were Wheeling's hard nosed-back Jay Rusek, with 59 yards gained on lugs right up the middle, and Fremd's safety Jeff Quinn, who kept his own defensive secondary well-covered all night and was credited with six unassisted tackles.

Field Goal Sinks Harper, 9-6

Lights Fail Again But Not Kick

by PAUL LOGAN

The lights probably should have stayed off at the Fremd High School field Saturday night.

Harper College, holding its first football homecoming, had the festivities interrupted about a half dozen times by a faulty circuit for the west side lights. Almost each time the lights came back on, misfortune would also come to the Harper team. That's misfortune spelled U-L-T-C-H-I.

Charles Ulitch, which rhymes with gulch, is listed in the program as a half-back for Illinois Valley College, a school near LaSalle-Peru. However, the 6-0, 190-pound sophomore only carried once for a minus one yard. Still Ulitch's name — if any of the fans could pronounce it — was on the lips of most of the Harper rooters as they left the stands.

All Ulitch did was kick the Hawks black and blue in three out of the four quarters. He kicked three field goals, but the last was the most bitter boot of all for it came with no time remaining — a 30-yarder that gave the Apaches a 9-6 victory.

"Usually you don't have a good kicker in junior college ball," said John Eliasik, Harper's head coach. "He came through under pressure."

Harper College deserved the victory or at least a tie for it was superior in every respect, every one except place kicking. Eliasik didn't hesitate in his praise for the Hawks' performance.

"I thought they played well. I really feel hurt for them. That's what bothers me the most — they put out a very excellent effort and they didn't win. They did everything but win the damn game, that's what they did."

Harper came within what Eliasik termed "a half dozen" turning points of doing just that — winning. For the record, there were at least eight turning points:

- A questionable clip call on a 41-yard touchdown run by Rich Posinger on Harper's first series.
- A lost fumble on another Harper drive.
- A fumbled punt late in the second quarter that set up Ulitch's first field goal — a 33-yarder with 0:00 remaining.
- An interception deep in Harper territory which helped Ulitch to his second score — a 42-yarder that barely made it.
- An Apache defensive stand that stopped Harper at the one-yard line early in the fourth quarter.
- A Harper fumble on a third down play after taking the ball to the Illinois Valley five.
- The failure to convert a two-point play.
- A lapse in the secondary which allowed a 26-yard pass play and, seconds later Ulitch's final field goal.

Despite most of these eight incidents, Harper College still could have won. After that hard luck fumble late in the fourth quarter, Harper's defense stopped the Apaches cold to give the offense another shot. Less than six minutes remained when the Hawks started their drive.

On a daring four and four situation, Posinger took the short snap from center on a fake punt and bulled his way just barely to a first down at the Illinois Valley 48. That play sparked the march. Five rushing plays later, including three for 29 yards by quarterback Ken Leonard, the Hawks were at the Apache three.

Following two plays that netted zero yardage, Leonard ran to his left and pitched back to Posinger. The 5-9, 170-pounder from Forest View High School bulled his way into the left corner of the end zone to tie the game, 6-6.

"It was going to be a bootleg run-pass option," said Eliasik of Harper's two-point try, "but they just shot in there."

Only 46 seconds remained when the Apaches took over on their own 36. However, an 18-yard run and a 26-yard pass helped put Ulitch within range for his last second crusher.

"We shut them out on the ground and in the air," said Eliasik. "Comparing the defense this week and last week they (Hawks) really turned it around and really did the job."

The Harper offense did the job, too, when it came to out-gaining the opposition — 281 to 194 in total yards and 15 to 11 in first downs.

"When you get that much total yardage, you'd better get more than six points," added Eliasik.

Accounting for 83 rushing yards and 55 pass receiving yards along with the touchdown was Posinger.

"He's really come on for us," praised Eliasik of his freshman halfback. "He just does the job. He's very consistent — the one thing we have to relish when we get it."

More consistency on offense and less Ulitch might have brought Harper's record from its present 1-4 to a better fate. It's too bad the lights kept coming back on.

Prospect Shows Dads How It's Done In 31-12 Romp

by MARV PRELLBERG

Coach Don Williams was wondering when his Prospect varsity gridgers would put it together and play the brand of football he felt the Knights were capable of playing.

Williams' waiting period seemingly was over as of last Friday night, when his Prospect squad blasted a visiting Glenbard North eleven with a 24 point first half barrage and claimed a 31-12 final victory count.

The MSL win was garnered before a large home crowd on a special Dad's Day celebration.

The Knight followers didn't have long to wait to exercise their lung power either. The very first time that the Prospect offense claimed the ball in the opening period, Senior back Dennis Tite raced through the Panther defense, 27 yards into the Glenbard North endzone. An offside penalty nullified this play, but it was an indication of things to come during the Knights first half power display.

After absorbing this TD cancelling penalty, Prospect moved down as far as the Glenbard North 13 yard line, where on a fourth down play ace kicker Ray Nee booted a field goal to start the Knights off on the first half scoring spree.

The next home team tally came after Glenbard North had been forced to punt from midfield. The punt sailed only 23 yards from the line of scrimmage, where Tite hauled it in and worked his way back to the Prospect 43. Nee was given the ball on the first two running plays from that point, and he advanced it for a first down on the Panther 39 yard stripe.

Tite then almost duplicated his opening game maneuver which had been wiped out due to a penalty, but this time he danced and sidestepped through the Panther defense for 39 yards and a touchdown. This one held up, and Prospect was on top 10-0 and gaining momentum after Nee's conversion kick cleared the uprights.

The Knight defense, which gave up only one first down in the first half, kept the ball in play in Glenbard North's side of the field during the remainder of the half.

A 21 yard field goal attempt by Nee early in the second quarter went astray, but the Knights took over possession of the ball a few minutes later after Glenbard was forced to punt from deep in its own territory. This time the boot by Terry Ennis traveled only a net ten yards from scrimmage, and Prospect claimed the pigskin on the Panther 32.

By virtue of four running stabs at the Glenbard North defense and a Panther penalty, the Knights soon had the ball eight yards from TD land. The reliable Tite was again given the nod, and he sped around his own left end and lunged into the endzone to register the eight yard score. Nee's kick made the count Prospect 17, Glenbard North 0.

Williams' Knights showed off to their Dads once more in the first half. This time they hit paydirt after a 53 yard drive, which featured a 25 yard pass completion from quarterback Tom Gattas to end Brian Bergen. This completion put the Knights down on the Glenbard North 2 yard line, and three plays later Ed Spacapan ripped five yards thru the middle for the TD. Nee's conversion kick gave the Knights their 24-0 halftime lead.

Glenbard North came back fighting in the second half. However, handicapped on offense without its ace back Mike Gazzola and the 24 point deficit, the Panthers chance of overcoming the Prospect margin was indeed slim.

With 5:14 showing on the clock in the third quarter Panther work horse back Rod Best smashed over the Prospect goal from two yards out for a Glenbard North score.

The Knights retaliated early in the final period on a 16 yard TD dash by Mike Kinney that culminated a 76 yard drive and used up plenty of valuable second half time. Kinney's touchdown and Nee's fourth straight conversion gave Prospect a 31-6 lead.

With just over one minute left in the contest a desperation type aerial from Daryl Feltes to Marlon Brooks fell into the surprised closely defended Brooks' arms. Brooks raced eight remaining yards into the end zone for a touchdown play that covered 32 yards.

The extra point pass attempt was not good, and a few moments later Prospect was officially declared a 31-12 victor.

MAD SCRAMBLE. Three Schaumburg players appear to be tripping over one another, but actually they're trying to cover an onside kickoff by Conant while an unidentified Cougar blocker is one-against-three. Conant recovered the ball and went on to win the game, 21-8, in a backyard battle at Schaumburg.

St. Viator Awakes In Second Half, 34-15

by JIM COOK

Recovering from a mild case of first half sleeping sickness, St. Viator awoke in time to make its homecoming a success by erupting for a convincing 34-15 triumph over St. Francis de Sales.

The Lions appeared a bit lackadaisical during the opening 24 minutes. They converted two sustained drives, but they also lost a fumble and helped de Sales stay close with unnecessary pass interference and personal foul infractions.

The Lions resembled the offensive powerhouse that went into the game atop the Suburban Catholic Conference standings with a perfect 2-0 mark, briefly at the outset.

Viator received the opening kickoff and marched, almost effortlessly, in an 80-yard sustained drive. Constant hammering by Joe Bombicino into and around the Pioneer defensive line and an occasional sweep by option expert Stan Bobowski enabled Bombo to hit paydirt with the game's first score midway through the first period. Frank Cliggett added the seventh point with a perfect conversion boot.

The Pioneers, however, kept hounding the Viator defense via the deadly passing of quarterback John Hooker and a punt surprise that caught the Lions napping.

St. Francis earned the equalizing touchdown after a fake punt netted 10 yards and after Hooker connected on pass plays of 32 and four yards — the drive finally climaxing when Hooker snuck in from two yards out. The extra point was fumbled and the Lions maintained an ever so slim 7-6 margin.

Viator fumbled the first time they handled the ball on the ensuing kickoff, but the mistake failed to materialize when de Sales ran out of gas on the Lion 26.

The final two minutes of the half were conclusive. Viator received a punt at its own 31 and set out on a 13-yard scamper by Bombicino, 10 by Tom Chapman, a facemask infraction against the Pioneers and a clinching Bobowski to Chapman screen pass that covered 25 yards and a score. Cliggett clicked again and the Lions led, 14-6.

St. Francis, meanwhile, still found the 1:02 remaining, time enough to cash a 28-yard field goal by Gary Krieger as the first half ended. The Lions held a shaky 14-9 advantage.

The second-half buzzer worked like an alarm clock for the seemingly dazed Lions. They marched 63 yards on 14 plays after a punt and as Bombicino blasted for most of the yardage, he deservedly got the call from the four yard line where he faked twice before sweeping left for the TD. Cliggett again drilled the point after.

Viator continued on the offense when they buried a Pioneer fumble on the ensuing kickoff and cashed when Chapman carried a Bobowski pitch in from the one. Cliggett missed the conversion, but the Lions were comfortably in front, 27-9.

The inspired St. Viator defense turned the ball over to the offense again after forcing a punt. On the Lions' first play from scrimmage, Bombicino, sprung by a perfect downfield block by Mark Ameel, churned 73 yards for Viator's final score, just as the fourth quarter began.

St. Francis later added a meaningless touchdown as Hooker continued to thread the needle, but Viator was already insurmountably in command.

Bombicino carried for an incredible 185 yards in 25 carries and remained in the thick of the SCC scoring race with his two touchdowns yesterday.

Complete statistics will appear in Tuesday's sports pages.

Conant Nips Lake Park In Cross Country, 28-29

Conant's cross country team is beginning to make a habit of pulling out the close ones.

The Cougars' second victory of the season was also their second straight one-point win (the other being two days earlier over Rolling Meadows). This time Lake Park was the victim by a 28-29 count.

Proceedings were at Conant's home course (2.75 miles long) at the Union 76 Oil grounds.

Even though Lake Park had the winning runner (with a time of 15:35) as well as the third and fourth-place men, Conant packed the fifth through ninth runners through the chute to win again by the narrowest of margins.

Todd Waldron was the top man for coach Jack Ary's Cougars with 15:40 for second place. Mark Lindberg was fifth with 16:14, Dan Schneider sixth with 16:29, Glen Charlton seventh with 16:53, Steve Waltron eighth with 16:56 and Ron Golubski ninth with 17:01. Cesar Castellanos was 12th and Ed Fort 14th.

Conant was an easy victor on the sophomore level, 20-35, with John Bond the individual winner at 15:48. A perfect 15-50 Cougar triumph was recorded in the freshmen contest with Dave Elderkin winning at 11:33 for two miles.

Conant closes out its Mid-Suburban League dual meet schedule Tuesday by traveling to Wheeling.

-Elk Grove Tops Falcons

13 upon receiving the punt.

Jeff retreated into the pocket once more, got set to pass, and panicked when the Falcons had blanketed his receivers. The outstanding blocking from his offensive linemen, enabled him to escape unscathed into the endzone.

On Adams' next conversion try, holder Bicego jumped up and fired a bullet to Mike Muli for two points and a 17-8 Grenadier margin.

Both teams were stymied as the half ended, but the fireworks continued 15 minutes later with Forest View now lighting the fuse.

They gave up the ball on an interception to open the second half, but dug in on defense and regained possession on an Elk Grove punt. Back-to-back first downs by Pryor and hard-running Don Divito pushed the ball into Grenadier territory at the 47 where Bill Millner caught while a six yard gainer by Tony Tringali netted another at the Falcon 43.

After an incompletion, Stewart tucked the ball under his arm from a quarterback draw setup and galloped 43 yards with Muli springing the decisive ramble with a key block downfield. The kick failed, but the 23-22 Elk Grove advantage and defense didn't.

A 65-yard run by Stewart on the quarterback huddle became only a mirage when a red flag for clipping wiped out what would have been the Elk Grove clincher. It only served to create more tension and faster heartbeats during Forest View's concluding series.

Maybe even "Compose" didn't help. But a tranquilizer salesman would have made a fortune.

the EG secondary with a perfect spiral to Mueller who was wide open at the 17 and could have crawled into the endzone. Pryor's second running conversion brought the Falcons to within one at 17-16.

The ball bounced Forest View's way again when Stewart fumbled in the backfield and a heap of Falcons, led by Tom Parker, smothered the pigskin at the Elk Grove 26.

Mueller hit Schneider with a screen to the EG 15 before Divito set up a first and goal from the four with a miffy cutback up the middle. Pryor swept left and Forest View had rallied for a 22-17 lead.

Pryor duplicated the feat on the conversion, but an illegal motion penalty censured the run and gained even more significance when Millner's conversion pass from the eight fell incomplete.

The pressure shifted to the Grenadiers as the final period began clicking off. A first-down Stewart to Muli pass combination brought Elk Grove to its own 41

Back came Rockford. Boettner got loose for 26 yards to the Pirate 32, but they ran out of time and a last-second field goal attempt was short.

At the half, however, Rockford had rolled up 202 yards rushing and 10 first downs to Palatine's 56 on the ground and four first downs.

Then wonderfulness started to flow over the Pirates in the second half. Boettner fumbled right into the arms of a surprised Steve Garoutte, who nevertheless had enough sense to ramble to the Rockford 23. The Pirates got to the six, but two passes failed and Finlay's field goal try was a bit wide.

Rockford still was playing giveaway, however. Branca fumbled on the next series, and Mark Kelling recovered. Stauner and Co. got to the Guilford 6, but ran out of downs and the fans, aware it now was the fourth quarter, began to think of a 6-6 tie.

But the Pirates were just laying in the weeds, waiting for another opportunity. It wasn't long in coming. Craig Raddatz stormed in and blocked a punt on the Rockford 17, and this time the Pirates meant business. John Berley bulled five yards, and then Barry Schultz sneaked behind two Guilford backs and took a perfect pass from Stauner for the winning TD.

The Pirates weren't through, partly because Guilford wasn't finished playing giveaway. Branca fumbled again and Mark St. John was there to get it. The Pirates were stopped, so Finlay kicked a 33-yard field goal to make it 15-6 and put it out of reach.

A short punt and some nice running by Mike Hughes rang up six more points for cake frosting as time ran out.

The Pirate defense, led by Streaker, Raddatz and St. John, held Rockford to 67 yards rushing in the second half, and when Guilford couldn't pass it made the Pirate catch-up that much easier.

The outstanding player on the field, however, was Boettner. The strong full-back rolled up 141 yards in 23 carries and caught a pass for a short gain. Chip Donahue added 64 yards in nine attempts.

Mike Hughes, playing only the second half, led Pirate rushers with 38 yards. Pirate statistics of 131 yards on the ground, 72 in the air, and 10 first downs aren't spectacular, until you remember that most of the yardage came exactly when it was needed.

Friday it's Arlington, and if that second half performance continues, watch out, Cardinals.

Versatile Stenger Leads Conant To 21-8 Victory Over Schaumburg

by LARRY EVERHART
It's safe to say that Terry Stenger is not about to win any popularity contests at Schaumburg High School this year. That may rank as one of the football understatement of the year in the southwest section of the South Division of the Mid Suburban League.

It was Stenger who Saturday on the Saxons field offensively spearheaded a 21-8 victory.

This gave the Cougars their first win in five contests, kept Schaumburg winless after the same number of tries and gave Conant the first say in what promises to be a long and interesting backyard family feud.

Stenger figured prominently in every Conant touchdown and showed his versatility in doing so. He used his running ability to score the first TD, his receiving ability to set up the second and his passing ability for the third.

The do-everything Cougars halfback also won a hot personal rushing duel against Schaumburg's Glen Hayes, who with his quickness and darting moves was as effective as usual with 103 yards gained in 22 rushes. Stenger gained 100 in 18.

Conant coach Ralph Losee, though of course happy with his squad's first success for 1971, did not feel it was their best game. He felt that came a week earlier in a 14-13 loss to Forest View.

"We all played well in the first half," he said, "but in the second half it looked like we were tired and maybe a little complacent. It was hot out there."

He felt an explosive 72-yard run by Stenger for the first touchdown in the first quarter turned the game around. "Until that point," said Losee, "we weren't doing anything and they were running pretty well on us. We looked tight and tense. Maybe we were keyed up too much."

Losee noted that for his own team Bill Koppari played a fine game in the defensive line and Steve Andrews and Chet Pudlosky did a fine job blocking. For the Saxons, Losee said defensive linemen Bruce Breda and Rick Butler stood out and added that Hayes was also impressive.

The Cougars hit the hosts for all three of their scores in the first half (two in the second quarter), then settled down to defense in the second half and permitted the Saxons only a consolation TD late in the fourth quarter.

Schaumburg's first possession was no indication of how the game would turn out. The Saxons moved crisply downfield at the outset, behind the running of Hayes, to Conant's 28-yard line before the Cougars held on a fourth-and-inches situation.

There were no more first downs until 2:21 remained in the period when Stenger exploded on a simple off-tackle play, cut back and raced 72 yards for the first score. The first of three extra-point kicks by Russ Windholz made it 7-0.

Early in the second quarter, Stenger made a beautiful diving catch of a Bob Atkocaitis pass for a 33-yard gain to the Saxon 16. Soon after, George Swegles swept around right end for five yards and the next score.

Late in the quarter, Schaumburg fumbled and the visitors recovered on the enemy's 25. It took one play to capitalize as this time Stenger used the third weapon in his arsenal — his arm. His 25-yard halfback pass was grabbed by Dennis Sulzer who hit paydirt with 52 seconds left in the half.

Conant still had time to seriously threaten again before intermission. They recovered an onside kick and moved to Schaumburg's nine-yard line before running out of downs.

Glenn Komerska provided some excitement for the hometowners when he returned the second half kickoff 50 yards to the Conant 25, but the Saxons bogged down at the 18.

Then mistakes began to hurt the hosts. A long pass right in the receiver's hands was dropped. Moments later the Saxons fumbled a Cougar punt and lost the ball.

Late in the period Breda ran for 17 yards on a fake punt, but Jim Yokas of the Cougars quickly put a damper on the advance by intercepting a pass.

Schaumburg finally moved 59 yards in 11 plays, all on the ground, for their only score with Hayes and Andy Jones splitting the duty. Hayes carried over from nine yards with 5:43 left in the game on key blocks by Bob Hammond and Jones.

It was a fine drive, but too little too late. Stenger and his Cougar mates had already stolen the show.

Ordinance No. 472-1971
AN ORDINANCE AMENDING THE ZONING ORDINANCE OF THE VILLAGE OF PALATINE
WHEREAS, the Zoning Board of the Village of Hoffman Estates conducted a public hearing on August 3, 1971, to consider amending the Zoning Ordinance of the Village of Hoffman Estates as same pertains to fences; and
WHEREAS, the Zoning Board of Appeals of the Village has proposed its recommendations for said amendment to the President and Board of Trustees;
NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Hoffman Estates, as follows:
Section 1: That Section 2, Definitions, of Article II of the Zoning Ordinance of the Village of Hoffman Estates be amended by adding thereto the following definitions:
Fence: A fence is a structure forming a barrier at grade level between lots, between a lot and a street, or a lot, or between portions of a lot or lots.
Ground Level or Grade Level: Ground level or grade level is the natural grade of a lot or any parcel of property.
Section 2: That Section 3.12 of Article III of the Zoning Ordinance of the Village of Hoffman Estates be amended so as to read as follows:
3.12 Fences, shrubs, hedges and walls.
a. Required Fences:
1. A minimum seven (7) foot high 100% enclosed fence must be erected along the lot line of areas zoned manufacturing or commercial where such lot lines shall be responsible for the erection of the required fence.
2. A minimum seven (7) foot high 100% enclosed fence must be erected along the lot lines of areas zoned multi-family where such lot lines shall be responsible for the erection of the required fence.
(1) For the purpose of this section, multi-family is defined as any residentially zoned lot that permits more than one family to live in a building or group of buildings and can be described as apartments, residential planned developments, duplexes, four-plexes, town houses, row houses, condominiums, or other like residential structures.
(2) This provision does not apply to single family residences erected as part of a planned unit development or residentially planned development where housing types are mixed to allow a variety of housing on the same land, except where said development abuts property zoned commercial or manufacturing.
c. Fences shall be required around swimming pools as defined in Chapter 5, Article 67 and 67-A of the Municipal Code.
d. Screening and landscaping. All open off-street parking areas, including more than one parking space, shall be effectively screened on each side adjoining or fronting any residential or institutional property by a wall or fence not less than five and one-half (5 1/2) feet in height, or a distance of three (3) feet in height, or by a densely planted compact hedge not less than five and one-half (5 1/2) feet in height, which shall be of the required height at the time of planting. The provisions of this paragraph may be waived if in conflict with Section 1-B, a or b.
2. Prohibited Fences. The following fences, shrubs, hedges and walls are hereby prohibited:
a. Barbed wire and electrically charged wire, except that barbed wire may be used on top of permitted fences in manufacturing districts.
b. Snow fences, except for exclusive control of snow between November 1 and March 31 provided that snow fences shall be installed only on that portion of a lot which abuts or adjoins a road, street or highway.
c. Chain link fences with barbed ends up, except as permitted fences in manufacturing district.
d. No fences, shrubbery, hedging or walls shall be permitted on any lot fronting a street, nor shall any fence or wall be placed or maintained so as to obstruct a clear view of private driveways, sidewalks or pedestrian walks.
e. No shrubbery, hedging or planting which interferes with clear vision shall be permitted at or near a street intersection in an area enclosed by a triangle each leg of which is a distance of thirty (30) feet, measured along each curb of the intersecting streets and from the point where said curb lines or extensions thereto intersect.
f. A fence which has a height of more than six feet (6'), unless a variation is obtained through a public hearing before the Zoning Board of Appeals of the Village of Hoffman Estates, except as provided for in this ordinance.
3. Regulations of Permitted Fences:
a. No fence shall be erected in excess of six (6) feet above ground level or grade level along rear lot or rear lot lines, except that fences seven (7) feet above ground or grade level may be erected in areas zoned manufacturing, provided that the height limitations contained herein shall not apply to shrubs or hedges on interior or rear lot lines.
b. No fence shall be constructed or installed in any front yard closed to any street or roadway than the front building line, except that a fence may be installed to the property line along the rear lot line on lots adjoining a street or roadway.
c. All tax levying districts and all bona fide, regulation size tennis courts shall be exempt from the height limitations of this ordinance.
d. Patio privacy fences and trellises shall be permitted within the building lines and shall not exceed 8' in height.
e. A dog enclosure or run shall be permitted only within rear yards and shall be constructed so as to not exceed six feet (6') in height.
4. Applicability of Building Code. All provisions of the Building Codes of the Village of Hoffman Estates are to be followed as they pertain to fences.
5. Non-Conforming Fences. All fences heretofore lawfully constructed and not conforming to the provisions hereof are declared non-conforming and may be permitted to exist but shall not be reconstructed or altered and, if rebuilt, must conform to existing codes.
6. Permits Required. Fence Permit - A permit is required for the construction, installation or erection of all fences, except those permitted in Section 3 Paragraphs c and d, and is to be secured from the office of the building commissioner. Permit fees are to be determined by action of the Village Board.
Section 3: Any person, firm or corporation who violates, disobeys, omits, neglects or refuses to comply with or resists the enforcement of the foregoing provisions shall be fined not less than $5.00 nor more than $200.00 for each offense. Each day a violation is permitted to exist shall constitute a separate and distinct offense.
Section 4: The Village Clerk is hereby directed to cause this ordinance to be duly published in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication, according to law.
PASSED this 4th day of October, 1971.
APPROVED this 4th day of October, 1971.

Communities, Hospitals May Be Asked For Study Costs

There is a chance the three communities and four hospitals seeking a study of health care needs in Schaumburg Township will be asked to pay $7,000 to $15,000 to a consulting firm to have the study conducted. The communities involved are Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, and Hanover Park.

The North Suburban Association for Health Resources (NSAHR), Northbrook, has been asked by a local ad hoc committee to conduct the study, but the organization probably will decline the request. The proposal was referred to NSAHR's planning committee. The committee voted Wednesday to recommend to the association's executive board that the association not conduct the study, according to Dr. Sheldon S. Waldstein, executive director.

Dr. Waldstein said no official decision could be announced until after an executive board meeting Oct. 25, when the planning committee recommendation will be an agenda item. The executive board could uphold the recommendation, or it could reverse the decision, said Dr. Waldstein. However, he indicated a reversal is unlikely.

"WE FEEL IT WOULD be inappropriate for us to do a study for them if we will be in a review position," said Dr. Waldstein.

AFTER THE executive board meeting, a decision will be officially reported to the ad hoc steering committee with representatives from Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Hanover Park and hospitals in Elgin, Elk Grove Village and Arlington Heights.

The ad hoc committee was formed last summer to determine if a hospital is needed in the Schaumburg Township area, and if so, where it should be located. Schaumburg has received a hospital site donation and Hoffman Estates and Hanover Park each expect site donations for hospitals. Controversy has arisen over which site would provide optimum service for the area.

If the NSAHR executive board upholds the planning committee recommendation, the ad hoc steering committee will have to determine who should conduct the study, and how it should be conducted, said Dr. Waldstein. He added, NSAHR would be happy to recommend firms and outline points that should be investigated.

A STUDY, done by a consulting firm, can be conducted "in a short period of time if you get with it," said Dr. Waldstein. He estimated the cost "in the range of $7,000 to $15,000."

When the study is completed, said Dr. Waldstein, NSAHR can review it and make recommendations within about 4 weeks.

William Silverman, ad hoc committee chairman, said NSAHR was asked for advice on how his committee should proceed.

The motion of inquiring with the grass roots planning group was not to say they will do the study, said Silverman, adding the question was passed on the basis that they know the local situation, the people of the community and what kind of study is needed.

It's within the North Suburban Association's charge to decide they will not do the study and recommend other groups who should handle the task, he added.

SILVERMAN SAID there's no immediate urgency for getting a study completed, but the pressure of the situation can be of a low order for a long time, then something occurs and all of a sudden there's an immediate need.

Silverman would like to see the ad hoc committee "move with all reasonable dispatch."

Financing the study is something the ad hoc committee still has to discuss and each hospital and village involved will have to consider too.

"I'm kind of a strong supporter of dutch treat," he added.

He mentioned a graduate student from Elk Grove Village who volunteered her services for a study; but added the questions of a student's qualifications for conducting a study of this type have yet to be assessed.

SILVERMAN represents the Chicago Hospital Council and Comprehensive Health Planning, Inc., two groups concerned about hospital development in the greater Chicago metropolitan area.

"We're not going to drop this ball. We're not forgetting about meetings," he added.

Others in the case are, Ken Millsap, Sherri Noel, Karen Moss, Gary Stachelski and Edward Miller. All students cast are residents of Hoffman Estates.

Conant Speech teacher, Mrs. Nancy Temple is directing the play with assistance from student Ken Millsap.

Paul Cary, of the guidance department, will direct the technical crews.

Tickets at 75 cents for students, and $1 for adults are available from members of the drama club and at the door before each performance.

Officials To Eye Shared Clinic

Community leaders in Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships will hear from the Elk Grove Village Community Service and Mental Health Board in the next few weeks of a proposal for a clinic to serve the area.

Members of the board for the village-funded social service and mental health agency agreed at their meeting Thursday to make contacts in both townships to gain support for applications for state funds for the clinic.

The agency is planning to apply for a grant from the Illinois Department of Mental Health to establish a mental health clinic in the two townships, which have been designated as a planning area by the state.

In the past the state has funded the Northwest Mental Health Center in Arlington Heights to serve Elk Grove, Schaumburg, Palatine and Wheeling townships. The area has now grown large enough to be divided into two planning areas by the state and funds can be given to a second center.

BECAUSE THE newly designated two township planning area does not have a mental health clinic, the Community Service Board has decided to apply for state funds to establish a clinic.

If a grant is awarded the Community Service agency, it may mean the $53,600 budget provided by the village may be doubled and the agency will provide services to the entire area.

The application for state funds must be accompanied with statements of support from community leaders in the areas to be served. Board members agreed to contact persons in both townships to obtain the letters.

"We aren't asking people to endorse an Elk Grove Mental Health Center as such, but we are asking them to support the development of a mental health center in our planning area," board Chairman Rev. Quentin Goodrich said.

He said the two township areas will probably be divided in half in a few years as the population grows and explained that the joint arrangement would be for an interim period until each township forms its own center.

"The Community Service is the only organized agency that is prepared to expand now into the planning area," he said.

The agency plans to submit the application to the state by Nov. 1. The grant would not be received until the beginning of the new state fiscal year, July 1.

Elk Grove Village Community Service was established by the village board in 1966 and provides family and individual counseling for adults, operates a youth hot line, youth program, and youth employment service.

'Ah, Wilderness' To Be Performed

The first major production of the James Conant High School's drama department will be "Ah, Wilderness!" performed in the Conant cafeteria Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m.

The three-act comedy by Eugene O'Neill presents an early 1900s generation gap situation.

In the cast are Joel Gluch, Patti Sander, Charles Musfeldt, Tom Doretti, Sue Ellithrope, Bob Kaplan, Tom Citrano, Marlee Norton, Rick Koeple and Judy Johnson.

BOB, MEET MARK. Conant quarterback Bob Atkocaitis tries to slip past Schaumburg defender Mark Losardo during Saturday's 21-8 Conant victory at Schaumburg.

The Cougars exploded for all their points in the first half before the Saxons got a consolation touchdown late in the game. See Sports for details.

New Twist In 'Howie' Suit

A motion was granted Friday in the U.S. District Court, allowing federal receivers of the City Savings and Loan Association to enter into a suit against the village of Hoffman Estates.

The suit was originally filed by bondholders from a $1 million special assessment approved in 1967 and 1968 for the now defunct Howie-In-The-Hills subdivision, along Palatine Road at Hoffman Estates' north end.

The bondholders' suit asks partial repayment by the village for more than $300,000 worth of bonds and asks punitive damages of $250,000 from former village officials involved; based upon improprieties charged under the Security Exchange Act of 1934.

The City Savings and Loan receivership plays a role in the "Howie" issue because assets from the defunct savings institution were drained through the subdivision by convicted swindler C. Oran Mensik.

A MAJOR PORTION of the Howie property has become an asset of the receivership by order of Federal Judge William Campbell.

The bondholders' suit also in the federal court is under the jurisdiction of Judge James Parsons, but the receiver's attorneys, Don Rueben and Steve Bashwiner, have asked that Judge Campbell preside over the case.

All other action concerning the case has been postponed until the transfer motion has been ruled upon, including a motion by Hoffman Estates Atty. Edward Hofert that the bondholders' case be dismissed.

Judge Parsons has sent "a very lengthy draft of analysis" on the motion for transfer to an executive committee of judges who will rule on who gets the case, he said.

IF PARSONS keeps the case he may rule on Hofert's motion for dismissal before Oct. 23.

The receiver's entrance into the bondholders' suit has left questions as to whether they're plaintiffs or defendants. Parsons said he thinks they're probably plaintiffs.

Besides the litigation in the federal court where both bondholders and City Savings depositors are trying to get back money lost through Howie-In-The-Hills, there is a suit in the Cook County Circuit Court filed by the Teamster Union's pension fund.

The Teamsters claim to have held a $2 million mortgage on the Howie property when the $1 million in the special assessments for street, sewer, curb and gutter improvements was set up by village officials in 1967 and 1968.

THE TEAMSTERS seek to have the special assessment vacated by the circuit court on charges that village officials at that time attempted to have a special assessment set for work that was already completed, a fraud on the court; and because proper notice of the special assessments was not available.

Hofert, in the circuit court suit, alleged the Teamsters played a role in wrong doings concerning the Howie-In-The-Hills fiasco.

The circuit court trial is to resume Dec. 13.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Police posted a heavy guard at the New York hospital where H. Rap Brown was recuperating from gunshot wounds as a precaution against liberating the long-sought black militant by force.

Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., made public a congressional audit he said indicated the Air Force spent more than $500,000 in 1970 on junkets for civilians. Reuss said the costs of the tours were audited by the General Accounting Office.

Presidential adviser Henry Kissinger and a group of aides spent Sunday in Hawaii making final preparations for their trip to China to discuss details of President Nixon's visit.

The House will consider for the second time this week a proposal to set a specific date for withdrawing all U.S. forces from Indochina. Increased antiwar sentiment indicated a possible close vote, perhaps on Tuesday.

Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., one of two announced candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination, predicted that a Negro could be elected vice president. He said Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Me., made a serious mistake when he said a presidential candidate could not win with a black running mate.

The World

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin left for Canada to tighten the new Soviet-Canadian "partnership" as part of the Kremlin's worldwide public relations campaign. It was the first trip by a Soviet premier to Canada.

Two Israeli soldiers were killed and two others wounded when an anti-vehicle mine planted by Palestinian guerrillas went off in Israeli-occupied Golan Heights.

The War

B52 bombers attacked Communist positions near the Cambodian border in a renewed effort to break up a Communist offensive entering its fourth week near strategic U.S. Fire Base Pace, the U.S. command said.

Sports

The Pittsburgh Pirates capped a stunning comeback by winning the World Series, getting four-hit pitching from Steve Blass and a home run by Roberto Clemente to beat the Baltimore Orioles, 2-1. The seventh-game victory gave Pittsburgh its first world championship since 1960.

Racing's Scandal Figures Spearheaded Disannex Bill

by DOUG RAY

Key figures in the recently disclosed race track stock scandal spearheaded a bill through the Illinois General Assembly in 1955 which allowed Arlington Park Race Track to disannex from Rolling Meadows.

The legislation benefiting Arlington Park may have been one of the first in a series of legislative bills which were hand-tailored for Illinois racing magnates.

Included among the legislators who actively supported the bill was then president pro tem of the senate Arthur J. Bidwell, R-River Forest, who has been implicated along with other top politicians for having either direct or indirect ownership of race track stocks.

Removal of race track properties from Rolling Meadows meant a loss of only about $2,500 in 1955 but more importantly a reduction in the property valuation for bonding purposes for the newly formed city. However, last year the race track facilities generated more than $300,000 in tax returns to Arlington Heights and with future developments, which may include apartment complexes and a sports arena, the tax revenue will continue to increase.

IN FEBRUARY, 1955 the City of Rolling Meadows was incorporated. Included in the boundaries were the Arlington Park Race Track properties, the Arlington Crest subdivision of 100 homes, the Chicago and North Western Ry., right-of-way, along with adjacent land. Under existing laws there was no way for this property to avoid inclusion in Rolling Meadows.

The law was changed within four months of Rolling Meadows' formation, when House Bill 795 passed the Illinois General Assembly, allowing the track and other properties on the perimeter of the city to disannex. The bill provided that the properties could be removed within a year of annexation, if the majority of the voters and the majority of the land owners requested to be detached.

The bill was introduced in the House on April 18, 1955. After approval by the House Committee on Municipalities, it was approved in the House on May 18 and sent to the Senate.

The Senate voted approval on June 29,

the day before its required adjournment. Gov. William Stratton signed it into law on July 13.

The bill was unanimously passed despite opposition from the Illinois Municipal League. It was termed "special interest legislation."

Legislative leader Bidwell was instrumental in passing the bill. He and other 1955 legislators have recently been named as recipients of race track stocks. According to some published reports, Bidwell's daughter, son and nephew have more than $900,000 in racing stocks. Bidwell has also been named as an intermediary between Illinois officials and former Arlington Park Operator Mrs. Marj Everett.

INCLUDED IN THE 1955 legislature were Paul Powell, former secretary of state; John W. Lewis, present secretary of state, and William E. Pollack and others who have been named in the race track scandal.

Rolling Meadows Ald. Thomas Waldron was a city official at the time of the Arlington Park disannexation and made attempts to stop the legislation.

"I made a telephone call to Bidwell,"

Waldron said. "I asked him if something couldn't be done." But Waldron recalls that Bidwell said it was not in his power to change the bill's certain passage.

Former Rolling Meadows Mayor John Northcote traveled to Springfield to seek Stratton's veto of the bill. He argued that it would have serious consequences to any newly formed community. But Stratton signed the bill only days after the meeting.

WALDRON SAID he talked to race track representatives and asked why they were seeking disannexation from Rolling Meadows. Arlington Park officials feared restrictions, according to Waldron.

Undoubtedly the track would have been subject to some restrictions by being forcibly annexed to Rolling Meadows. Annexation of the race track property without prior negotiations for city benefits to the track, would have been less than desirable to Arlington Park officials.

When the race track was finally annexed to Arlington Heights in 1969, there were many concessions the village guaranteed operator Marj Everett, president of Chicago thoroughbred Enterprises Inc. (CTE).

Included in the 1969 preannexation agreement, the Village of Arlington Heights guaranteed to furnish additional police protection "as may be required for the effective management of crowds and traffic control." Also police and fire substations may be built on race track property.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS agreed to petition the Illinois Commerce Commission to locate a new passenger station for the Chicago and North Western Ry., on track land and the village agreed to pay its share toward the cost of the station. The CTE contribution was limited to providing the site for the station.

Arlington Heights stated it would amend its liquor control ordinance to permit "sufficient liquor licenses to be issued" as well as an agreement not to oppose any night thoroughbred racing at the track.

Village officials are under contract to "issue all licenses necessary to operate the existing uses and facilities on the property."

As a final agreement between the two groups, the CTE may elect to disconnect the property from the village, if the village breaks "any terms" of the agreement.

When the announcement was made that Arlington Park would become a part of Arlington Heights, Mayor Jack Walsh said the agreement took several years of negotiations.

HOWEVER, IN February 1955 Rolling Meadows took jurisdiction of race track activities without any such agreement. Four months later, the law changed and Arlington Park and all the adjacent property could be and was removed from newly created Rolling Meadows.

Shortly after House Bill 795 passed and was signed by Stratton, the owners of the Arlington Crest subdivision petitioned to remove the area from Rolling Meadows. Then came the disconnection of the railway and then Arlington Park properties pushing back the northern boundaries of Rolling Meadows to Euclid Avenue.

Rolling Meadows attorneys appealed House Bill 795 on grounds it was unconstitutional but the Illinois Supreme Court upheld the legislation in 1956.

Between the Lines

Rathman Opposes Federal Funding

by STEVE NOVICK

All trustees in Hoffman Estates, except for Dyrle Rathman, last Monday voted to enter into a contract with Cook County that will provide more than $5,800 toward the salary of a youth counselor who will help youth in the village who have problems.

The funds come from the federal government and are being allocated through the county. The major condition accepted with the money is that the person hired be an unemployed or under-employed individual.

Funds from the government will be used to pay part of $10,000 the village budgeted for hiring a youth counselor this year under the Youth Outreach Program, promoted by Twinbrook YMCA.

Rathman's objections were twofold. He objects to using federal funds when local money is available and he objects because of the preference given to unemployed and under-employed persons, the only ones eligible under the grant.

IF HOFFMAN Estates were a town with a huge tax base it could show money from another source. If it had enough money for all the street improvement, sewer replacement, water facility expansion, police protection, etc. that is needed there, I too would say turn down the federal money.

As the five other trustees in Hoffman Estates see it, the $5,840 being provided for the youth counselor represents local dollars that can now be shifted to other needs. They wouldn't bite a feeding hand.

"It seems like a waste of money if you're not going out for the best applicants," Rathman said about the restriction to those not fully employed. This quote is what is most disturbing.

With the federal unemployment rate still over six per cent, Rathman should appreciate that some of the "best" people around don't have jobs.

RATHMAN SHOULD certainly recognize the situation in the engineering and home construction field in which he is securely employed. I doubt the situation is any different in the social professions.

In any field Rathman cares to take a look at, I'm sure he'll find persons holding positions that are not the best qualified, including those elected to public office. It's indisputable.

A STROLLING MARIACHI string band entertained shoppers last weekend at Mount Prospect's Fair, a minority group business exposition. Some 40 businesses had displays at the two-day event. The band was provided by the Azteca Corn Products Corp. of Chicago.

Two-Day Minority Group Exposition At Randhurst

by ALAN AKERSON

Winford Bryant and Everett Jones first met early last summer at an Operation Breadbasket meeting in Chicago.

Now, only a few months later, the two have formed a corporation that makes and leases business and home security equipment at a price, they say, that is far below that of their competitors.

Bryant and Jones, both black, were among the minority group entrepreneurs — some 40 in all — who came to Mount Prospect's Randhurst Shopping Center last week to show their wares to the Northwest suburbs.

The two-day minority group business exposition, called "Alls Fair," was sponsored and paid for by more than 30 area human relations groups, churches, individuals and businesses.

Thousands of shoppers at Randhurst saw the exhibits in the shopping center's mall Saturday and Sunday. It was the second "Alls Fair," the first being held in June, 1970.

AMONG THE exhibitors were black artists, Indians displaying clothing from their country, and Mexican-Americans who sell Mexican food products.

According to Patricia Vockeroth, a spokesman for the event, the goal of Alls Fair is to give Northwest suburban residents a chance "to view the multi-faced talents and accomplishments of the various minority groups" that live in the Chicago area.

The businesses represented at the event ran the gamut from one-man operations to corporations that cost thousands of dollars to organize.

As for Bryant and Jones their start was in the shoeing variety. "All our products, I invented," says 22-year-old Bryant, who, incidentally, dropped out of school in the ninth grade.

HIS PARTNER, Jones, is 33, holds a bachelor's degree in business administration, a master's degree in urban studies and is a former college teacher.

Jones said that after they met, he became impressed with Bryant's inventive abilities that led to the corporation. Bryant said it took him about three weeks to build the security device, known as the "Ghost Control System," and ready it for marketing. The device looks like nothing more than a gray metal box about the size of a cigar box. But, the two contend it can detect a breakin,

Slate PSAT Tests At Conant High

The guidance department of James B. Conant High School will administer the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test (PSAT) Saturday at 7:45 a.m.

Junior students who plan to attend college following graduation, may take this test as practice for college entrance tests taken later in the year.

Students who wish to enter competition for the National Merit Awards also must take the test on this date.

An application fee of $3 is required to cover the cost of scoring and administering the test. Students must pay the fee and register in the guidance office, room 103, at the school. Registrations will remain open until all seats are assigned.

Parents or students who have questions about the PSAT and the National Merit Awards competition may call 529-4300 or make arrangements to see James Spengler in the Conant guidance office.

a fire or any other kind of damage in any size business or home.

And, while the two readily admit the profit motive was behind their enterprise, there is another reason for their business: "Currently we are employing three mothers on welfare," said Jones.

Burglars Enter Home — Kill Labrador Pup

Burglars in unincorporated Schaumburg Township killed a puppy when they broke into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pasquini, 1200 S. Rodenburg Rd., early Thursday morning. However, the burglars apparently took nothing from the home.

The dog, a 4-month-old Labrador, apparently was killed with a hammer when burglars broke into the garage connected to the house, said police. Mr. and Mrs. Pasquini had gone out for the evening, and left Crystal, the pure bred female dog, in the garage. When they returned home, they found the garage and the house had both been entered and the dog had been killed, but none of their belongings appeared to have been disturbed. They had bought Crystal two months ago, paying $175 for her.

Cook County sheriff's police are investigating.

is the Azteca Corn Products Corp., also from Chicago. Set up by 10 Chicago Mexican-Americans, it required an initial investment of about a quarter million dollars, according to one of the backers, Joseph Canchola, a Chicago stockbroker.

THE FACTORY, currently employing 17 persons, most of whom are Mexican-Americans, supplies Mexican corn-based foods to Chicago area grocery store chains and to several Mexican restaurants. "We're here at Alls Fair," explained Canchola, "to introduce the product to the Anglo market — one which we feel the surface has only barely been scratched in. And, there's no question the market is growing. There's lot of potential out here."

$425 In Fencing Reported Stolen

A total of $425 worth of wooden fencing was reported stolen from a Levitt Construction Co. building site near Golf Road and Walnut Lane, Schaumburg. It appears the fencing was used to build a porch for a house, and a tree house according to a police report.

Stan Ascher, owner of Wood and Link Fence Co., reported the thefts Thursday, and a company employee pointed out areas where the fencing was believed to have been used.

At one home, the couple living there admitted taking $25 worth of fencing to build their porch, saying they thought it was scrap and not intended for use. They offered to pay for the fencing.

The remainder of the fencing apparently was taken by children who used it to build a tree house near a creek that runs east from Walnut Lane. Police are watching the tree house to see who uses it.

The theft of a spare tire and wheel, valued at $80, from a station wagon parked west of the Sears store in Woodfield, was reported to Schaumburg police Thursday afternoon by John M. Annis, 1600 Sycamore, Hanover Park.

Library Conducts Storytelling Session

A trial session of storytelling for three-year-olds will be conducted by the Schaumburg Township Public Library beginning Oct. 25.

Mrs. Jo Monson, staff artist and storyteller will conduct the 20-minute sessions designed for the three-year-olds own interest level.

Enrollment in this trial program is closed, however if the program is successful the three-year-old story hour will become a permanent part of the library's children's services.

Children 4 and 5 years old are presently attending the weekly sessions planned for them. The sessions include songs, stories and finger play. The library's menagerie of puppets help in the storytelling.

Information about the story hours for children may be obtained by calling the library at 529-3373.

Rehearsals Begin For Variety Show

Schaumburg High School VIP Club members and the Schaumburg faculty begin rehearsals tonight for a variety show Dec. 4 and 5.

The Schaumburg parents and teachers start rehearsals for the two day performance that includes a minstrel show and variety acts.

Bill Keller of the Tri-Village Theatre Guild will direct the show scheduled at Schaumburg High School.

Proceeds from the performance will be used for projects to benefit the school. The VIP Club are the parents of students who recently completed a successful fund raising drive to purchase and install sod on the school's playing fields.

Could 'Run Out Of Money'

Financial Picture 'Bleak' For Area School District

Preliminary estimates present a "bleak" financial picture for School Dist. 21 during the 1972-73 fiscal year, according to Dist. 21 Business Mgr. Walter Fuller.

If the estimates prove to be accurate, the district's expenditures will exceed its revenue by $400,000. Fuller stated, and the district could "simply run out of money."

Fuller presented a preliminary report on the anticipated financial condition of Dist. 21 at Thursday's school board meeting.

Fuller said the district estimates that assessed valuation in Dist. 21 will go up by $10 million a year in the next two years.

The district also estimates that state aid to the district will be increased by 5 per cent in the next fiscal year and that average daily attendance in the Dist. 21 schools, a factor in determining state aid to the district, will also increase by about 300 students over the current year.

However, expenditures in the district will also increase in 1972-73, Fuller said. He estimated that expenditures in the next fiscal year will be about 5 per cent higher than in the current fiscal year.

FULLER SAID that the decrease in cash available to the district during the current fiscal year would be $500,000 by the end of the fiscal year June 30, if the $200,000 in reserve contingencies is spent.

Fuller said the district has no plans now to spend the funds now in the contingency account, but that in past years some of this money has been transferred to other accounts and spent for items not anticipated in the budget, such as the cost of additional heating of buildings.

Fuller emphasized that the estimates presented are preliminary and conservative, and will be revised if new information pertaining to finances is obtained.

A greater increase in assessed valuation and state aid than anticipated would change the estimates, he noted.

Fuller said the district also hopes that enrollment in the 15 Dist. 21 schools will increase over the year, without causing a great increase in operating expenses.

Fuller said that the district needs a greater increase in state aid than the 5 per cent anticipated, and that state legislators must be informed of the financial plight of the schools.

Wickes Ignites Panel's OK

A massive furniture store specializing in a "cash and carry" trade was favored by the Wheeling Plan Commission at a public hearing Thursday.

The 150,000 square foot Wickes Co. store would have an estimated $10 to $12 million in sales per year. That would mean approximately $100,000 in sales tax revenue to the village, according to Michael Valenza, village trustee and plan commissioner.

Valenza said the tax revenue and the company's promise to pave part of Wheeling Road are two major benefits of the proposal.

The store would be located on an 11-acre site east of the Soo Line Railroad Tracks and west of the Wheeling Municipal Building on the south side of Dundee Road.

PLANS FOR THE store include paving and improving Wheeling Road as a dead end street to Heritage Park south of the site.

The entrance to the store parking lot would be off of Wheeling Road rather than Dundee Road.

The 19 acres between the village municipal building and the furniture store site will remain undeveloped at present and will retain the industrial zoning currently on the land, Valenza said. Only the 11 acres for the Wickes store will be rezoned for business use.

While plan commissioners voted that the preliminary plan for the development was correct they did not give official approval. Valenza had told the commission that Village Atty. Paul Hamer had said planning approval should not be given until the zoning on the property is changed by village board action.

Valenza said he and other village board members toured a similar store in St. Louis recently along with various village employees as a part of the zoning petition. Since the zoning hearing the company has withdrawn the rezoning request for the adjoining 19 acres, Valenza said.

Plan Commission Chm. Herb Lortz asked about a sidewalk along Wheeling Road for children walking to the park, but Valenza said the children could use a blacktopped area along the parking lot instead.

New Store To Have 'Bright Spot'

Wheeling may soon be one of the "brightest" suburbs around.

Part of a recent proposal for the new Wickes furniture store in the village is for a 150-foot-tall lamppost to be built in front of the store on Dundee Road.

Wheeling Trustee Michael Valenza and other village officials saw a similar post in St. Louis at a Wickes store.

At Thursday's plan commission meeting Valenza was enthusiastic about the huge post.

He said the 15-story-tall fixture had become a landmark in the St. Louis area and that installing one at the Wheeling store would be a boon to the community.

VALENZA SAID the post lighted the building and parking lot to almost daylight levels at 10 p.m. Yet the lights are designed with special nonglare bulbs and reflectors so that the light doesn't shine on surrounding property, he said.

Valenza was most intrigued by a special "bucket" car which ran up the side of the pole along a track for a man to adjust and aim the light fixtures.

The pole is only used for light and not as a sign, Valenza said. He estimated that it will cost $20,000.

The Federal Aviation Administration has given permission for such a pole to be built at the site in Wheeling, Valenza said.

The village board will still have to grant a height variation before such a tall pole can be built, Valenza said.

A railroad spur will be extended from the Soo Line R.R. tracks to the property so furniture can be delivered by rail.

Lortz asked the Wickes officials to provide a walkway across the track spur so children could cross to the park.

OTHER PLAN commissioners were concerned about the landscaping to prevent what Commr. Wilfred Sommer called "a sea of asphalt" in the parking lot.

The Wickes officials agreed to provide a detailed landscaping plan for the property to the village before the next plan commission hearing.

Sommer also questioned whether the store would look "Barn-like" similar to the Wickes Lumber Co. operations in the western suburbs. Valenza said the building would be low with a face-brick front. He said it was "so beautiful it makes Randhurst look to shame."

Engr. Joseph Koenan told the board a 1-acre detention pond four feet deep would be built on the 19-acre parcel between Wickes and the municipal building for storm water storage.

FOUR YOUNG maple trees found a new home last week on the grounds of Eugene Field School in Wheeling. Boys in Cub Scout Pack 247 planted the trees on the grounds. The trees were grown from seeds by Field student Jody Brunette.

Park District Plans Two Hayrides And A 'Boo Ball'

Plans for two fall hayrides and for the annual "Boo Ball" Halloween party have been announced by the Wheeling Park District.

This year's "Boo Ball" will feature a carnival theme, according to district recreation director Bruce Coleman.

The free party for children from kindergarten through eighth grade will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. Oct. 30 at the Heritage Park Fieldhouse, 222 S. Wolf Road.

Coleman also said yesterday that local residents may now sign up for the hayrides — one for adults and one for teenagers.

The ride for teenagers will be held Oct. 23 and the adult ride will be held Nov. 13. Final registration for each ride ends the day before the ride.

The cost to go on either ride is $2 per person.

Entertainment will be included in the ride.

Local residents may register for the rides at the Heritage Park fieldhouse Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Star Gazers Now Have Club Of Own

Star gazers in the Northwest suburbs will have the opportunity to get together and compare notes in a new association for amateur astronomers now being formed in the area.

Northwest Suburban Astronomers (NSA) is the name chosen for the group, just formed in the past month by two Wheeling men, Gerald Schultz and Jack Kramer.

Schultz is president pro tem of the infant group and Kramer is editor of the monthly newsletter, "The Celestial Log" published from Kramer's home at 121 Mockingbird Ln.

NSA was formed to promote communication between amateur astronomers in the Northwest suburban area, Kramer said. The group is affiliated with the Chicago Astronomical Society, an association of amateur astronomers throughout the Chicago area.

"ASTRONOMERS LIKE to get together to compare observations. If they live close to one another, one can run over to another's house. But Chicago Astronomical Society members live in widely-separated areas. By forming a group out here, we hope to promote the exchange of information between amateur astronomers in this area," Kramer explained.

NSA members haven't decided on a meeting place yet or a regular meeting date. The group plans to wait until more members join before deciding on a regular schedule of meetings.

"A lot of people aren't aware that a great many contributions to astronomy are the result of amateurs," said Kramer, who has been interested in the science since grade school.

"A lot of useful work can be done by amateurs. It may not be the caliber of the professionals, but it gives people satisfaction. The Chicago Astronomical Society (CAS), the oldest amateur society in the U. S., helped set up the Dearborn University at Northwestern University," he added.

One ambitious project NSA members plan to work on is compiling a comprehensive bibliography, cross-index and universal catalogue for all data relating to astronomy, to be stored for easy reference in a computer data bank.

To date, no such universal source for astronomical information exists, for either amateur or professional astronomers.

THE PROJECT was Schultz' brainchild and he has devoted many hours of his free time to getting the program off the ground.

"A major problem for astronomers is finding all the references for a particular object. Since no universal source of information exists, he must check out all the references, a process that can mean thousands of hours of research work," Schultz explained.

Schultz and other members of the CAS and NSA will begin key-punching data from one astronomical catalog into a computer this weekend, using the facilities of the Blue Cross Association Computer Center in Chicago.

When this catalogue is completed, others will be key-punched, until all published references on astronomy are key-punched and ready for storing in a data bank.

SCHULTZ ESTIMATED that if he were to work on this project alone, it would take him 15 years to complete it. With the assistance of others, however, he

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Police posted a heavy guard at the New York hospital where H. Rap Brown was recuperating from gunshot wounds as a precaution against liberating the long-sought black militant by force.

Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., made public a congressional audit he said indicated the Air Force spent more than $500,000 in 1970 on junkets for civilians. Reuss said the costs of the tours were audited by the General Accounting Office.

Presidential adviser Henry Kissinger and a group of aides spent Sunday in Hawaii making final preparations for their trip to China to discuss details of President Nixon's visit.

The House will consider for the second time this week a proposal to set a specific date for withdrawing all U.S. forces from Indochina. Increased antiwar sentiment indicated a possible close vote, perhaps on Tuesday.

Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., one of two announced candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination, predicted that a Negro could be elected vice president. He said Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Me., made a serious mistake when he said a presidential candidate could not win with a black running mate.

The World

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin left for Canada to tighten the new Soviet-Canadian "partnership" as part of the Kremlin's worldwide public relations campaign. It was the first trip by a Soviet premier to Canada.

Two Israeli soldiers were killed and two others wounded when an anti-vehicle mine planted by Palestinian guerrillas went off in Israeli-occupied Golan Heights.

The War

B52 bombers attacked Communist positions near the Cambodian border in a renewed effort to break up a Communist offensive entering its fourth week near strategic U.S. Fire Base Pace, the U.S. command said.

Sports

The Pittsburgh Pirates capped a stunning comeback by winning the World Series, getting four-hit pitching from Steve Blass and a home run by Roberto Clemente to beat the Baltimore Orioles, 2-1. The seventh-game victory gave Pittsburgh its first world championship since 1960.

Racing's Scandal Figures Spearheaded Disannex Bill

by DOUG RAY

Key figures in the recently disclosed race track stock scandal spearheaded a bill through the Illinois General Assembly in 1955 which allowed Arlington Park Race Track to disannex from Rolling Meadows.

The legislation benefiting Arlington Park may have been one of the first in a series of legislative bills which were hand-tailored for Illinois racing magnates.

Included among the legislators who actively supported the bill was then president pro tem of the senate Arthur J. Bidwill. R-River Forest, who has been implicated along with other top politicians for having either direct or indirect ownership of race track stocks.

Removal of race track properties from Rolling Meadows meant a loss of only about $2,500 in 1955 but more importantly a reduction in the property valuation for bonding purposes for the newly formed city. However, last year the race track facilities generated more than $300,000 in tax returns to Arlington Heights and with future developments, which may include apartment complexes and a sports arena, the tax revenue will continue to increase.

IN FEBRUARY, 1955 the City of Rolling Meadows was incorporated. Included in the boundaries were the Arlington Park Race Track properties, the Arlington Crest subdivision of 100 homes, the Chicago and North Western Ry., right-of-way, along with adjacent land. Under existing laws there was no way for this property to avoid inclusion in Rolling Meadows.

The law was changed within four months of Rolling Meadows' formation, when House Bill 795 passed the Illinois General Assembly, allowing the track and other properties on the perimeter of the city to disannex. The bill provided that the properties could be removed within a year of annexation, if the majority of the voters and the majority of the land owners requested to be detached.

The bill was introduced in the House on April 19, 1955. After approval by the House Committee on Municipalities, it was approved in the House on May 10 and sent to the Senate.

The Senate voted approval on June 29,

the day before its required adjournment. Gov. William Stratton signed it into law on July 13.

The bill was unanimously passed despite opposition from the Illinois Municipal League. It was termed "special interest legislation."

Legislative leader Bidwill was instrumental in passing the bill. He and other 1955 legislators have recently been named as recipients of race track stocks. According to some published reports, Bidwill's daughter, son and nephew have more than $900,000 in racing stocks. Bidwill has also been named as an intermediary between Illinois officials and former Arlington Park operator Mrs. Marj Everett.

INCLUDED IN THE 1955 legislature were Paul Powell, former secretary of state; John W. Lewis, present secretary of state; and William E. Pollack and others who have been named in the race track scandal.

Rolling Meadows Ald. Thomas Waldron was a city official at the time of the Arlington Park disannexation and made attempts to stop the legislation.

"I made a telephone call to Bidwill,"

Waldron said. "I asked him if something couldn't be done." But Waldron recalls that Bidwill said it was not in his power to change the bill's certain passage.

Former Rolling Meadows Mayor John Northcott traveled to Springfield to seek Stratton's veto of the bill. He argued that it would have serious consequences to any newly formed community. But Stratton signed the bill only days after the meeting.

WALDRON SAID he talked to race track representatives and asked why they were seeking disannexation from Rolling Meadows. Arlington Park officials feared restrictions, according to Waldron.

Undoubtedly the track would have been subject to some restrictions by being forcibly annexed to Rolling Meadows. Annexation of the race track property without prior negotiations for city benefits to the track, would have been less than desirable to Arlington Park officials.

When the race track was finally annexed to Arlington Heights in 1969, there were many concessions the village guaranteed operator Marj Everett, president of Chicago thoroughbred Enterprises Inc (CTE).

Included in the 1969 preannexation agreement, the Village of Arlington Heights guaranteed to furnish additional police protection "as may be required for the effective management of crowds and traffic control." Also police and fire substations may be built on race track property.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS agreed to petition the Illinois Commerce Commission to locate a new passenger station for the Chicago and North Western Ry., on track land and the village agreed to pay its share toward the cost of the station. The CTE contribution was limited to providing the site for the station.

Arlington Heights stated it would amend its liquor control ordinance to permit "sufficient liquor licenses to be issued" as well as an agreement not to oppose any night thoroughbred racing at the track.

Village officials are under contract to "issue all licenses necessary to operate the existing uses and facilities on the property."

As a final agreement between the two groups, the CTE may elect to disconnect the property from the village, if the village breaks "any terms" of the agreement.

When the announcement was made that Arlington Park would become a part of Arlington Heights, Mayor Jack Walsh said the agreement took several years of negotiations.

HOWEVER, IN February 1955 Rolling Meadows took jurisdiction of race track activities without any such agreement. Four months later, the law changed and Arlington Park and all the adjacent property could be and was removed from newly created Rolling Meadows.

Shortly after House Bill 795 passed and was signed by Stratton, the owners of the Arlington Crest subdivision petitioned to remove the area from Rolling Meadows. Then came the disconnection of the railway and then Arlington Park properties pushing back the northern boundaries of Rolling Meadows to Euclid Avenue.

Rolling Meadows attorneys appealed House Bill 795 on grounds it was unconstitutional but the Illinois Supreme Court upheld the legislation in 1956.

Plan To Prevent Oil Spills Revealed

The company responsible for oil spill in Weller Creek announced a five-point program aimed at preventing future spills.

The oil spill, some 200 gallons of commercial fuel oil which surfaced Wednesday in the creek, was traced to the Multigraphics Division of the Addressograph Multigraph Corp., 1800 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect, by the Metropolitan Sanitary District.

Edward Bruning, vice president and general manager of the company (which formerly contained the Charles Bruning Co. also), said they were "taking steps to insure positively that there will be no recurrence of the oil spill."

HE EXPLAINED the original spill which occurred in the plant's parking lot took place about 7 a.m. Monday. At the time an outside oil company was filling one of the plant's storage tanks.

"At that time a defective gauge indicated the tank could hold more oil than it actually could hold," Bruning said. "The tank was around the corner and out of sight of the operator."

Bruning said that eight employees were sent out immediately to apply an oil absorbent material. He said some 2,000 pounds of the material were used to soak up the oil and then barreled. The man then flushed out the area.

"We were not aware any oil had gotten into the storm sewer system," Bruning said. As a result he said, no authorities were notified.

However, Wednesday morning's heavy rain apparently caused the oil to leave the storm sewer system and enter the creek at Central Road.

"We would not blame the oil company. It was an unfortunate incident, but our responsibility," Bruning said. "The gauge was inspected in February and was found to be working."

To avoid future oil spills the company will:

—Lock the inlet closures to their fuel tanks so they can not be filled without the company's knowledge.

—Have a company employee present at all fillings of the tanks.

—Install a safety level alarm system in the tanks.

—Close off surface drains in the parking lot where the spill occurred.

—Work closely with the Metropolitan Sanitary District and the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency to correct the situation. A work crew had already been hired to work along with the Mount Prospect public works people.

DAVE CREAMER, director of Mount Prospect Public Works Dept., said his men have set up a catch basin at a temporary dam built Wednesday just south of Central Road. The catch basin will be used to trap any oil still in the storm sewer between the Multigraphics plant and the creek. The company is currently flushing that line.

John Tomaras of the MSD said that the Multigraphics Division will be held responsible for the cost of the cleanup. He added the MSD was happy with the progress of the cleanup.

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency had a man on the scene, according to Benn Leland, one of their supervisors for this area. He said a report will be written and submitted to the agency's Springfield office. At that time a decision will be made as to whether the agency will get further involved in the case.

A STROLLING MARIACHI string band entertained shoppers last weekend at Mount Prospect's Randhurst Shopping Center during the "Alls Fair," a minority group business exposition. Some 40 businesses had displays at the two-day event. The band was provided by the Azteca Corn Products Corp. of Chicago.

Two-Day Minority Group Exposition At Randhurst

by ALAN AKERSON

Winford Bryant and Everett Jones first met early last summer at an Operation Breadbasket meeting in Chicago.

Now, only a few months later, the two have formed a corporation that makes and leases business and home security equipment at a price, they say, that is far below that of their competitors.

Bryant and Jones, both black, were among the minority group entrepreneurs — some 40 in all — who came to Mount Prospect's Randhurst Shopping Center last week to show their wares to the Northwest suburbs.

The two-day minority group business exposition, called "Alls Fair," was sponsored and paid for by more than 30 area human relations groups, churches, individuals and businesses.

Thousands of shoppers at Randhurst saw the exhibits in the shopping center's mall Saturday and Sunday. It was the second "Alls Fair," the first being held in June, 1970.

AMONG THE exhibitors were black artists, Indians displaying clothing from their country, and Mexican-Americans who sell Mexican food products.

According to Patricia Vockeroth, a spokesman for the event, the goal of Alls Fair is to give Northwest suburban residents a chance "to view the multi-faceted talents and accomplishments of the various minority groups" that live in the Chicago area.

The businesses represented at the event ran the gamut from one-man operations to corporations that cost thousands of dollars to organize.

As for Bryant and Jones their start was of the shoestring variety. "All our products, I invented," says 22-year-old Bryant, who, incidentally, dropped out of school in the ninth grade.

HIS PARTNER, Jones, is 33, holds a bachelor's degree in business administration, a master's degree in urban studies and is a former college teacher.

Jones said that after they met, he became impressed with Bryant's inventive abilities that led to the corporation. Bryant said it took him about three weeks to build the security device, known as the "Ghost Control System," and ready it for marketing. The device looks like nothing more than a gray metal box about the size of a cigar box. But, the two contend it can detect a break-in, a fire or any other kind of damage in any size business or home.

And, while the two readily admit the profit motive was behind their enterprise, there is another reason for their business. "Currently we are employing three mothers on welfare," said Jones.

At the other end of the financial scale is the Azteca Corn Products Corp., also from Chicago. Set up by 10 Chicago Mexican-Americans, it required an initial investment of about a quarter million dollars, according to one of the backers, Joseph Canchola, a Chicago stockbroker.

THE FACTORY, currently employing 17 persons, most of whom are Mexican-Americans, supplies Mexican corn-based foods to Chicago area grocery store chains and to several Mexican restaurants. "We're here at Alls Fair," explained Canchola, "to introduce the product to the Anglo market — one which we feel the surface has only barely been scratched in. And, there's no question the market is growing. There's lot of potential out here."

The Azteca Corn Products Corp. has done about $50,000 business thus far in its first year. Canchola's prediction for next year? "We are shooting for a million five."

Group Formed To Battle Low-Income Housing

A group of Des Plaines homeowners is being formed to fight development of low and moderate-income housing in the city.

The group's first meeting will be held at 8 p.m. today at 560 Webford Ave., the home of the group organizers, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Botte.

According to Mrs. Botte, discussion at the meeting will include suggestions to be presented to the Des Plaines City Council. Residents will be encouraged to learn about low-income housing and to speak out on the issue, she said.

"We feel that too many people here are not aware of what an organization like the CMCC (Concerned Metropolitan Citizens Committee) can do. If individuals don't speak up, decisions for low-income housing will be made by a select few," not the $7,000 people of Des Plaines, she said.

THE BOTTE family moved to Des Plaines in June from a neighborhood on the far South Side of Chicago, Mrs. Botte said.

A committee of the city council is expected to hold a public hearing soon on suggestions by the CMCC, a Chicago area group which has also campaigned for low-income housing in Arlington Heights.

CMCC suggestions to change city zoning codes and to begin active city efforts for new housing have received support from the Des Plaines Human Relations Commission, the Des Plaines League of Women Voters, and from 14 clergymen, from many of the city's largest churches.

Eighty members of the Lake Park Civic Association on the southside of Des Plaines voted unanimously last week to oppose low-income housing. A survey of homeowners is now being conducted in the Lake Park area, according to William Kampka, association president.

The League of Women Voters is also conducting a survey of local industries to determine the need for low-income housing, according to league spokesmen.

THE CMCC, which has held several meetings in Des Plaines, has accused the city officials of "unconscious racism" and discrimination in zoning practices. Speakers at CMCC meetings, some of the Des Plaines residents, have described unhealthy and unsafe housing conditions in Des Plaines.

City officials have pointed out that people of all ethnic groups live in Des Plaines, and high land prices cause high rents and home costs.

'Broadway' Will Open Concert Group's Season

"Three on Broadway" a review featuring Ronald Rogers and Jan McArt, will open the 1971-72 season of the Northwest Community Concert Association.

The review of songs from Broadway shows will be presented at 8 p.m. Thursday at Wheeling High School.

Rogers has sung in Carnegie Hall and toured the United States with Paul LaValle and the Band of America, as well as in his own show, "A Cavalcade of Musical Comedy." He has also been a guest artist with many symphony orchestras in the country and has appeared in starring roles in 24 musical comedy productions in cities throughout the nation.

Miss McArt has been a soprano with the San Francisco Opera and was a featured singer in the NBC television production of the opera "La Boheme," for which she was nominated to receive an Emmy Award.

Miss McArt has also appeared in Broadway productions and has toured the country in summer stock musical comedies. She has also appeared with singer Jack Jones in his act, which has toured the nation.

hopes it can be finished in five years. The project would also involve periodic updating of the reference material.

Eventually Schultz hopes to interest professional astronomers in the project, and establish a site for a permanent data bank.

Although Schultz' project is the most ambitious undertaken by NSA, the group also intends to conduct field trips and other research projects. One field trip is planned to the Yerkes Observatory at Williams Bay, Wis., site of the largest refracting telescope in the world.

"Amateur astronomers can contribute much to the basic knowledge in the field, and we're hoping to do just that, by providing a forum for people in our area to get together," said Kramer.

5th Graders Collect Glass For Recycling

Fifth graders at Walt Whitman School in Wheeling collected two carloads of glass bottles recently to donate to the glass recycling drive conducted by the Wheeling Jaycees.

The students were the first group in the village to contribute bottles to the community-wide campaign. They collected bottles from students and teachers throughout the school.

Plans are now underway to attempt to make Whitman School a permanent station for collecting used glass and paper for recycling.

For Third Time In Two Years

Trustees To Consider A Village-Run Fire Dept.

For the third time in two years, Buffalo Grove trustees will consider creating a village-run municipal fire department.

At tonight's village board meeting, the trustees will discuss a plan to form a single department to operate in all village areas.

Currently, the Long Grove Fire Department protects all of the homes north of Checker Road and the Buffalo Grove Fire Department, Inc. serves the rest of the village.

THE BUFFALO Grove Fire Department Inc. is a private corporation and receives tax money from the Wheeling Township Rural Fire Protection District under a contract to provide fire protection. The boundaries of the fire protection district cover the Village of Wheeling and part of Buffalo Grove.

The proposal to create a village-wide fire department was first proposed in May of 1970. In rejecting that proposal, the trustees called for a detailed report on the matter.

In January of this year, Kenneth Felten, then a trustee, presented a report urging that a municipal department be formed.

The trustees voted down the proposal again, saying that it would not be financially feasible, but appointed a committee to study the question.

At tonight's meeting, the trustees will receive two reports which support the creation of a municipal fire department.

ONE REPORT, not dated or signed, is entitled, "Important Facts to Consider Regarding Fire Protection for Buffalo Grove."

The other report, compiled by the committee created to study the proposal is signed by Trustee Edward Fabish and former Trustee Robert Gleeson, who did not run for reelection in April.

The second report recommends that the village "take the necessary steps to create a municipal fire department for the Village of Buffalo Grove."

Also on the agenda at tonight's meeting is a report on the proposed incinerator at the Arlington Heights landfill, a proposal to change office hours at the village hall, and the awarding of contracts for sidewalk replacement and the purchase of radios for the public works department.

The trustees will review a recommendation from the village manager to declare the Buffalo Utility Co.'s out-of-operation sewage treatment plant a public nuisance. They will review the agreement for payment of the fire department's aerial ladder truck.

Park District Approves Plans For Major Projects

The Buffalo Grove Park District has approved preliminary plans for two major projects, both of which will probably cost more than originally estimated.

Despite the approval, park commissioners said Thursday they will have to study the projects more before making a final decision on an indoor swimming pool at the Buffalo Grove High School site and the swimming pool and park complex in Lake County.

The two projects will cost a total of about $920,000.

The Lake County park will be located on land around the sewage treatment plant.

The new cost estimate for the two projects is still within the $1,250,000 authorized in a referendum by voters for park improvement. The park commissioners must now decide if they want to spend that much money for just two projects.

HIGH SCHOOL Dist. 214 will pay the difference between the original estimated cost of $382,000 for the indoor pool and the $352,000 now predicted.

The estimated cost of the outdoor pool in Lake County is about $40,000 more than anticipated. The cost of landscaping and installing other facilities adds another $76,000 and brings the total cost to $359,000.

Some of that money has been allocated, but the commissioners do not know if they spend $359,000 for one development, there will still be adequate funds left to develop other sites.

Commenting on the budgeting dilemma, Comm. William Kinkade said, "we have to get the total costs together (for all planned developments) and see what to do and what not to do."

Student Council Elects Officers

New student council members were elected at Henry Wadsworth Longfellow School in Buffalo Grove.

President of the student council is Suzanne Donahue. Vice president is Pat Staudt and secretary is Susan Wood. Fourth grade members-at-large are Erik Abrahamson and Blake Hobson. Fifth grade members-at-large to the council are Don Parcell and Mike Shaw. Sixth grade members-at-large are Mark Pegram and Connie Rejos.

The Longfellow student council helps to organize school activities, promotes good citizenship and good relationships between students and teachers.

New Number For Village Hall

The new telephone number for the village municipal building will go into effect today.

The new number — 537-8984 — will replace four separate numbers formerly used by the village.

The new number will be used for every department except the police and fire department.

The emergency police number will remain 537-4221; the fire emergency number will remain 537-5533.

Guilty After Gas Station Tiff

A Buffalo Grove man who charged Elk Grove Village police beat him March 14 was found guilty of aggravated battery and resisting arrest Friday by a jury in a trial marked by conflicting testimony.

Byron Crowell, 33, of 871 Westbourne Ln., was found guilty of misdemeanor charges after the jury deliberated three hours to end a four-day trial in the Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court before Associate Judge John Ouska.

Crowell's nephew, Allen Batton, 19, of Michigan, who also was on trial, was found guilty of resisting arrest but not guilty of aggravated battery. Another hearing in the case is set for Nov. 30.

Both men, who admittedly had been drinking, charged police used unnecessary force in arresting them last March in an incident at a gas station at 1 E. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village.

Included in the trial was the testimony of Crowell's 10-year-old daughter, who said she saw her father struck by police in the service station while watching from a parked car, and of Crowell's wife.

THE INCIDENT stemmed from an argument when Batton lost 45 cents in a cigarette vending machine in the service station. The argument became heated when a service station attendant refused to return the change, but told Batton to leave his name and address.

Crowell joined the argument and police were then called in.

School Fund Outlook 'Bleak'

Preliminary estimates present a "bleak" financial picture for School Dist. 21 during the 1972-73 fiscal year, according to Dist. 21 Business Mgr. Walter Fuller.

If the estimates prove to be accurate, the district's expenditures will exceed its revenue by $400,000, Fuller stated, and the district could "simply run out of money."

Fuller presented a preliminary report on the anticipated financial condition of Dist. 21 at Thursday's school board meeting.

Fuller said the district estimates that assessed valuation in Dist. 21 will go up by $10 million a year in the next two years.

The district also estimates that state aid to the district will be increased by 5 per cent in the next fiscal year and that average daily attendance in the Dist. 21 schools, a factor in determining state aid to the district, will also increase by about 300 students over the current year.

However, expenditures in the district will also increase in 1972-73, Fuller said. He estimated that expenditures in the next fiscal year will be about 5 per cent higher than in the current fiscal year.

FULLER SAID that the decrease in cash available to the district during the current fiscal year would be $500,000 by the end of the fiscal year June 30, if the $200,000 in reserve contingencies is spent.

Fuller said the district has no plans now to spend the funds now in the contingency account, but that in past years some of this money has been transferred to other accounts and spent for items not anticipated in the budget, such as the cost of additional heating of buildings.

Fuller emphasized that the estimates presented are preliminary and conservative, and will be revised if new information pertaining to finances is obtained.

A greater increase in assessed valuation and state aid than anticipated would change the estimates, he noted.

Fuller said the district also hopes that enrollment in the 15 Dist. 21 schools will increase over the year, without causing a great increase in operating expenses.

Fuller said that the district needs a greater increase in state aid than the 5 per cent anticipated, and that state legislators must be informed of the financial plight of the schools.

FOUR YOUNG maple trees found a new home last week on the grounds of Eugene Field School in Wheeling. Boys in Cub Scout Pack 247 planted the trees on the grounds. The trees were grown from seeds by Field student Jody Brunette.

Star Gazers Now Have Club Of Own

Star gazers in the Northwest suburbs will have the opportunity to get together and compare notes in a new association for amateur astronomers now being formed in the area.

Northwest Suburban Astronomers (NSA) is the name chosen for the group, just formed in the past month by two Wheeling men, Gerald Schultz and Jack Kramer.

Schultz is president pro tem of the infant group and Kramer is editor of the monthly newsletter, "The Celestial Log" published from Kramer's home at 121 Mockingbird Ln.

NSA was formed to promote communication between amateur astronomers in the Northwest suburban area, Kramer said. The group is affiliated with the Chicago Astronomical Society, an association of amateur astronomers throughout the Chicago area.

"ASTRONOMERS LIKE to get together to compare observations. If they live close to one another, one can run over to another's house. But Chicago Astronomical Society members live in widely-separated areas. By forming a group out here, we hope to promote the exchange of information between amateur astronomers in this area," Kramer explained.

NSA members haven't decided on a meeting place yet or a regular meeting date. The group plans to wait until more members join before deciding on a regular schedule of meetings.

"A lot of people aren't aware that a great many contributions to astronomy are the result of amateurs," said Kramer, who has been interested in the science since grade school.

"A lot of useful work can be done by amateurs. It may not be the caliber of the professionals, but it gives people satisfaction. The Chicago Astronomical Society (CAS), the oldest amateur society in the U. S., helped set up the Dearborn University at Northwestern University," he added.

One ambitious project NSA members plan to work on is compiling a comprehensive bibliography, cross-index and universal catalogue for all data relating to astronomy, to be stored for easy reference in a computer data bank.

To date, no such universal source for astronomical information exists, for either amateur or professional astronomers.

THE PROJECT was Schultz' brainchild and he has devoted many hours of his free time to getting the program off the ground.

"A major problem for astronomers is finding all the references for a particular object. Since no universal source of information exists, he must check out all the references, a process that can mean thousands of hours of research work," Schultz explained.

Schultz and other members of the CAS and NSA will begin key-punching data from one astronomical catalog into a computer this weekend, using the facilities of the Blue Cross Association Computer Center in Chicago.

When this catalogue is completed, others will be key-punched, until all published references on astronomy are key-punched and ready for storing in a data bank.

SCHULTZ ESTIMATED that if he were to work on this project alone, it would take him 15 years to complete it. With the assistance of others, however, he

Racing's Scandal Figures Spearheaded Disannex Bill

by DOUG RAY

Key figures in the recently disclosed race track scandal spearheaded a bill through the Illinois General Assembly in 1955 which allowed Arlington Park Race Track to disannex from Rolling Meadows.

The legislation benefiting Arlington Park may have been one of the first in a series of legislative bills which were hand-tailored for Illinois racing magnates.

Included among the legislators who actively supported the bill was then president pro tem of the senate Arthur J. Bidwill, R-River Forest, who has been implicated along with other top politicians for having either direct or indirect ownership of race track stocks.

Removal of race track properties from Rolling Meadows meant a loss of only about $2,500 in 1955 but more importantly a reduction in the property valuation for bonding purposes for the newly formed city. However, last year the race track facilities generated more than $300,000 in tax returns to Arlington Heights and with future developments, which may include apartment complexes and a sports arena, the tax revenue will continue to increase.

IN FEBRUARY, 1955 the City of Rolling Meadows was incorporated. Included in the boundaries were the Arlington Park Race Track properties, the Arlington Crest subdivision of 100 homes, the Chicago and North Western Ry., right-of-way, along with adjacent land. Under existing laws there was no way for this property to avoid inclusion in Rolling Meadows.

The law was changed within four months of Rolling Meadows' formation, when House Bill 795 passed the Illinois General Assembly, allowing the track and other properties on the perimeter of the city to disannex. The bill provided that the properties could be removed within a year of annexation, if the majority of the voters and the majority of the land owners requested to be detached.

The bill was introduced in the House on April 19, 1955. After approval by the House Committee on Municipalities, it was approved in the House on May 13 and sent to the Senate.

The Senate voted approval on June 29,

the day before its required adjournment. Gov. William Stratton signed it into law on July 13.

The bill was unanimously passed despite opposition from the Illinois Municipal League. It was termed "special interest legislation."

Legislative leader Bidwill was instrumental in passing the bill. He and other 1955 legislators have recently been named as recipients of race track stocks. According to some published reports, Bidwill's daughter, son and nephew have more than $900,000 in racing stocks. Bidwill has also been named as an intermediary between Illinois officials and former Arlington Park Operator Mrs. Mary Everett.

INCLUDED IN THE 1955 legislature were Paul Powell, former secretary of state; John W. Lewis, present secretary of state, and William E. Pollack and others who have been named in the race track scandal.

Rolling Meadows Ald. Thomas Waldron was a city official at the time of the Arlington Park disannexation and made attempts to stop the legislation.

"I made a telephone call to Bidwill,"

Waldron said. "I asked him if something couldn't be done." But Waldron recalls that Bidwill said it was not in his power to change the bill's certain passage.

Former Rolling Meadows Mayor John Northcote traveled to Springfield to seek Stratton's veto of the bill. He argued that it would have serious consequences to any newly formed community. But Stratton signed the bill only days after the meeting.

WALDRON SAID he talked to race track representatives and asked why they were seeking disannexation from Rolling Meadows. Arlington Park officials feared restrictions, according to Waldron.

Undoubtedly the track would have been subject to some restrictions by being forcibly annexed to Rolling Meadows. Annexation of the race track property without prior negotiations for city benefits to the track, would have been less than desirable to Arlington Park officials.

When the race track was finally annexed to Arlington Heights in 1969, there were many concessions the village guaranteed operator Marj Everett, president of Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises Inc. (CTE).

Included in the 1969 preannexation agreement, the Village of Arlington Heights guaranteed to furnish additional police protection "as may be required for the effective management of crowds and traffic control." Also police and fire substations may be built on race track property.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS agreed to petition the Illinois Commerce Commission to locate a new passenger station for the Chicago and North Western Ry., on track land and the village agreed to pay its share toward the cost of the station. The CTE contribution was limited to providing the site for the station.

Arlington Heights stated it would amend its liquor control ordinance to permit "sufficient liquor licenses to be issued" as well as an agreement not to oppose any night thoroughbred racing at the track.

Village officials are under contract to "issue all licenses necessary to operate the existing uses and facilities on the property."

As a final agreement between the two groups, the CTE may elect to disconnect the property from the village, if the village breaks "any terms" of the agreement.

When the announcement was made that Arlington Park would become a part of Arlington Heights, Mayor Jack Walsh said the agreement took several years of negotiations.

HOWEVER, IN February 1955 Rolling Meadows took jurisdiction of race track activities without any such agreement. Four months later, the law changed and Arlington Park and all the adjacent property could be and was removed from newly created Rolling Meadows.

Shortly after House Bill 795 passed and was signed by Stratton, the owners of the Arlington Crest subdivision petitioned to remove the area from Rolling Meadows. Then came the disconnection of the railway and then Arlington Park properties pushing back the northern boundaries of Rolling Meadows to Euclid Avenue.

Rolling Meadows attorneys appealed House Bill 795 on grounds it was unconstitutional but the Illinois Supreme Court upheld the legislation in 1956.

Plan To Prevent Oil Spills Revealed

The company responsible for oil spill in Weller Creek announced a five-point program aimed at preventing future spills.

The oil spill, some 200 gallons of commercial fuel oil which surfaced Wednesday in the creek, was traced to the Multigraphics Division of the Addressograph Multigraph Corp., 1800 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect, by the Metropolitan Sanitary District.

Edward Bruning, vice president and general manager of the company (which formerly contained the Charles Bruning Co. also), said they were "taking steps to insure positively that there will be no recurrence of the oil spill."

HE EXPLAINED the original spill which occurred in the plant's parking lot, took place about 7 a.m. Monday. At the time an outside oil company was filling one of the plant's storage tanks.

At that time a defective gauge indicated the tank could hold more oil than it actually could hold," Bruning said. The tank was around the corner and out of sight of the operator."

Bruning said that eight employees were sent out immediately to apply an oil absorbent material. He said some 2,000 pounds of the material were used to soak up the oil and then barreled. The man then flushed out the area.

We were not aware any oil had gotten into the storm sewer system," Bruning said. As a result he said no authorities were notified.

However, Wednesday morning's heavy rain apparently caused the oil to leave the storm sewer system and enter the creek at Central Road.

We would not blame the oil company. It was an unfortunate incident, but our responsibility," Bruning said. "The gauge was inspected in February and was found to be working."

To avoid future oil spills the company will

—Lock the inlet closures to their fuel tanks so they can not be filled without the company's knowledge.

—Have a company employee present at all fillings of the tanks.

—Install a safety level alarm system in the tanks.

—Close off surface drains in the parking lot where the spill occurred.

—Work closely with the Metropolitan Sanitary District and the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency to correct the situation. A work crew had already been hired to work along with the Mount Prospect public works people.

DAVE CREAMER, director of Mount Prospect Public Works Dept., said his men have set up a catch basin at a temporary dam built Wednesday just south of Central Road. The catch basin will be used to trap any oil still in the storm sewer between the Multigraphics plant and the creek. The company is currently flushing that line.

John Tomaras of the MSD said that the Multigraphics Division will be held responsible for the cost of the cleanup. He added the MSD was happy with the progress of the cleanup.

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency had a man on the scene, according to Benn Leland, one of their supervisors for this area. He said a report will be written and submitted to the agency's Springfield office. At that time a decision will be made as to whether the agency will get further involved in the case.

A STROLLING MARIACHI string band entertained shoppers last weekend at Mount Prospect's Randhurst Shopping Center during the "Alls Fair," a minority group business exposition. Some 40 businesses had displays at the two-day event. The band was provided by the Azteca Corn Products Corp. of Chicago.

Two-Day Minority Group Exposition At Randhurst

by ALAN AKERSON

Winford Bryant and Everett Jones first met early last summer at an Operation Breadbasket meeting in Chicago.

Now, only a few months later, the two have formed a corporation that makes and leases business and home security equipment at a price, they say, that is far below that of their competitors.

Bryant and Jones, both black, were among the minority group entrepreneurs — some 40 in all — who came to Mount Prospect's Randhurst Shopping Center last week to show their wares to the Northwest suburbs.

The two-day minority group business exposition, called "Alls Fair," was sponsored and paid for by more than 30 area human relations groups, churches, individuals and businesses.

Thousands of shoppers at Randhurst saw the exhibits in the shopping center's mall Saturday and Sunday. It was the second "Alls Fair," the first being held in June, 1970.

AMONG THE exhibitors were black artists, Indians displaying clothing from their country, and Mexican-Americans who sell Mexican food products.

According to Patricia Vockereth, a spokesman for the event, the goal of Alls Fair is to give Northwest suburban residents a chance "to view the multi-faceted talents and accomplishments of the various minority groups" that live in the Chicago area.

The businesses represented at the event ran the gamut from one-man operations to corporations that cost thousands of dollars to organize.

As for Bryant and Jones they start was of the shoestring variety. "All our products, I invented," says 22-year-old Bryant, who, incidentally, dropped out of school in the ninth grade.

HIS PARTNER, Jones, is 33, holds a bachelor's degree in business administration, a master's degree in urban studies and is a former college teacher.

Jones said that after they met, he became impressed with Bryant's inventive abilities that led to the corporation. Bryant said it took him about three weeks to build the security device, known as the "Ghost Control System," and ready it for marketing. The device looks like nothing more than a gray metal box about the size of a cigar box. But, the two contend it can detect a break-in, a fire or any other kind of damage in any size business or home.

And, while the two readily admit the profit motive was behind their enterprise, there is another reason for their business. "Currently we are employing three mothers on welfare," said Jones.

At the other end of the financial scale is the Azteca Corn Products Corp., also from Chicago. Set up by 10 Chicago Mexican-Americans, it required an initial investment of about a quarter million dollars, according to one of the backers, Joseph Canchola, a Chicago stockbroker.

THE FACTORY, currently employing 17 persons, most of whom are Mexican-Americans, supplies Mexican corn-based foods to Chicago area grocery store chains and to several Mexican restaurants. "We're here at Alls Fair," explained Canchola, "to introduce the product to the Anglo market — one which we feel the surface has only barely been scratched in. And, there's no question the market is growing. There's a lot of potential out here."

The Azteca Corn Products Corp. has done about $50,000 business thus far in its first year. Canchola's prediction for next year? "We are shooting for a million five."

hopes it can be finished in five years. The project would also involve periodic updating of the reference material.

Eventually Schultz hopes to interest professional astronomers in the project, and establish a site for a permanent data bank.

Although Schultz' project is the most ambitious undertaken by NSA, the group also intends to conduct field trips and other research projects. One field trip is planned to the Yerkes Observatory at Williams Bay Wis., site of the largest refracting telescope in the world.

"Amateur astronomers can contribute much to the basic knowledge in the field, and we're hoping to do just that, by providing a forum for people in our area to get together," said Kramer.

5th Graders Collect Glass For Recycling

Fifth graders at Walt Whitman School in Wheeling collected two carloads of glass bottles recently to donate to the glass recycling drive conducted by the Wheeling Jaycees.

The students were the first group in the village to contribute bottles to the community-wide campaign. They collected bottles from students and teachers throughout the school.

Plans are now underway to attempt to make Whitman School a permanent station for collecting used glass and paper for recycling.

Group Formed To Battle Low-Income Housing

A group of Des Plaines homeowners is being formed to fight development of low and moderate-income housing in the city.

The group's first meeting will be held at 8 p.m. today at 560 Webford Ave., the home of the group organizers, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Botte.

According to Mrs. Botte, discussion at the meeting will include suggestions to be presented to the Des Plaines City Council. Residents will be encouraged to learn about low-income housing and to speak out on the issue, she said.

"We feel that too many people here are not aware of what an organization like the CMCC (Concerned Metropolitan Citizens Committee) can do. If individuals don't speak up, decisions for low-income housing will be made by a select few," not the 57,000 people of Des Plaines, she said.

THE BOTTE family moved to Des Plaines in June from a neighborhood on the far South Side of Chicago, Mrs. Botte said.

A committee of the city council is expected to hold a public hearing soon on suggestions by the CMCC, a Chicago area group which has also campaigned for low-income housing in Arlington Heights.

CMCC suggestions to change city zoning codes and to begin active city efforts for new housing have received support from the Des Plaines Human Relations Commission, the Des Plaines League of Women Voters, and from 14 clergymen, from many of the city's largest churches.

Eighty members of the Lake Park Civic Association on the southside of Des Plaines voted unanimously last week to oppose low-income housing. A survey of homeowners is now being conducted in the Lake Park area, according to William Kampka, association president.

The League of Women Voters is also conducting a survey of local industries to determine the need for low-income housing, according to league spokesmen.

THE CMCC, which has held several meetings in Des Plaines, has accused the city officials of "unconscious racism" and discrimination in zoning practices. Speakers at CMCC meetings, some of the Des Plaines residents, have described unhealthy and unsafe housing conditions in Des Plaines.

City officials have pointed out that people of all ethnic groups live in Des Plaines, and high land prices cause high rents and home costs.

'Broadway' Will Open Concert Group's Season

"Three on Broadway" a review featuring Ronald Rogers and Jan McArt, will open the 1971-72 season of the Northwest Community Concert Association.

The review of songs from Broadway shows will be presented at 8 p.m. Thursday at Wheeling High School.

Rogers has sung in Carnegie Hall and toured the United States with Paul LaValle and the Band of America, as well as in his own show, "A Cavalcade of Musical Comedy." He has also been a guest artist with many symphony orchestras in the country and has appeared in starring roles in 24 musical comedy productions in cities throughout the nation.

Miss McArt has been a soprano with the San Francisco Opera and was a featured singer in the NBC television production of the opera "La Boheme," for which she was nominated to receive an Emmy Award.

Miss McArt has also appeared in Broadway productions and has toured the country in summer stock musical comedies. She has also appeared with singer Jack Jones in his act, which has toured the nation.

Deny Injunction To Block Indoor Sports Complex

A request for an injunction to stop construction of a large indoor sports complex on Northwest Highway in Palatine was denied Friday in Cook County Circuit Court.

Attorneys for the Arlington Crest Civic Association sought the injunction to prohibit issuance of a building permit to Homebuilders of America, Inc., developers of the proposed complex.

Residents of the subdivision, which lies adjacent to the proposed complex, filed a petition for the injunction as a temporary measure to prevent construction. The group had previously filed a suit requesting the court reverse the village board's granting of a zoning change to allow construction of the complex.

Judge Edward Healy refused to grant the injunction, but warned Jordan Kaiser, president of Homebuilders of America, he would be proceeding with preliminary construction work on the site at his own risk pending a decision on the formal suit.

He set trial on the suit for 10 a.m. Oct. 29 at the Civic Center.

Attorneys for Arlington Crest objected to the ground work being done on the land by Homebuilders, explaining the building permit had not been issued.

However, Pete Apida, Palatine building officer, said verbal permission had been given to Kaiser to do site work, such as removing excess dirt and cleaning the area.

THE JUDGE DENIED the injunction as an interim measure before the decision on the suit because there were no witnesses present from Arlington Crest to testify.

Apida said a building permit has not been issued by his office for construction of the complex. Some engineering plans must still be worked out.

The Arlington Crest suit charges the village board's action in allowing the zoning change and special use for the sports complex was "arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable and not designed to promote the safety, convenience and general welfare of the public."

Plans for the sports complex, to be located east of Zayre's Department Store on Northwest Highway, include construction of six indoor tennis courts, an indoor ice rink and roller rink. Two separate buildings will be constructed, with the courts in one building and the rinks in a second sharing a common wall.

IT WASN'T DIFFICULT to pick out the cheer section in the parade for the Fremd High School homecoming Vikings. Members of the Pep Club made their presence, if not their lungs, known as they lent their support to the parade.

Report $340 Damage At Post Office Site

Damage estimated at $340 at the site of the new Palatine Post Office has been reported to police.

Robert Gurske, superintendent of Warhol Construction Co., said freshly poured concrete was dug out between 6:30 p.m. Thursday and 6:30 a.m. Friday at the construction site, 440 W. Colfax, Palatine police said.

Scandal Figures Led Track Disannex Bid

Key figures in the recently disclosed race track stock scandal spearheaded a bill through the Illinois General Assembly in 1955 which allowed Arlington Park Race Track to disannex from Rolling Meadows.

Rolling Meadows attorneys appealed House Bill 795 on grounds it was unconstitutional but the Illinois Supreme Court upheld the legislation in 1956.

Name Queens At Palatine, Fremd Highs

Neither Debra Ann Mandarino nor Connie Boles had ever been in a contest before, but both hit the jackpot Thursday night.

Miss Mandarino was crowned homecoming queen at Palatine High School and Miss Boles at William Fremd High School. They reigned over the various activities this weekend.

"I just heard my name and all I could do was sob, like it was coming from my toes," Miss Boles said.

Miss Mandarino had a similar reaction. "I was shocked," she said. "Everybody said I'd win but I didn't think so."

Both are 17. Miss Boles is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boles, 296 Briarwood Ln., Palatine. She plans to study English at Indiana University, Bloomington, while Miss Mandarino, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Mandarino, 220 Reseda Pkwy., Palatine, plans to become a nurse. She currently works at the St. Joseph Home for the Elderly.

Miss Mandarino was a member of her school's ski club for one year.

Miss Boles, who also enjoys skiing, has been on the pom-pom squad at Fremd for three years, and previously was a member of the student council.

Both were nominated and elected by their respective senior classes.

Yvonne Storer

You sit in the chair with your knees up to your chin listening to your child's teacher explain a typical school day. (It's parent-orientation night). And you thought you were busy! Wow! These kids are doing things in first and second grades that we were doing in seventh and eighth.

When we were in school the teachers weren't teen-agers. Am I really that old? It must be a pleasure to go to school today I am almost tempted to begin all over again with grade one. However, there is a part of me saying, "Don't do it, you could never keep up with the kids." Alas, I'll have to settle for being a parent of modern children attending modern schools, with modern teachers, and modern equipment.

While we're on the topic, how about that homework? Do you feel as dumb as I do when your second grader asks you to "solve the equation?" How about the sinking feeling when your fifth grader looks up an unusual word and springs it on you? Mine recently asked me to use "portiere" in a sentence. Look that up in your Funk and Wagnall's! And those research reports look like master's theses used to!

With all that though, let's be glad we live in District 15 where the kids are exposed to the latest materials and techniques.

FOR 25 YEARS UNICEF, The United Nations Children's Fund, has been assisting programs to benefit children. Nearly 400 million children were vaccinated against TB, 12,000 rural health centers have been equipped, 2500 teacher-training schools have been given supplies, 9,000 school gardens and canteens have been started, and much more has been

2 Women Named To Village Posts

Two Palatine women were appointed to fill vacancies on village commissions last week by Mayor Jack Moodie.

Mrs. Shirley Munson, past president of the Palatine Township League of Women Voters, was appointed to the Palatine Zoning Board of Appeals. She will fill the vacancy created by the appointment of former board member Tom Ahern to the village board. Her term will expire in 1972.

Mrs. Sue Martin, active in the local environmental group, Pollution and Environmental Problems, was appointed to the newly formed Palatine Environmental Control Board. Her appointment is until 1974 on the 11-man board.

Mrs. Martin's appointment narrows the number of vacancies on the control board to one, which Moodie said he would fill soon.

Dick Dawson, Palatine director of environmental health, said Mrs. Martin "could be a very good addition to the board. She's not afraid to speak her mind."

Because of her involvement in the League, Mrs. Munson has been a regular observer of village board and committee activities, providing her with a strong background in the operations of the local government.

Public Notice

NOTICE IS hereby given that the Plan Commission of the Village of Palatine, Cook County, Illinois, will hold a public hearing at the request of Eileen Tobben to consider rezoning from R-1 to R-2 the following locally described property, and if rezoning is granted to grant lot frontage variances on the two lots facing Wilke Road to permit the construction of single family residences with a lot frontage of 66 feet, instead of the required 75 feet to all:

Lots 1 and 2 in Robert Bartlett's Addition, C-1-1-1, being a Subdivision of part of the Southeast Quarter of Section 24 and part of the Southwest Quarter of Section 25 Township 12 North, Range 10 East of the Third Principal Meridian in Cook County, Illinois, located at the corner of Wilke Road and Thirteenth Street.

This hearing will be held on Tuesday, November 2, 1971 at 8:00 p.m. in the Board Room of the Village Hall, 34 South Broadway Street, Palatine, Illinois.

All persons desiring to be heard on the question will be heard at this time.

DATED: This eighteenth day of October, 1971.

done. However a greater job lies ahead to reach UNICEF's goal — "A future for every child."

For the 10th year, the first through sixth graders of the First United Methodist Church School in Palatine will call on their neighbors to make their contribution to this worthy program. The children will begin "Trick or Treating for UNICEF" Oct. 24 and conclude with a party at the church on Saturday, Oct. 30.

Help the world's needy children by giving generously when you hear "Trick or Treat for UNICEF."

If you have teenagers or will soon have teenagers, if you know a teenager, or if you have known a teenager, undoubtedly you are interested in the drug problem. Wednesday, Oct. 27 at 8 p.m., Emerson Thomas of the Palatine Township Youth Organization (PTYO) will speak at the Presbyterian Church at Rohlwing and Palatine Roads. His topic will deal with what individuals can do to alleviate the drug problem.

This is not something about which we can afford to be complacent. We must get involved. I know your child will never take drugs. However, perhaps your child's best friend will and his parents may not know how to handle the situation. You, as a friend, can help if you are informed.

Two-Day Minority Group Exposition At Randhurst

by ALAN AKERSON

Winford Bryant and Everett Jones first met early last summer at an Operation Breadbasket meeting in Chicago.

Now, only a few months later, the two have formed a corporation that makes and leases business and home security equipment at a price, they say, that is far below that of their competitors.

Bryant and Jones, both black, were among the minority group entrepreneurs — some 40 in all — who came to Mount Prospect's Randhurst Shopping Center last week to show their wares to the Northwest suburbs.

The two-day minority group business exposition, called "Alls Fair," was sponsored and paid for by more than 30 area human relations groups, churches, individuals and businesses.

Thousands of shoppers at Randhurst saw the exhibits in the shopping center's mall Saturday and Sunday. It was the second "Alls Fair," the first being held in June, 1970.

AMONG THE exhibitors were black artists, Indians displaying clothing from their country, and Mexican-Americans who sell Mexican food products.

According to Patricia Vockereth, a spokesman for the event, the goal of Alls Fair is to give Northwest suburban residents a chance "to view the multi-faceted talents and accomplishments of the various minority groups" that live in the Chicago area.

The businesses represented at the event ran the gamut from one-man operations to corporations that cost thousands of dollars to organize.

As for Bryant and Jones their start was of the shoestring variety. "All our products, I invented," says 22-year-old Bryant, who, incidentally, dropped out of school in the ninth grade.

HIS PARTNER, Jones, is 33, holds a bachelor's degree in business administration, a master's degree in urban studies and is a former college teacher.

Jones said that after they met, he became impressed with Bryant's inventive abilities that led to the corporation. Bryant said it took him about three weeks to build the security device, known as the "Ghost Control System," and ready it for marketing. The device looks like nothing more than a gray metal box about the size of a cigar box. But, the two contend it can detect a break-in, a fire or any other kind of damage in any size business or home.

And, while the two readily admit the profit motive was behind their enterprise, there is another reason for their business: "Currently we are employing three mothers on welfare," said Jones.

At the other end of the financial scale is the Azteca Corn Products Corp., also from Chicago. Set up by 10 Chicago Mexican-Americans, it required an initial investment of about a quarter million dollars, according to one of the backers, Joseph Canchola, a Chicago stockbroker.

THE FACTORY, currently employing 17 persons, most of whom are Mexican-Americans, supplies Mexican corn-based foods to Chicago area grocery store chains and to several Mexican restaurants. "We're here at Alls Fair," explained Canchola, "to introduce the product to the Anglo market — one which we feel the surface has only barely been scratched in. And, there's no question the market is growing. There's lot of potential out here."

The Azteca Corn Products Corp. has done about $50,000 business thus far in its first year. Canchola's prediction for next year? "We are shooting for a million five."

Defense Given Jayne Evidence

State's attorneys Friday turned over the last of the evidence, police reports and grand jury testimony totaling hundreds of pages to defense attorneys in a pretrial hearing in the murder of Inverness horseman George Jayne.

Asst. State's Atty. Nicholas Motherway said, however, he "left open a series of documents" to be subject to a ruling by Judge Richard J. Fitzgerald on whether the state is obligated to also hand them over to the defense.

Judge Fitzgerald set a hearing date for Nov. 4 when he will determine whether additional information on the case now in the hands of the state should be turned over to the defense.

Under a new U.S. Supreme Court ruling which was effective Oct. 1, the state is required to present evidence accumulated in investigations to the defense prior to the actual trial. The defense must do the same for the state.

Reports the state or defense do not voluntarily tender are subject to argument and determination by the presiding judge.

"Because this case has so much paper, it has taken months to turn over all the evidence and make copies of it, which has caused the delay in the actual trial," Motherway said.

MOTHERWAY AND Matthew Walsh, assistant state's attorneys handling the Jayne case, agreed to provide the four defense attorneys with lists of those documents they plan to withhold by Friday.

day so that each side can prepare its presentation before Judge Fitzgerald.

Defense attorneys said they will begin turning over evidence to the state after they have had time to sift through the material provided to them by the state. The information and evidence is being sought by both sides to help in their preparation for the trial, which is expected not to begin until after Jan. 1.

Charged in two-count indictments of murder and conspiracy to commit murder in the death of George Jayne last Oct. 28 are George's brother Silas Jayne, of rural Elgin; Joseph LaPlaca, of 321 McClure, Elgin; Edwin Nefeld, of 22341 Sherman Rd., Chicago Heights; and Julius Barnes, of 7318 S. University, Chicago.

All have pleaded not guilty and have been held in Cook County Jail without bond since their arrest May 22.

'Jesus Freak' Shows The Way

by WANDALYN RICE

The Rev. Sammy Tippit says he has put aside his ambition to be the next Billy Graham, but he is still spreading his gospel successfully.

At the first of three scheduled Jesus rallies Friday night in Elk Grove Village, 20 teen-agers, a few weeping, answered his invitation to commit their lives to Christ.

"We don't want it to be easy," cause we don't want any more phonies," the "Jesus Freak" told the group of more than 100 as he made the invitation.

After the rally many members of the crowd, mainly high school students, came shyly up to him to shake his hand or tell him about a problem.

One girl, nearly in tears, described a problem she was having. Tippit gave her encouragement, the phone number of his church in Chicago and led her in private prayer, while many others waited.

Then the handsome, 23-year-old Evangelist who first gained public notice when he was arrested on Rush Street for handing out religious tracts, turned to his followers, shook hands and greeted them with "Praise the Lord."

HE IS A SLIGHT man, with brown hair falling just over his ears and a space between his front teeth that is only visible when he smiles, which he did often during his rally and afterward.

His voice still carries the drawl of his native Louisiana when he speaks. He explained he had been in Chicago a year because "Jesus brought me."

Before the ordained Baptist minister had been working with street gangs in New Orleans and "wanted to open a ministry of my own for street kids in a major city. I prayed for more than two years and finally I felt Jesus wanted me to come to Chicago."

During the rally, he told the crowd he had converted when he was 16 years old after he had used drugs, alcohol and sex in a search for meaning for his life. "Nothing filled my emptiness and I was on the edge of suicide, but when I asked Jesus to come into my life I got up off my knees and I had something to live for," he said.

His girl friend told him the feeling would wear off, he said, because it was "just emotion."

"If this is just emotion it's the biggest trip I've ever been on."

TIPPIT'S religion is a happy one, in which a person can get the "holy giggles." Sometimes, he said, "when I'm prayin' Jesus makes me so happy I just start gigglin' and some people think I'm being sacrilegious."

He attacked hypocrisy and told his audience they must be committed. "We've been playin' our little games too long and people are turned off by it," he said.

"Before I became a Christian I thought they'd been vaccinated by pickle juice 'cause they looked so sour," he added. "The problem with Christians is that too many people haven't seen the difference in them."

As the rally neared its end, he opened the invitation for those whose life had been "touched by Jesus," to come forward "and sell out to God."

His face became intense as he prayed "do your thing God." For long minutes no one came and he paused. "If no one comes we'll close our invitation. We don't want to coerce you."

Slowly they came, kneeling in front of him — 20 young persons whom he led in prayer.

AT ONE POINT during the rally, he referred to giving up his ambition to be the next Billy Graham. Afterward he amplified the point. "When I was first converted, my ambition was to speak before all the masses of people and that ambition almost came before Jesus. Since I put away my ambition and put Jesus first I have spoken to more people than ever before."

His ministry in Uptown has a staff of 11 now, he said, and he is spending more of his time with rallies "so we can reach the kids in the suburbs and all over the country."

And Rev. Sammy Tippit turned to greet some young girls who had been puzzling over the hand embroidered message on his leather vest.

It read, "Jesus Loves You."

Bidwell Was Among Legislators

Racing's Scandal Figures Spearheaded Disannex Bill

by DOUG RAY

Key figures in the recently disclosed race track stock scandal spearheaded a bill through the Illinois General Assembly in 1955 which allowed Arlington Park Race Track to disannex from Rolling Meadows.

The legislation benefiting Arlington Park may have been one of the first in a series of legislative bills which were hand-tailored for Illinois racing magnates.

Included among the legislators who actively supported the bill was then president pro tem of the senate Arthur J. Bidwell, R-River Forest, who has been implicated along with other top politicians for having either direct or indirect ownership of race track stocks.

Removal of race track properties from Rolling Meadows meant a loss of only about $2,500 in 1955 but more importantly a reduction in the property valuation for bonding purposes for the newly formed city. However, last year the race track facilities generated more than $300,000 in tax returns to Arlington Heights and with future developments, which may include apartment complexes and a sports arena, the tax revenue will continue to increase.

IN FEBRUARY, 1955 the City of Rolling Meadows was incorporated. Included in the boundaries were the Arlington Park Race Track properties, the Arlington Crest subdivision of 100 homes, the Chicago and North Western Ry., right-of-way, along with adjacent land. Under existing laws there was no way for this property to avoid inclusion in Rolling Meadows.

The law was changed within four months of Rolling Meadows' formation, when House Bill 795 passed the Illinois General Assembly, allowing the track and other properties on the perimeter of the city to disannex. The bill provided that the properties could be removed within a year of annexation, if the majority of the voters and the majority of the land owners requested to be detached.

The bill was introduced in the House on April 19, 1955. After approval by the House Committee on Municipalities, it was approved in the House on May 18 and sent to the Senate.

The Senate voted approval on June 29, the day before its required adjournment. Gov. William Stratton signed it into law on July 13.

The bill was unanimously passed despite opposition from the Illinois Municipal League. It was termed "special interest legislation."

Legislative leader Bidwell was instrumental in passing the bill. He and other 1955 legislators have recently been named as recipients of race track stocks. According to some published reports, Bidwell's daughter, son and nephew have more than $900,000 in racing stocks. Bidwell has also been named as an intermediary between Illinois officials and former Arlington Park Operator Mrs. Marj Everett.

INCLUDED IN THE 1955 legislature were Paul Powell, former secretary of state; John W. Lewis, present secretary of state, and William E. Pollack and others who have been named in the race track scandal.

Rolling Meadows Ald. Thomas Waldron was a city official at the time of the Arlington Park disannexation and made attempts to stop the legislation.

"I made a telephone call to Bidwell," Waldron said. "I asked him if something couldn't be done." But Waldron recalls that Bidwell said it was not in his power to change the bill's certain passage.

Former Rolling Meadows Mayor John Northcote traveled to Springfield to seek Stratton's veto of the bill. He argued that it would have serious consequences to any newly formed community. But Stratton signed the bill only days after the meeting.

WALDRON SAID he talked to race track representatives and asked why they were seeking disannexation from Rolling Meadows. Arlington Park officials feared restrictions, according to Waldron.

Undoubtedly the track would have been subject to some restrictions by being forcibly annexed to Rolling Meadows. Annexation of the race track property without prior negotiations for city benefits to the track, would have been less than desirable to Arlington Park officials.

When the race track was finally annexed to Arlington Heights in 1969, there were many concessions the village guaranteed operator Marj Everett, president of Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises Inc. (CTE).

Included in the 1969 preannexation agreement, the Village of Arlington Heights guaranteed to furnish additional police protection "as may be required for the effective management of crowds and traffic control." Also police and fire substations may be built on race track property.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS agreed to petition the Illinois Commerce Commission to locate a new passenger station for the Chicago and North Western Ry., on track land and the village agreed to pay its share toward the cost of the station. The CTE contribution was limited to providing the site for the station.

Arlington Heights stated it would amend its liquor control ordinance to permit "sufficient liquor licenses to be issued" as well as an agreement not to oppose any night thoroughbred racing at the track.

Village officials are under contract to "issue all licenses necessary to operate the existing uses and facilities on the property."

As a final agreement between the two groups, the CTE may elect to disconnect the property from the village, if the village breaks "any terms" of the agreement.

When the announcement was made that Arlington Park would become a part of Arlington Heights, Mayor Jack Walsh said the agreement took several years of negotiations.

HOWEVER, IN February 1955 Rolling Meadows took jurisdiction of race track activities without any such agreement. Four months later, the law changed and Arlington Park and all the adjacent property could be and was removed from newly created Rolling Meadows.

Shortly after House Bill 795 passed and was signed by Stratton, the owners of the Arlington Crest subdivision petitioned to remove the area from Rolling Meadows. Then came the disconnection of the railway and then Arlington Park properties pushing back the northern boundaries of Rolling Meadows to Euclid Avenue.

Rolling Meadows attorneys appealed House Bill 795 on grounds it was unconstitutional but the Illinois Supreme Court upheld the legislation in 1956.

TOP POLITICIANS, who reaped huge profits from race track holdings after voting favorable to Illinois Race tracks, pushed through a bill in 1955 which permitted the Arlington Park Race Track (above) to disannex from Rolling Meadows. Former president pro tem of the senate Arthur J. Bidwell, whose relatives own sizable racing stocks, was a promoter of the legislation which passed during the final minutes of the 1955 spring session. Other members of the Illinois General Assembly included former secretary of state Paul Powell and his predecessor John W. Lewis, who both have been named in reports of questionable race track stock dealings.

Committee To Urge Sign Inspection Law Repeal

The Rolling Meadows City Council will receive a proposal next week from the ordinance and judiciary committee suggesting the repeal of a sign inspection law that has been criticized by the Chamber of Commerce.

The committee will suggest a substitute ordinance to replace it. The new ordinance will change the initial and annual inspection fees on signs.

The suggested revisions would save most sign owners money, in some cases as much as two-thirds of what they are paying now. But some sign owners would appear to be in for a rate raise.

A week ago Roger Tobin, of Curtis 1000, presented a chamber-endorsed resolution to the building and zoning committee suggesting biannual sign inspections at a scaled-down rate.

At Thursday's meeting, committee chairman Ald. Fred Jacobson said he felt the chamber's complaints are reasonable and the law should be made more palatable to the businessmen. The other committee members, aldermen John Rock and Thomas Waldron, agreed.

THE PRESENT ordinance, enacted in July, 1970, divides signs into two categories for the purpose of charging inspection fees at the time of construction of the sign and on an annual reinspection basis.

Construction inspection of an illuminated sign now costs $20 plus 15 cents a square foot of sign area. Reinspection costs $5 plus 15 cents a square foot annually.

Non-illuminated signs are taxed $15 plus 10 cents per square foot at installation and $2.50 plus 10 cents per square foot for reinspection.

The committee will suggest reworking the law to make four categories of sign types instead of two, to restructure the initial inspection fee scale, and to cut the annual charge, in some cases by more than two-thirds.

The four types of signs will be: illuminated free standing (not on a building); illuminated non-free standing (on a building); non-illuminated free standing; and non-illuminated non-free standing.

THE SUGGESTED new rates for initial inspection at construction would be: illuminated free-standing — $25 plus 15 cents a square foot; illuminated non-free standing — $20 plus 15 cents a square foot; non-illuminated free standing — $15 plus 10 cents a square foot; and non-illuminated non-free standing — $10 plus 10 cents a square foot.

The chamber's main complaint was about the annual reinspection charges, and the committee concentrated its revision efforts in that area.

The suggested new reinspection rates for all illuminated signs would be the same: $2 plus 5 cents a square foot. Non-illuminated free standing signs would be reinspected at a flat rate of $3. Non-illuminated non-free standing signs would cost $5 annually.

Follow-up On County Statement

School Alarm Tie-In Urged

Connection of the school fire alarm systems to the local fire departments has been recommended to the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 Board of Education.

The recommendation was made by a representative of Simplex, a company which manufactures fire alarm systems, during a demonstration of new fire alarm equipment to the board of education.

The demonstration and recommendation are the outcome of a statement earlier this month by Cook County Supt. of Schools Richard Martwick that he would be forced to close four Dist. 15 schools and several other suburban schools if they did not meet fire safety code regulations as outlined in the Life Safety Code within 90 days.

The four schools Martwick cited for violations were Kimball Hill in Rolling Meadows and Stuart Paddock, Joel Wood and Gray M. Sanborne in Palatine.

DUE TO A NEW interpretation by the county of the Life Safety Code, a totally monitored fire alarm system is now required. A totally monitored fire alarm system would have a visual and audio signal to indicate the system was not working because of a power failure or be hooked into the fire department.

The Simplex representative explained his company had just finished the totally monitored unit a week prior to Martwick's statement and none of the totally monitored systems on the market have the approval of the underwriters laboratories (UL).

He said if UL approval is required prior to installation it would take between six and eight months to get and the district would not be able to comply with the 90-day time limit.

The cost of the necessary parts to make the present systems totally monitored is $450 per school and installation is estimated at $1,200 per system.

The representative pointed out that if the monitor is hooked directly into the system on the weekends the power could go out and no one would know it and therefore it would be better for the schools to be directly connected to the fire department.

AT THE PRESENT time, Joel Wood School, Palatine, is the only school hooked into the fire department. It was also one of the four schools Martwick said he would be forced to close.

The board decided not to take any action since guidelines for compliance to the Life Safety Code have not been received from the county office yet.

On the recommendation of Board Member Joel Meyer, Martwick will be asked to attend the next board meeting if guidelines indicating how the district should proceed have not been received by that time.

Slim And Trim Class Is Given More Time

The slim and trim class has been extended from eight to 12 weeks by the Rolling Meadows Park District.

The class meets from 8 to 9:30 p.m. at the Jonas Salk School every Tuesday. Interested women 18 years and older can register at the Park District Office, 1 Park Meadows Place.

The Nation

Police posted a heavy guard at the New York hospital where H. Rap Brown was recuperating from gunshot wounds as a precaution against liberating the long-sought black militant by force.

Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., made public a congressional audit he said indicated the Air Force spent more than $500,000 in 1970 on junkets for civilians. Reuss said the costs of the tours were audited by the General Accounting Office.

Presidential adviser Henry Kissinger and a group of aides spent Sunday in Hawaii making final preparations for their trip to China to discuss details of President Nixon's visit.

The House will consider for the second time this week a proposal to set a specific date for withdrawing all U.S. forces from Indochina. Increased antiwar sentiment indicated a possible close vote, perhaps on Tuesday.

Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., one of two announced candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination, predicted that a Negro could be elected vice president. He said Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Me., made a serious mistake when he said a presidential candidate could not win with a black running mate.

Tammy Meade

A big thank you to the many Rolling Meadows residents who called Paddock Publications to inquire about my column. Now that I'm back there's so many news items, I hardly know where to begin. Thanks again — it's nice to be missed!

A special column just for PTA news will continue to be printed in Paddock Publications once a week. To publicize your PTA events, please call the Rolling Meadows staff at 394-2300 and ask for the person in charge of PTA notes.

Speaking of PTAs, although there's only one half day of school Tuesday, there will be a PTA meeting at both Cardinal Drive and Willow Bend schools Tuesday evening. Willow Bend's meeting will begin at 8 and Cardinal Drive's meeting at 7:30 p.m.

Cardinal Drive's PTA meeting is entitled "Unit Information" and the guest speakers will include Mrs. Harriet Foster, former principal of Salk School and now director of special education for Dist. 15. Mrs. Marian Hempel, school nurse for both Cardinal Drive and Kimball Hill Schools, Mrs. Betty MacGregor, Chairman of Parent Education for the Northwest Suburban Council of PTAs, and Mrs. Martha Loss, Director of Health Services and "boss lady" to the many nurses throughout our school district. Martha is also in charge of the vision and hearing screening now being conducted throughout the district, serves as Health and Mental Health Chairman for the PTA Council, and is in charge of the district health fund which helps provide crutches, corrective shoes, dental care, etc., to many children with disabilities.

Martha not only discourages smoking to the children by distributing anti-smoking brochures to every child in the school district, but also tries to discourage smoking in adults. (Especially to health chairmen who have to sit through meetings with Martha without an ash tray.)

SPEAKING OF vision screening, Thursday will be the last day for the vision team's screening. They will be at Carl Sandburg today, Central Road School Wednesday, and Willow Bend School Thursday. It helps for the children who wear glasses to know the name of their eye doctor. Mother. Try to remind Johnny to remember the name of his doctor so he can tell the technicians.

THE BOYS overseas program sponsored by the Junior Women's Club is looking for names of boys serving in the Armed forces overseas. They send packages every month to these boys and would like to add some new names to their list, according to Mrs. Delores Recker, project chairman for the club.

Mrs. Recker became involved in the Junior Women's club through her son, Marc, who was serving in Vietnam and receiving the package of goodies each month from the club.

Marc, 21, graduated from Forest View High School in 1969, and enlisted in the Marines for four years. Marc was in Vietnam for one year, came home on leave a year ago last September, but requested to be sent to Da Nang. Marc's mother says he felt "they needed him." Instead Marc was disappointed by being sent to Okinawa.

He is now a corporal, and although he was trained for automotive work in the Marines, he volunteered for the field. (Even though his mother and dad warned him that once you get in the service you don't volunteer for anything!)

Marc's younger brother, Robert Jr., also enlisted in the Marines and is now serving at Camp Lejeune, North Carolina. He attended radar school in Oklahoma and is looking forward to being sent overseas next winter. Robert graduated from Forest View in 1970. Robert and Marc haven't seen each other since a year ago last September when Marc was planning to drive back to California, and as he was about to leave, Robert decided to drive along with him. Their leaves have not coincided since then.

According to their mother, Delores, there are many veterans who want to go back but unfortunately we only read about the bad experiences that occur with servicemen.

THESE TWO BOYS must take after their father, Robert Sr., who served in the Navy during the Second World War and in the Air Force during the Korean conflict.

The Reckers live at 3004 Park Ct. and say they love it here in Rolling Meadows. They moved here from Chicago four years ago.

Delores is looking for unperishable items to send to the boys overseas and asks if anyone is interested in helping with this project, please contact her at 392-5491.

Two-Day Minority Group Exposition At Randhurst

'Alls Fair' In Love, War And Business World

by ALAN AKERSON

Winford Bryant and Everett Jones first met early last summer at an Operation Breadbasket meeting in Chicago.

Now, only a few months later, the two have formed a corporation that makes and leases business and home security equipment at a price, they say, that is far below that of their competitors.

Bryant and Jones, both black, were among the minority group entrepreneurs — some 40 in all — who came to Mount Prospect's Randhurst Shopping Center last week to show their wares to the Northwest suburbs.

The two-day minority group business exposition, called "Alls Fair," was sponsored and paid for by more than 30 area human relations groups, churches, individuals and businesses.

Thousands of shoppers at Randhurst saw the exhibits in the shopping center's mall Saturday and Sunday. It was the second "Alls Fair," the first being held in June, 1970.

AMONG THE exhibitors were black artists, Indians displaying clothing from their country, and Mexican-Americans who sell Mexican food products.

According to Patricia Vockerth, a spokesman for the event, the goal of Alls Fair is to give Northwest suburban residents a chance "to view the multi-faceted talents and accomplishments of the various minority groups" that live in the Chicago area.

The businesses represented at the event ran the gamut from one-man operations to corporations that cost thousands of dollars to organize.

As for Bryant and Jones their start was of the shoestring variety. "All our products, I invented," says 22-year-old Bryant, who, incidentally, dropped out of school in the ninth grade.

HIS PARTNER, Jones, is 33, holds a bachelor's degree in business administration, a master's degree in urban studies and is a former college teacher.

Jones said that after they met, he became impressed with Bryant's inventive abilities that led to the corporation. Bryant said it took him about three weeks to build the security device, known as the "Ghost Control System," and ready it for marketing. The device looks like nothing more than a gray metal box about the size of a cigar box. But, the two contend it can detect a break-in, a fire or any other kind of damage in any size business or home.

And, while the two readily admit the profit motive was behind their enterprise, there is another reason for their business: "Currently we are employing three mothers on welfare," said Jones.

At the other end of the financial scale is the Azteca Corn Products Corp., also from Chicago. Set up by 10 Chicago Mexican-Americans, it required an initial investment of about a quarter million dollars, according to one of the backers, Joseph Canchola, a Chicago stockbroker.

THE FACTORY, currently employing 17 persons, most of whom are Mexican-Americans, supplies Mexican corn-based foods to Chicago area grocery store chains and to several Mexican restaurants. "We're here at Alls Fair," explained Canchola, "to introduce the product to the Anglo market — one which we feel the surface has only barely been scratched in. And, there's no question the market is growing. There's lot of potential out here."

The Azteca Corn Products Corp. has done about $50,000 business thus far in its first year. Canchola's prediction for next year? "We are shooting for a million five."

Defense Given Jayne Evidence

State's attorneys Friday turned over the last of the evidence, police reports and grand jury testimony totaling hundreds of pages to defense attorneys in a pretrial hearing in the murder of Inverness horseman George Jayne.

Asst. State's Atty. Nicholas Motherway said, however, he "left open a series of documents" to be subject to a ruling by Judge Richard J. Fitzgerald on whether the state is obligated to also hand them over to the defense.

Judge Fitzgerald set a hearing date for Nov. 4 when he will determine whether additional information on the case now in the hands of the state should be turned over to the defense.

Under a new U.S. Supreme Court ruling which was effective Oct. 1, the state is required to present evidence accumulated in investigations to the defense prior to the actual trial. The defense must do the same for the state.

Reports the state or defense do not voluntarily tender are subject to argument and determination by the presiding judge.

"Because this case has so much paper, it has taken months to turn over all the evidence and make copies of it, which has caused the delay in the actual trial," Motherway said.

MOTHERWAY AND Matthew Walsh, assistant state's attorneys handling the Jayne case, agreed to provide the four defense attorneys with lists of those documents they plan to withhold by Friday.

day so that each side can prepare its presentation before Judge Fitzgerald.

Defense attorneys said they will begin turning over evidence to the state after they have had time to sift through the material provided to them by the state.

The information and evidence is being sought by both sides to help in their preparation for the trial, which is expected not to begin until after Jan. 1.

Charged in two-count indictments of murder and conspiracy to commit murder in the death of George Jayne last Oct. 28 are George's brother Silas Jayne, of rural Elgin; Joseph LaPlaca, of 321 McClure, Elgin; Edwin Nefeld, of 22341 Sherman Rd., Chicago Heights; and Julius Barnes, of 7318 S. University, Chicago.

All have pleaded not guilty and have been held in Cook County Jail without bond since their arrest May 23.

'Jesus Freak' Shows The Way

by WANDALYN RICE

The Rev. Sammy Tippit says he has put aside his ambition to be the next Billy Graham, but he is still spreading his gospel successfully.

At the first of three scheduled Jesus rallies Friday night in Elk Grove Village, 20 teen-agers, a few weeping, answered his invitation to commit their lives to Christ.

"We don't want it to be easy," cause we don't want any more phonies," the "Jesus Freak" told the group of more than 100 as he made the invitation.

After the rally many members of the crowd, mainly high school students, came shyly up to him to shake his hand or tell him about a problem.

One girl, nearly in tears, described a problem she was having. Tippit gave her encouragement, the phone number of his church in Chicago and led her in private prayer, while many others waited.

Then the handsome, 23-year-old Evangelist who first gained public notice when he was arrested on Rush Street for handing out religious tracts, turned to his followers, shook hands and greeted them with "Praise the Lord."

HE IS A SLIGHT man, with brown hair falling just over his ears and a space between his front teeth that is only visible when he smiles, which he did often during his rally and afterward.

His voice still carries the drawl of his native Louisiana when he speaks. He explained he had been in Chicago a year because "Jesus brought me."

Before the ordained Baptist minister had been working with street gangs in New Orleans and "wanted to open a ministry of my own for street kids in a major city. I prayed for more than two years and finally I felt Jesus wanted me to come to Chicago."

During the rally, he told the crowd he had converted when he was 16 years old after he had used drugs, alcohol and sex in a search for meaning for his life. "Nothing filled my emptiness and I was on the edge of suicide, but when I asked Jesus to come into my life I got up off my knees and I had something to live for," he said.

His girl friend told him the feeling would wear off, he said, because it was "just emotion."

"If this is just emotion it's the biggest trip I've ever been on."

TIPPIT'S religion is a happy one, in which a person can get the "holy giggles." Sometimes, he said, "when I'm prayin' Jesus makes me so happy I just start gigglin' and some people think I'm being 'sacriligious.'"

He attacked hypocrisy and told his audience they must be committed. "We've been playin' our little games too long and people are turned off by it," he said.

"Before I became a Christian I thought they'd been vaccinated by pickle juice 'cause they looked so sour," he added. "The problem with Christians is that too many people haven't seen the difference in them."

As the rally neared its end, he opened the invitation for those whose life had been "touched by Jesus," to come forward "and sell out to God."

His face became intense as he prayed "do your thing God." For long minutes

no one came and he paused. "If no one comes we'll close our invitation. We don't want to coerce you."

Slowly they came, kneeling in front of him — 20 young persons whom he led in prayer.

AT ONE POINT during the rally, he referred to giving up his ambition to be the next Billy Graham. Afterward he amplified the point. "When I was first converted, my ambition was to speak before all the masses of people and that ambition almost came before Jesus. Since I put away my ambition and put Jesus first I have spoken to more people than ever before."

His ministry in Uptown has a staff of 11 now, he said, and he is spending more of his time with rallies "so we can reach the kids in the suburbs and all over the country."

And Rev. Sammy Tippit turned to greet some young girls who had been puzzling over the hand embroidered message on his leather vest.

It read, "Jesus Loves You."

Drug Abuse Study Group To Meet

A drug abuse study group will begin Wednesday at Dwight Eisenhower School, Schoenbeck and Camp McDonald Roads, Prospect Heights. Wednesday's meeting is set for 8 p.m.

The Rev. Willard Wagner, a staff chaplain at Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge, will be the moderator for the program. Rev. Wagner is a Prospect Heights resident.

At least three meetings are planned for the group. Time and dates of future meetings will be announced later. The programs are sponsored by the Eisenhower School PTA.

The public is invited. There is no registration charge.

TEENAGERS, SCOUTING units members and other volunteers all helped Saturday morning to clear a week-long cleanup effort in the community sponsored by the Prospect Heights Improvement Association.

Tests Start Early For Kids Today

For most new kindergarteners, tests are not something to be concerned about during the first few days of school. But, this was not the case for some 200 kindergarten students in Prospect Heights

School Dist. 23.

Five days after the start of school, a team of volunteers went into the Dist. 23 kindergartens and administered ability level tests to each of the students.

The test was devised by Mrs. Roger Wingert, a Prospect Heights resident, and a doctoral candidate. "The main aim of the test," she said, "is to find out what the children know so we can do a better job of teaching them."

The project began last spring after Mrs. Wingert visited kindergarten classes and concluded that "the children knew more than the teachers were giving them credit for." If teachers knew at the beginning of the year what students knew, she reasoned, then "they won't have to repeat anything."

THE TEST WAS drawn up by Mrs. Wingert with the help of three elementary school principals, James Finke, Ester Pearson and Mary Hryczek. They started with a test used at the district's Betsy Ross School in past years.

The test in its final form, was set up to measure such things as color, number and letter identification abilities. Children were also asked to match similar letters and to finish incomplete sentences with thoughts of their own.

In September, teams made up of volunteers, who were either teachers or former teachers, went to Eisenhower, Muir and Ross schools to administer the test. Each child was tested individually, and the results were turned over to the kindergarten teacher. "The test results," said Mrs. Wingert, "told the teachers which areas, if any, kids were deficient in. The teacher can then do extra work with the students in those weak areas."

Mrs. Wingert emphasized, in a report to the school board last week on the test, "No one passed or flunked the test. If a child was weak in a certain area, that doesn't mean he won't be able to learn in that area."

ASST. SUPT. Tom Rich said the test performed by the volunteers was the first such examination given to incoming kindergarten students in the district.

"Though we have given tests before, this was an improvement on those. We have never tested the entire district on a uniform basis before."

Among other things, the tests showed kindergarten teachers will have to gear their instruction to students that know more than their predecessors did, according to Rich.

Use of the test, Rich said, is an indication the district will emphasize individualized instruction in kindergarten to a greater degree. "The big problem here," he said, "is class size. The smallest kindergarten class size for us is 34 kids."

School officials have lauded the group of volunteers for drawing up the test and administering it. Rich said the district would have been unable to administer the test the same way the volunteers did, without hiring additional staff.

Said Rich, "We definitely want to repeat the test next year—and perhaps make it even more sophisticated than it was this year."

Reveal Plans For Snack Shop Near WHS

Plans for a snack shop to be located near Wheeling High School were revealed at a Wheeling Plan Commission pre-application conference on Thursday.

The restaurant is proposed for property adjacent to the Clark Super 100 service station on the southwest corner of Hintz and Elmhurst roads.

Roberto Martinez of Buffalo Grove told plan commission members at the conference he wants to annex the property to the village and have it rezoned for a snack shop. He said he has a contract to purchase the property if the restaurant zoning is granted.

The property is bordered on the south and west by the Orchard Lake subdivision.

Martinez told the plan commissioners he planned to attract high school students to the shop.

CURRENTLY THE property is in unincorporated Cook County with commercial zoning, but Martinez said he wants to annex to the village for sewer and water service.

Village acting director of planning Michael Valenza explained that after the annexation is approved Martinez will need B-3 general business district zoning and a special use permit to operate a restaurant.

Valenza, who is also a village trustee, told Martinez the village would not favor development of the site as a drive-in restaurant. "If that's what you're planning I'll tell you right now, forget about it," Valenza said.

School Fund Outlook 'Bleak'

Preliminary estimates present a "bleak" financial picture for School Dist. 21 during the 1972-73 fiscal year, according to Dist. 21 Business Mgr. Walter Fuller.

If the estimates prove to be accurate, the district's expenditures will exceed its revenue by $400,000, Fuller stated, and the district could "simply run out of money."

Fuller presented a preliminary report on the anticipated financial condition of Dist. 21 at Thursday's school board meeting.

Fuller said the district estimates that assessed valuation in Dist. 21 will go up by $10 million a year in the next two years.

The district also estimates that state aid to the district will be increased by 5 per cent in the next fiscal year and that average daily attendance in the Dist. 21 schools, a factor in determining state aid to the district, will also increase by about 300 students over the current year.

However, expenditures in the district will also increase in 1972-73, Fuller said. He estimated that expenditures in the next fiscal year will be about 5 per cent higher than in the current fiscal year.

FULLER SAID that the decrease in cash available to the district during the current fiscal year would be $500,000 by the end of the fiscal year June 30, if the $200,000 in reserve contingencies is spent.

Fuller said the district has no plans now to spend the funds now in the contingency account, but that in past years some of this money has been transferred to other accounts and spent for items not anticipated in the budget, such as the cost of additional heating of buildings.

Fuller emphasized that the estimates presented are preliminary and conservative, and will be revised if new information pertaining to finances is obtained.

A greater increase in assessed valuation and state aid than anticipated would change the estimates, he noted.

Fuller said the district also hopes that enrollment in the 15 Dist. 21 schools will increase over the year, without causing a great increase in operating expenses.

Fuller said that the district needs a greater increase in state aid than the 5 per cent anticipated, and that state legislators must be informed of the financial plight of the schools.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Police posted a heavy guard at the New York hospital where H. Rap Brown was recuperating from gunshot wounds as a precaution against liberating the long-sought black militant by force.

Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., made public a congressional audit he said indicated the Air Force spent more than $500,000 in 1970 on junkets for civilians. Reuss said the costs of the tours were audited by the General Accounting Office.

Presidential adviser Henry Kissinger and a group of aides spent Sunday in Hawaii making final preparations for their trip to China to discuss details of President Nixon's visit.

The House will consider for the second time this week a proposal to set a specific date for withdrawing all U.S. forces from Indochina. Increased antiwar sentiment indicated a possible close vote, perhaps on Tuesday.

Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., one of two announced candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination, predicted that a Negro could be elected vice president. He said Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Me., made a serious mistake when he said a presidential candidate could not win with a black running mate.

The World

Bidwell Was Among Legislators

Racing's Scandal Figures Spearheaded Disannex Bill

by DOUG RAY

Key figures in the recently disclosed race track stock scandal spearheaded a bill through the Illinois General Assembly in 1955 which allowed Arlington Park Race Track to disannex from Rolling Meadows.

The legislation benefiting Arlington Park may have been one of the first in a series of legislative bills which were hand-tailored for Illinois racing magnates.

Included among the legislators who actively supported the bill was then president pro tem of the senate Arthur J. Bidwell, R-River Forest, who has been implicated along with other top politicians for having either direct or indirect ownership of race track stocks.

Removal of race track properties from Rolling Meadows meant a loss of only about $2,500 in 1955 but more importantly a reduction in the property valuation for bonding purposes for the newly formed city. However, last year the race track facilities generated more than $300,000 in tax returns to Arlington Heights and with future developments, which may include apartment complexes and a sports arena, the tax revenue will continue to increase.

IN FEBRUARY, 1955 the City of Rolling Meadows was incorporated. Included in the boundaries were the Arlington Park Race Track properties, the Arlington Crest subdivision of 100 homes, the Chicago and North Western Ry., right-of-way, along with adjacent land. Under existing laws there was no way for this property to avoid inclusion in Rolling Meadows.

The law was changed within four months of Rolling Meadows' formation, when House Bill 795 passed the Illinois General Assembly, allowing the track and other properties on the perimeter of the city to disannex. The bill provided that the properties could be removed within a year of annexation, if the majority of the voters and the majority of the land owners requested to be detached.

The bill was introduced in the House on April 19, 1955. After approval by the House Committee on Municipalities, it was approved in the House on May 12 and sent to the Senate.

The Senate voted approval on June 29, the day before its required adjournment. Gov. William Stratton signed it into law on July 13.

The bill was unanimously passed despite opposition from the Illinois Municipal League. It was termed "special interest legislation."

Legislative leader Bidwell was instrumental in passing the bill. He and other 1955 legislators have recently been named as recipients of race track stocks. According to some published reports, Bidwell's daughter, son and nephew have more than $900,000 in racing stocks. Bidwell has also been named as an intermediary between Illinois officials and former Arlington Park Operator Mrs. Mary Everett.

INCLUDED IN THE 1955 legislature were Paul Powell, former secretary of state, John W. Lewis, present secretary of state, and William E. Pollack and others who have been named in the race track scandal.

Rolling Meadows Aid, Thomas Waldron

was a city official at the time of the Arlington Park disannexation and made attempts to stop the legislation.

"I made a telephone call to Bidwell," Waldron said. "I asked him if something couldn't be done." But Waldron recalls that Bidwell said it was not in his power to change the bill's certain passage.

Former Rolling Meadows Mayor John Northcott traveled to Springfield to seek Stratton's veto of the bill. He argued that it would have serious consequences to any newly formed community. But Stratton signed the bill only days after the meeting.

WALDRON SAID he talked to race track representatives and asked why they were seeking disannexation from Rolling Meadows. Arlington Park officials feared restrictions, according to Waldron.

Undoubtedly the track would have been subject to some restrictions by being forced to be annexed to Rolling Meadows. Annexation of the race track property without prior negotiations for city benefits to the track, would have been less than desirable to Arlington Park officials.

When the race track was finally annexed to Arlington Heights in 1969, there were many concessions the village guaranteed operator Marj Everett, president of Chicago thoroughbred Enterprises Inc. (CTE).

Included in the 1969 preannexation agreement, the Village of Arlington Heights guaranteed to furnish additional police protection "as may be required for the effective management of crowds and traffic control." Also police and fire substations may be built on race track property.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS agreed to petition the Illinois Commerce Commission to locate a new passenger station for the Chicago and North Western Ry., on track land and the village agreed to pay its share toward the cost of the station. The CTE contribution was limited to providing the site for the station.

Arlington Heights stated it would amend its liquor control ordinance to permit "sufficient liquor licenses to be issued" as well as an agreement not to oppose any night thoroughbred racing at the track.

Village officials are under contract to "issue all licenses necessary to operate the existing uses and facilities on the property."

As a final agreement between the two groups, the CTE may elect to disconnect the property from the village, if the village breaks "any terms" of the agreement.

When the announcement was made that Arlington Park would become a part of Arlington Heights, Mayor Jack Walsh said the agreement took several years of negotiations.

HOWEVER, IN February 1955 Rolling Meadows took jurisdiction of race track activities without any such agreement. Four months later, the law changed and Arlington Park and all the adjacent property could be and was removed from newly created Rolling Meadows.

Shortly after House Bill 795 passed and was signed by Stratton, the owners of the Arlington Crest subdivision petitioned to remove the area from Rolling Meadows. Then came the disconnection of the railway and then Arlington Park properties pushing back the northern boundaries of Rolling Meadows to Euclid Avenue.

Rolling Meadows attorneys appealed House Bill 795 on grounds it was unconstitutional but the Illinois Supreme Court upheld the legislation in 1956.

'Alls Fair' In Love, War... And The Business World

by ALAN AKERSON

Winford Bryant and Everett Jones first met early last summer at an Operation Breadbasket meeting in Chicago.

Now, only a few months later, the two have formed a corporation that makes and leases business and home security equipment at a price, they say, that is far below that of their competitors.

Bryant and Jones, both black, were among the minority group entrepreneurs—some 40 in all—who came to Mount Prospect's Randhurst Shopping Center last week to show their wares to the Northwest suburbs.

The two-day minority group business exposition, called "Alls Fair," was sponsored and paid for by more than 30 area human relations groups, churches, individuals and businesses.

Thousands of shoppers at Randhurst saw the exhibits in the shopping center's mall Saturday and Sunday. It was the second "Alls Fair," the first being held in June, 1970.

AMONG THE exhibitors were black artists, Indians displaying clothing from their country, and Mexican-Americans who sell Mexican food products.

According to Patricia Vockeroth, a spokesman for the event, the goal of Alls Fair is to give Northwest suburban residents a chance "to view the multi-faceted talents and accomplishments of the various minority groups" that live in the Chicago area.

The businesses represented at the

Board To Eye School Name

The Board of Education of Elk Grove Township Elementary Dist. 59 will consider a name for the new junior high school in Des Plaines at tonight's meeting.

The board will hear recommendations from board members Sharrie Hildebrandt and Paul Neuhauser on the name at 8 p.m. in the administration building, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

The new junior high school will be located next to St. Zachary Catholic School near Algonquin and Elmhurst roads in Des Plaines.

In April voters approved a bond referendum for $2.3 million for the school.

The board also plans to adjourn its Monday night meeting until Tuesday at which time the architect's final plans will be submitted for approval.

In other action, the board will review a new evaluation procedure being implemented for teachers this year in accordance with the new teachers' contract negotiated last spring.

event ran the gamut from one-man operations to corporations that cost thousands of dollars to organize.

As for Bryant and Jones their start was of the shoestring variety. "All our products, I invented," says 22-year-old Bryant, who, incidentally, dropped out of school in the ninth grade.

HIS PARTNER, Jones, is 33, holds a bachelor's degree in business administration, a master's degree in urban studies and is a former college teacher.

Jones said that after they met, he became impressed with Bryant's inventive abilities that led to the corporation. Bryant said it took him about three weeks to build the security device, known as the "Ghost Control System," and ready it for marketing. The device looks like nothing more than a gray metal box about the size of a cigar box. But, the two contend it can detect a break-in, a fire or any other kind of damage in any size business or home.

And, while the two readily admit the profit motive was behind their enterprise, there is another reason for their business: "Currently we are employing three mothers on welfare," said Jones.

At the other end of the financial scale is the Azteca Corn Products Corp., also from Chicago. Set up by 10 Chicago Mexican-Americans, it required an initial investment of about a quarter million dollars, according to one of the backers, Joseph Canchola, a Chicago stockbroker.

THE FACTORY, currently employing 17 persons, most of whom are Mexican-Americans, supplies Mexican corn-based foods to Chicago area grocery store chains and to several Mexican restaurants. "We're here at Alls Fair," explained Canchola, "to introduce the product to the Anglo market—one which we feel the surface has only barely been scratched in. And, there's no question the market is growing. There's lot of potential out here."

The Azteca Corn Products Corp. has done about $50,000 business thus far in its first year. Canchola's prediction for next year? "We are shooting for a million five."

Prospects Dim For 4-Town Shared Computer Facility

The prospects for a plan to establish a four-town shared computer facility were dimmed last week when the finance committee of the Mount Prospect Village Board tentatively agreed not to recommend approval of the present plan.

Officials in the other three communities, Arlington Heights, Des Plaines and Park Ridge, have already given the go-ahead on the computer plan, prepared by Touche, Ross & Co. The accounting firm has recommended the four towns set up and share the cost of a centralized computer and personnel.

Committee Chairman Trustee Donald B. Furst said the committee "felt the idea of the four towns getting together

Teachers Oppose Resuming Talks

Teachers in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 are opposed to recent attempts by the school board to resume 1971-72 contract talks, instead of declaring an impasse.

Supt. Eric Sahlberg last week sent a letter to David Metzler, teacher negotiator, suggesting the two sides meet either Thursday or Saturday. The letter was sent at the request of Richard Zwieback, professional negotiator hired by the board, according to Sahlberg.

"The letter has in no way answered questions we have asked," Metzler said. "We're going to go to the board and ask that question again—if they consider us at an impasse or not at an impasse."

The board is scheduled to meet at 8 tonight at Lincoln Junior High School, 700 W. Lincoln St.

Teachers have asked the board to declare an impasse in 1971-72 contract talks, thus permitting mediation of the dispute. Teachers asked the board make a decision by 9 p.m. tonight. School board members have refused to take such action, saying there is no need for an impasse.

The letter sent by Sahlberg suggests the two sides discuss "reasons why the Mount Prospect Education Association (MPEA) recently turned down the board of education salary and fringe benefits offer and, as a consequence, what does MPEA wish to recommend in the form of a proposal." The letter also states that other mutually agreed upon items could be discussed.

Metzler said teachers have already responded to the board's latest offer of a 5 per cent pay hike for all returning teachers. He said the teachers' counterproposal includes a 4.5 per cent increase over last year's salary schedule plus a 2.7 per cent yearly hike already in the current schedule. The MPEA proposal would then give most teachers an average 7.2 per cent increase over last year's salary.

Casseroles Will Show They Care

(Have you heard some good news that you think others ought to know about? Let the Herald know by calling 255-4404, and if it's suitable, we'll include it in this new weekly feature.)

Some 20 women of the Community Presbyterian Church, 407 N. Main St., Mount Prospect, have decided to bake casseroles for church members who are ill, moving, or otherwise in need of help. The casseroles will be frozen and stored for use later by families who need them.

Nancy Consdorf, who used to be in charge of the program, said the group, known as Anna Circle, finds out through the church ministers about who is in need in their community. She said the group has been baking for some seven months.

Mrs. Consdorf said the group would welcome any new bakers and people interested should contact the church office.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Police posted a heavy guard at the New York hospital where H. Rap Brown was recuperating from gunshot wounds as a precaution against liberating the long-sought black militant by force.

Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., made public a congressional audit he said indicated the Air Force spent more than $500,000 in 1970 on junkets for civilians. Reuss said the costs of the tours were audited by the General Accounting Office.

Presidential adviser Henry Kissinger and a group of aides spent Sunday in Hawaii making final preparations for their trip to China to discuss details of President Nixon's visit.

The House will consider for the second time this week a proposal to set a specific date for withdrawing all U.S. forces from Indochina. Increased antiwar sentiment indicated a possible close vote, perhaps on Tuesday.

Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., one of two announced candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination, predicted that a Negro could be elected vice president. He said Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Me., made a serious mistake when he said a presidential candidate could not win with a black running mate.

The World

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin left for Canada to tighten the new Soviet-Canadian "partnership" as part of the Kremlin's worldwide public relations campaign. It was the first trip by a Soviet premier to Canada.

Two Israeli soldiers were killed and two others wounded when an anti-vehicle mine planted by Palestinian guerrillas went off in Israeli-occupied Golan Heights.

The War

B-52 bombers attacked Communist positions near the Cambodian border in a renewed effort to break up a Communist offensive entering its fourth week near strategic U.S. Fire Base Pace, the U.S. command said.

Sports

The Pittsburgh Pirates capped a stunning comeback by winning the World Series, getting four-hit pitching from Steve Blass and a home run by Roberto Clemente to beat the Baltimore Orioles, 2-1. The seventh-game victory gave Pittsburgh its first world championship since 1960.

Bidwell Was Among Legislators

by DOUG RAY

Key figures in the recently disclosed race track stock scandal spearheaded a bill through the Illinois General Assembly in 1955 which allowed Arlington Park Race Track to disannex from Rolling Meadows.

The legislation benefiting Arlington Park may have been one of the first in a series of legislative bills which were hand-tailored for Illinois racing magnates.

Included among the legislators who actively supported the bill was then president pro tem of the senate Arthur J. Bidwell, R-River Forest, who has been implicated along with other top politicians for having either direct or indirect ownership of race track stocks.

Removal of race track properties from Rolling Meadows meant a loss of only about $2,500 in 1955 but more importantly a reduction in the property valuation for bonding purposes for the newly formed city. However, last year the race track facilities generated more than $300,000 in tax returns to Arlington Heights and with future developments, which may include apartment complexes and a sports arena, the tax revenue will continue to increase.

IN FEBRUARY, 1955 the City of Rolling Meadows was incorporated. Included in the boundaries were the Arlington Park Race Track properties, the Arlington Crest subdivision of 100 homes, the Chicago and North Western Ry., right-of-way, along with adjacent land. Under existing laws there was no way for this property to avoid inclusion in Rolling Meadows.

The law was changed within four months of Rolling Meadows' formation, when House Bill 795 passed the Illinois General Assembly, allowing the track and other properties on the perimeter of the city to disannex. The bill provided that the properties could be removed within a year of annexation, if the majority of the voters and the majority of the land owners requested to be detached.

The bill was introduced in the House on April 19, 1955. After approval by the House Committee on Municipalities, it was approved in the House on May 19 and sent to the Senate.

The Senate voted approval on June 29, the day before its required adjournment. Gov. William Stratton signed it into law on July 13.

The bill was unanimously passed despite opposition from the Illinois Municipal League. It was termed "special interest legislation."

Legislative leader Bidwell was instrumental in passing the bill. He and other 1955 legislators have recently been named as recipients of race track stocks. According to some published reports, Bidwell's daughter, son and nephew have more than $900,000 in racing stocks. Bidwell has also been named as an intermediary between Illinois officials and former Arlington Park Operator Mrs. Marj Everett.

INCLUDED IN THE 1955 legislature were Paul Powell, former secretary of state, John W. Lewis, present secretary of state, and William E. Pollack and others who have been named in the race track scandal.

Rolling Meadows Ald. Thomas Waldron

was a city official at the time of the Arlington Park disannexation and made attempts to stop the legislation.

"I made a telephone call to Bidwell," Waldron said. "I asked him if something couldn't be done." But Waldron recalls that Bidwell said it was not in his power to change the bill's certain passage.

Former Rolling Meadows Mayor John Northcote traveled to Springfield to seek Stratton's veto of the bill. He argued that it would have serious consequences to any newly formed community. But Stratton signed the bill only days after the meeting.

WALDRON SAID he talked to race track representatives and asked why they were seeking disannexation from Rolling Meadows. Arlington Park officials feared restrictions, according to Waldron.

Undoubtedly the track would have been subject to some restrictions by being forcibly annexed to Rolling Meadows. Annexation of the race track property without prior negotiations for city benefits to the track, would have been less than desirable to Arlington Park officials.

When the race track was finally annexed to Arlington Heights in 1969, there were many concessions the village guaranteed operator Marj Everett, president of Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises Inc. (CTE).

Included in the 1969 preannexation agreement, the Village of Arlington Heights guaranteed to furnish additional police protection "as may be required for the effective management of crowds and traffic control." Also police and fire substations may be built on race track property.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS agreed to petition the Illinois Commerce Commission to locate a new passenger station for the Chicago and North Western Ry., on track land and the village agreed to pay its share toward the cost of the station. The CTE contribution was limited to providing the site for the station.

Arlington Heights stated it would amend its liquor control ordinance to permit "sufficient liquor licenses to be issued" as well as an agreement not to oppose any night thoroughbred racing at the track.

Village officials are under contract to "issue all licenses necessary to operate the existing uses and facilities on the property."

As a final agreement between the two groups, the CTE may elect to disconnect the property from the village, if the village breaks "any terms" of the agreement.

When the announcement was made that Arlington Park would become a part of Arlington Heights, Mayor Jack Walsh said the agreement took several years of negotiations.

HOWEVER, IN February 1955 Rolling Meadows took jurisdiction of race track activities without any such agreement. Four months later, the law changed and Arlington Park and all the adjacent property could be and was removed from newly created Rolling Meadows.

Shortly after House Bill 795 passed and was signed by Stratton, the owners of the Arlington Crest subdivision petitioned to remove the area from Rolling Meadows. Then came the disconnection of the railway and then Arlington Park properties pushing back the northern boundaries of Rolling Meadows to Euclid Avenue.

Rolling Meadows attorneys appealed House Bill 795 on grounds it was unconstitutional but the Illinois Supreme Court upheld the legislation in 1956.

Bidwell Was Among Legislators

Racing's Scandal Figures Spearheaded Disannex Bill

by DOUG RAY

Key figures in the recently disclosed race track stock scandal spearheaded a bill through the Illinois General Assembly in 1965 which allowed Arlington Park Race Track to disannex from Rolling Meadows.

The legislation benefiting Arlington Park may have been one of the first in a series of legislative bills which were hand-tailored for Illinois racing magnates.

Included among the legislators who actively supported the bill was then president pro tem of the senate Arthur J. Bidwell, R-River Forest, who has been implicated along with other top politicians for having either direct or indirect ownership of race track stocks.

Removal of race track properties from Rolling Meadows meant a loss of only about $2,500 in 1965 but more importantly a reduction in the property valuation for bonding purposes for the newly formed city. However, last year the race track facilities generated more than $300,000 in tax returns to Arlington Heights and with future developments, which may include apartment complexes and a sports arena, the tax revenue will continue to increase.

IN FEBRUARY, 1955 the City of Rolling Meadows was incorporated. Included in the boundaries were the Arlington Park Race Track properties, the Arlington Crest subdivision of 100 homes, the Chicago and North Western Ry., right-of-way, along with adjacent land. Under existing laws there was no way for this property to avoid inclusion in Rolling Meadows.

The law was changed within four months of Rolling Meadows' formation, when House Bill 795 passed the Illinois General Assembly, allowing the track and other properties on the perimeter of the city to disannex. The bill provided that the properties could be removed within a year of annexation, if the majority of the voters and the majority of the land owners requested to be detached.

The bill was introduced in the House on April 19, 1955. After approval by the House Committee on Municipalities, it was approved in the House on May 18 and sent to the Senate.

The Senate voted approval on June 29, the day before its required adjournment. Gov. William Stratton signed it into law on July 13.

The bill was unanimously passed despite opposition from the Illinois Municipal League. It was termed "special interest legislation."

Legislative leader Bidwell was instrumental in passing the bill. He and other 1955 legislators have recently been named as recipients of race track stocks. According to some published reports, Bidwell's daughter, son and nephew have more than $900,000 in racing stocks. Bidwell has also been named as an intermediary between Illinois officials and former Arlington Park Operator Mrs. Marj Everett.

INCLUDED IN THE 1955 legislature were Paul Powell, former secretary of state; John W. Lewis, present secretary of state, and William E. Pollack and others who have been named in the race track scandal.

Rolling Meadows Ald. Thomas Waldron was a city official at the time of the Arlington Park disannexation and made attempts to stop the legislation.

"I made a telephone call to Bidwell,"

Waldron said. "I asked him if something couldn't be done." But Waldron recalls that Bidwell said it was not in his power to change the bill's certain passage.

Former Rolling Meadows Mayor John Northcote traveled to Springfield to seek Stratton's veto of the bill. He argued that it would have serious consequences to any newly formed community. But Stratton signed the bill only days after the meeting.

WALDRON SAID he talked to race track representatives and asked why they were seeking disannexation from Rolling Meadows. Arlington Park officials feared restrictions, according to Waldron.

Undoubtedly the track would have been subject to some restrictions by being forceably annexed to Rolling Meadows. Annexation of the race track property without prior negotiations for city benefits to the track, would have been less than desirable to Arlington Park officials.

When the race track was finally annexed to Arlington Heights in 1969, there were many concessions the village guaranteed operator Marj Everett, president of Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises Inc. (CTE).

Included in the 1969 preannexation agreement, the Village of Arlington Heights guaranteed to furnish additional police protection "as may be required for the effective management of crowds and traffic control." Also police and fire substations may be built on race track property.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS agreed to petition the Illinois Commerce Commission to locate a new passenger station for the Chicago and North Western Ry., on track land and the village agreed to pay its share toward the cost of the station. The CTE contribution was limited to providing the site for the station.

Arlington Heights stated it would amend its liquor control ordinance to permit "sufficient liquor licenses to be issued" as well as an agreement not to oppose any night thoroughbred racing at the track.

Village officials are under contract to "issue all licenses necessary to operate the existing uses and facilities on the property."

As a final agreement between the two groups, the CTE may elect to disconnect the property from the village, if the village breaks "any terms" of the agreement.

When the announcement was made that Arlington Park would become a part of Arlington Heights, Mayor Jack Walsh said the agreement took several years of negotiations.

HOWEVER, IN February 1955 Rolling Meadows took jurisdiction of race track activities without any such agreement. Four months later, the law changed and Arlington Park and all the adjacent property could be and was removed from newly created Rolling Meadows.

Shortly after House Bill 795 passed and was signed by Stratton, the owners of the Arlington Crest subdivision petitioned to remove the area from Rolling Meadows. Then came the disconnection of the railway and then Arlington Park properties pushing back the northern boundaries of Rolling Meadows to Euclid Avenue.

Rolling Meadows attorneys appealed House Bill 795 on grounds it was unconstitutional but the Illinois Supreme Court upheld the legislation in 1956.

school's 1971 homecoming queen. Miss Oestman reigned with king Ken Peters. Theme for this year's homecoming at Arlington was "Imagine."

A REGAL DUO. Steve Turner and Mary Beth Brady were named homecoming king and queen at St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights this weekend. The happy pair officiated over the school's homecoming parade yesterday, from St. Viator to Prospect High School, where the Lions clashed with the Prospect Knights.

Prospects Dim For 4-Town Shared Computer Facility

The prospects for a plan to establish a four-town shared computer facility were dimmed last week when the finance committee of the Mount Prospect Village Board tentatively agreed not to recommend approval of the present plan.

Officials in the other three communities, Arlington Heights, Des Plaines and Park Ridge, have already given the go-ahead on the computer plan, prepared by Touche, Ross & Co. The accounting firm has recommended the four towns set up and share the cost of a centralized computer and personnel.

Committee Chairman Trustee Donald B. Furst said the committee "felt the idea of the four towns getting together was good" but the committee was concerned with the cost of the currently proposed plan.

"To try and do what they suggest (the four towns buying their own computer equipment) on the time table they suggest would be prohibitive," Furst said. "Another factor is that we would be paying for a lot of dead time if we purchased a computer." "Dead time" is time when the computer would not be in operation.

FURST SAID his committee would accept the report as a feasibility study but could not act on the proposed plan. "We have some four or five alternative suggestions we would like to discuss with the other three communities," he said.

Other possibilities include renting a computer, buying time on a computer or "innumerable other ways," he said.

The other three towns have authorized their respective finance directors and attorneys to start working on an agreement that would set up an organizational structure for the computer facility. The central computer facility would be used by the individual towns for water billing, payroll, compiling police information and other operations.

The Touche Ross report cost about $14,000, shared by the four towns. According to the information in the study, the annual costs of operating the central facility over a 10-year period would be $19,000 a year for Arlington Heights, $20,000 a year for Mount Prospect, $40,000 a year for Des Plaines and $22,000 for Park Ridge.

THESE COSTS ARE based on the actual time each town would be using the computer.

According to the report, the advantages to the new system would be providing expandability, flexibility to change systems as needs change and a police information system.

The disadvantages listed were the system requiring a lot of management time and each community having to adjust their priorities somewhat, to conform with the group consensus.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Police posted a heavy guard at the New York hospital where H. Rap Brown was recuperating from gunshot wounds as a precaution against liberating the long-sought black militant by force.

Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., made public a congressional audit he said indicated the Air Force spent more than $600,000 in 1970 on junkets for civilians. Reuss said the costs of the tours were audited by the General Accounting Office.

Presidential adviser Henry Kissinger and a group of aides spent Sunday in Hawaii making final preparations for their trip to China to discuss details of President Nixon's visit.

The House will consider for the second time this week a proposal to set a specific date for withdrawing all U.S. forces from Indochina. Increased antiwar sentiment indicated a possible close vote, perhaps on Tuesday.

Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okl., one of two announced candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination, predicted that a Negro could be elected vice president. He said Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Me., made a serious mistake when he said a presidential candidate could not win with a black running mate.

The World

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin left for Canada to tighten the new Soviet-Canadian "partnership" as part of the Kremlin's worldwide public relations campaign. It was the first trip by a Soviet premier to Canada.

Two Israeli soldiers were killed and two others wounded when an anti-vehicle mine planted by Palestinian guerrillas went off in Israeli-occupied Golan Heights.

The War

B52 bombers attacked Communist positions near the Cambodian border in a renewed effort to break up a Communist offensive entering its fourth week near strategic U.S. Fire Base Pace, the U.S. command said.

Sports

The Pittsburgh Pirates capped a stunning comeback by winning the World Series, getting four-hit pitching from Steve Blass and a home run by Roberto Clemente to beat the Baltimore Orioles, 2-1. The seventh-game victory gave Pittsburgh its first world championship since 1960.

Park District Eyes Farm-Park Idea

McDonald's Farm In Village?

A barn, hog shed and housing for brooder chicks are elements in a formula which might produce a farm-park within five years for the Arlington Heights Park District.

Plans for the farm-park were presented last week to the Arlington Heights Park Board. The plans were drawn free of charge by Joe L. Bennett, local president and architect.

Angelo Capulli, superintendent of parks, said he hopes the plans can be used as a five-year program to be worked on. He said he thinks the project can be accomplished by a donation program.

The plans call for a hog feeding area, lot and shed; cattle feeding area, crib and barn; fruit trees, machine shop shed, poultry shed and lot; house, garage, vegetable cart, brooder chicks area and house and garden plots.

THE SITE FOR the facility would be the presently undeveloped Prairie Park, 1700 south on Belmont at Council Trail. The park is in the southeastern section of the village, about four blocks east of Arlington Heights Road and about three blocks north of Golf Road.

The about 10-acre park was the site of a new program started this spring by the park district. Local residents signed up for garden plots at the park and were allowed to grow their own flowers, vegetables and other items at the park. Residents were "standing in line" to register for the plots, although not all the plots were actually farmed and kept up during the summer. The park district provided some fertilizer, water and other items.

Capulli said the first major item for the park would be the donation of a barn. As the plan progresses, the park could also include a house where a maintenance worker for the park district could live on the property and "hopefully prevent vandalism," he said.

The tremendous response to the garden plot idea has convinced Capulli that the park district needs more than just "concrete and asphalt" parks. The farm-park idea would also include some area for the garden plots for local residents, but these plots would be smaller than this year. The plots this year were about 20 by 30 feet.

THE IDEA OF A farm-park had been languishing since an unsuccessful attempt in 1968 for a farm-zoo idea. In February, 1968, developers of Berkeley Square subdivision in northwestern Arlington Heights offered to donate an old barn and farm house for use in Raven Park, which is adjacent to Edgar Allen Poe School, 2800 N. Highland.

The developers were carving up a former 90-acre farm for the subdivision and offered to save the farm buildings and put them in Raven Park, the site donated by the developer.

Dist. 21 officials and the park board both like the idea. Dist. 21 operates Poe School and officials said the location of the farm-zoo there would be ideal for using it as part of the school's curriculum.

However, a clamor quickly arose from residents of the area who did not want the neighborhood park turned into a home for cows, hogs and other domestic animals.

ALTERNATE SITES were suggested for the farm buildings, but before details could be worked out, the developer had to destroy the buildings to make way for construction progress.

Capulli said the farm-park concept would work better at Prairie Park because the area is not as close to single-family homes as Raven Park. A former employee of Evanston's park system, Capulli said that city has an arboretum built by donations from local organizations and groups.

Capulli sees the possible park as an important one to allow suburban children to be able to see and touch farm animals. Much of this country's heritage is based on the many farms originally established by settlers and knowing about farms is important for children, he said.

If the park does become a reality, Arlington Heights youngsters will have a chance to see what most of their town was like before the days of developers, subdivisions and bulldozers.

Two-Day Minority Group Exposition At Randhurst

'Alls Fair' In Love, War And Business World

by ALAN AKERSON

Winford Bryant and Everett Jones first met early last summer at an Operation Breadbasket meeting in Chicago.

Now, only a few months later, the two have formed a corporation that makes and leases business and home security equipment at a price, they say, that is far below that of their competitors.

Bryant and Jones, both black, were among the minority group entrepreneurs — some 40 in all — who came to Mount Prospect's Randhurst Shopping Center last week to show their wares to the Northwest suburbs.

The two-day minority group business exposition, called "Alls Fair," was sponsored and paid for by more than 30 area human relations groups, churches, individuals and businesses.

Thousands of shoppers at Randhurst saw the exhibits in the shopping center's mall Saturday and Sunday. It was the second "Alls Fair," the first being held in June, 1970.

AMONG THE exhibitors were black artists, Indians displaying clothing from their country, and Mexican-Americans who sell Mexican food products.

According to Patricia Vockerath, a spokesman for the event, the goal of Alls Fair is to give Northwest suburban residents a chance "to view the multi-faceted talents and accomplishments of the various minority groups" that live in the Chicago area.

EVERYTHING FROM ART objects to oil filters was on business exposition held last weekend at Randhurst display for shoppers at the "Alls Fair," a minority group Shopping Center.

The businesses represented at the exposition to corporations that cost thousands of dollars to organize.

As for Bryant and Jones their start was of the shoestring variety. "All our products, I invented," says 22-year-old Bryant, who, incidentally, dropped out of school in the ninth grade.

HIS PARTNER, Jones, is 33, holds a bachelor's degree in business administration, a master's degree in urban studies and is a former college teacher.

Jones said that after they met, he became impressed with Bryant's inventive abilities that led to the corporation. Bryant said it took him about three weeks to build the security device, known as the "Ghost Control System," and ready it for marketing. The device looks like nothing more than a gray metal box about the size of a cigar box. But, the two contend it can detect a break-in, a fire or any other kind of damage in any size business or home.

And, while the two readily admit the profit motive was behind their enterprise, there is another reason for their business: "Currently we are employing three mothers on welfare," said Jones.

At the other end of the financial scale is the Azteca Corn Products Corp., also from Chicago. Set up by 10 Chicago Mexican-Americans, it required an initial investment of about a quarter million dollars, according to one of the backers, Joseph Canchola, a Chicago stockbroker.

THE FACTORY, currently employing

17 persons, most of whom are Mexican-Americans, supplies Mexican corn-based foods to Chicago area grocery stores and to several Mexican restaurants. "We're here at Alls Fair," explained Canchola, "to introduce the product to the Anglo market — one which we feel the surface has only barely been scratched in. And, there's no question the market is growing. There's lot of potential out here."

The Azteca Corn Products Corp. has done about $50,000 business thus far in its first year. Canchola's prediction for next year? "We are shooting for a million five."

Defense Given Jayne Evidence

State's attorneys Friday turned over the last of the evidence, police reports and grand jury testimony totaling hundreds of pages to defense attorneys in a pretrial hearing in the murder of Inverness horseman George Jayne.

Asst. State's Atty. Nicholas Motherway said, however, he "left open a series of documents" to be subject to a ruling by Judge Richard J. Fitzgerald on whether the state is obligated to also hand them over to the defense.

Judge Fitzgerald set a hearing date for Nov. 4 when he will determine whether additional information on the case now in the hands of the state should be turned over to the defense.

Under a new U.S. Supreme Court ruling which was effective Oct. 1, the state is required to present evidence accumulated in investigations to the defense prior to the actual trial. The defense must do the same for the state.

Reports the state or defense do not voluntarily tender are subject to argument and determination by the presiding judge.

"Because this case has so much paper, it has taken months to turn over all the evidence and make copies of it, which has caused the delay in the actual trial," Motherway said.

MOTHERWAY AND Matthew Walsh, assistant state's attorneys handling the Jayne case, agreed to provide the four defense attorneys with lists of those documents they plan to withhold by Friday so that each side can prepare its presentation before Judge Fitzgerald.

Defense attorneys said they will begin turning over evidence to the state after they have had time to sift through the material provided to them by the state.

The information and evidence is being sought by both sides to help in their preparation for the trial, which is expected not to begin until after Jan. 1.

Charged in two-count indictments of murder and conspiracy to commit murder in the death of George Jayne last Oct. 28 are George's brother Silas Jayne, of rural Elgin; Joseph LaPlaca, of 321 McClure, Elgin; Edwin Nefek, of 22341 Sherman Rd., Chicago Heights; and Julius Barnes, of 7318 S. University, Chicago.

All have pleaded not guilty and have been held in Cook County Jail without bond since their arrest May 22.

Schools Join To Hire Lobbyist

The High School Dist. 214 School Board has voted to join with a North Shore high school district cooperative in hiring a lobbyist to represent local districts in the Illinois Legislature this year.

The cooperative, called the "Education Research and Development Association" (ED-RED), has already hired William Henkel at a salary of $24,000. Henkel is a former legislative representative of the county education office.

With the addition of Dist. 214, ED-RED will include 13 districts and represent about one sixth of the legislative strength of the state. The group will also represent 30 representative districts and one third of the student population in Illinois.

TPC To Meet Twice

Two fall meetings of the Arlington High School Teacher-Parent-Conference have been scheduled this month.

The first meeting, for parents of freshman and sophomore students will be Oct. 21. The second, for junior and senior parents, will be Oct. 28.

Both meetings will start at 7:45 p.m. in the high school's Grace Gym, 502 W. Euclid Ave.

School Fund Outlook 'Bleak'

Preliminary estimates present a "bleak" financial picture for School Dist. 21 during the 1972-73 fiscal year, according to Dist. 21 Business Mgr. Walter Fuller.

If the estimates prove to be accurate, the district's expenditures will exceed its revenue by $400,000, Fuller stated, and the district could "simply run out of money."

Fuller presented a preliminary report on the anticipated financial condition of Dist. 21 at Thursday's school board meeting.

Fuller said the district estimates that assessed valuation in Dist. 21 will go up by $10 million a year in the next two years.

The district also estimates that state aid to the district will be increased by 5 per cent in the next fiscal year and that average daily attendance in the Dist. 21 schools, a factor in determining state aid to the district, will also increase by about 300 students over the current year.

However, expenditures in the district will also increase in 1972-73, Fuller said. He estimated that expenditures in the next fiscal year will be about 5 per cent higher than in the current fiscal year.

FULLER SAID that the decrease in cash available to the district during the current fiscal year would be $500,000 by the end of the fiscal year June 30, if the $200,000 in reserve contingencies is spent.

Fuller said the district has no plans now to spend the funds now in the contingency account, but that in past years some of this money has been transferred to other accounts and spent for items not anticipated in the budget, such as the cost of additional heating of buildings.

Fuller emphasized that the estimates presented are preliminary and conservative, and will be revised if new information pertaining to finances is obtained.

A greater increase in assessed valuation and state aid than anticipated would change the estimates, he noted.

Fuller said the district also hopes that enrollment in the 15 Dist. 21 schools will increase over the year, without causing a great increase in operating expenses.

Fuller said that the district needs a greater increase in state aid than the 5 per cent anticipated, and that state legislators must be informed of the financial plight of the schools.

MARIANN BYERWALTER, 218 S. Kaspar Ave., Arlington Heights, displays wristwatch she recently won in the nationwide "Buffy" contest. The first place winner spent a day with Anissa Jones, who plays Buffy on CBS' "Family Affair." Mariann and 11 other entrants received watches.

Recommend Tax Hike Vote Be Held On Dec. 4

A Dec. 4 date has been recommended for the rescheduled tax hike referendum in Maine Township High School Dist. 207 by a school board committee.

The finance committee also urged the board Thursday to lower the tax hike request from 37 to 27 cents for each $100 of assessed valuation. The referendum, originally set for Oct. 9, was postponed after President Nixon announced his wage-price freeze policies in August.

"Possibly 37 cents was much more than what we should have asked for," Finance Chrm. John Means said Thursday.

Means explained that as of June 30, Dist. 207's deficit totaled just over $3 million. According to expenditures included in the 1971-72 budget, the deficit will be more than $4 million by June 30, 1972.

"THERE WILL BE some savings in the budget because the teachers won't get their full salary increases due to the President's new economic policy, but we'll still have more than a $4 million deficit," Means said.

"According to our projections last year, we would need a 28 cent educational fund tax rate increase in order to hold the deficit at the $3 million mark. We were talking 37 cents before, hoping to whittle away at the $3 million rather than just the $1 million our deficit will increase by this year," he said.

"Asking for 27 cents is asking for one cent less than those projections. I think that'll be a selling point for us. At first we came out for 37 cents and now we're cutting that by 10 cents. Deficits don't bother me if they can be kept at a point where they don't grow," Means said.

The present tax rate for the educational fund is $1.63 per $100 assessed property valuation.

Richard Short, superintendent of schools, said Thursday the district has already saved the taxpayers six cents this year by lowering the tax rates three cents each in the bond and interest and fire prevention and safety funds.

"SO ACTUALLY WE'RE only asking the taxpayers to pay a total of 21 cents more," Short said.

"We've spent quite a bit of energy modifying our deficit. We've had an increase in the number of students — close to 400 — and yet we have two less faculty members this year than last. Normally we would have hired about 25 more," Short said.

"We're holding on all expenditures. Even with this, spending is still going to be greater than the projected income by 10 per cent. We're trying to isolate costs and expenditures. We're attempting to define specifically what would have to be eliminated from our educational program if income doesn't match expenditures," Short said.

"The question is, are the taxpayers willing to spend 21 cents more to allow the current educational program to continue. I think the administration has pulled all the stops in terms of efforts to get these considerations on the table so we know how much we can save by eliminating a certain area of what we think is quality education," Short said.

"We could live with a lower deficit. But when it starts growing at $1 million a year, a 10 per cent rate, that's a catastrophe and we've got to do something to change it," Short said.

"LEGALLY WE CAN BE 75 per cent of our educational fund in debt — in our case about $8 million in debt. When we get over 50 per cent in debt others start taking a dim view of us. We're going to get higher interest rates," Short said.

"If the taxpayers don't approve this referendum every department is going to feel the cut. Everyone is going to be hurt. Already we had to cut some of our summer programs and hire replacement teachers at a lower pay scale," Short said.

At the Sept. 21 Dist. 207 board meeting, members voted to postpone the referendum until after President Nixon's 90-day wage-price freeze is ended. Park Ridge Elementary School Dist. 64's Oct. 5 referendum asking for a 43-cent educational fund tax rate increase failed to win voter approval.

The last referendum approved by Maine Township voters was on Dec. 6, 1968, when a 21-cent tax rate increase was asked. Two earlier tax referendums that year failed to win voter approval.

"We can't delay ourselves any longer. The need is there. It's now or never," Means said.

He said Dec. 7 is the soonest Dist. 64 officials can call another referendum, if they decide to try again. "We held back once for them so I don't see anything wrong with scheduling ours for Dec. 4," Means said.

Principal Ronald Wuczynski, two new kindergarten rooms have been under construction since late summer and are scheduled for completion in mid-November. "We needed more classroom space in order to meet the standards set by the other schools in Dist. 62," he said. The new rooms will go into use after Christmas vacation.

Charge Man With Stolen Property

A 23-year-old Glenview man, currently residing in Des Plaines, was arrested Thursday night and charged with possessing items believed stolen in several recent Des Plaines burglaries.

Charged with possession of stolen property was Jack Hamblen, 23, of 3428 Ashley Dr., Glenview.

Hamblen, who reportedly told police he is temporarily residing with a friend, Donald Brennan, at 910 Beau Dr., Des Plaines, was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond Friday. He is scheduled to appear in the Niles branch of the county circuit court tomorrow.

DES PLAINES Patrolman Steven Merriman said he was dispatched to 910 Beau Dr., about 8:15 p.m., where a woman resident told him she saw a suspicious man in the laundry room of the apartment building.

The woman reportedly described the man to Merriman and also said the man had a brown and white dog with him.

Merriman said he asked for assistance from other officers when a preliminary check of the building was unsuccessful. During a more thorough check of the apartment building, police said, Hamblen, who fit the description offered by the woman, was apprehended when he came out of an apartment on the third floor.

Police said they received permission from Brennan to search the apartment and found items they believe to have been stolen. Brennan reportedly told police the goods they found did not belong to him.

Det. Allen Freitag said about $2,000 worth of goods believed to be stolen were recovered from the apartment.

AMONG OTHER items, police said, a mink stole, binoculars, silverware and concert tickets were found. These were among items stolen in three burglaries on the west side of Des Plaines since the beginning of October, police said.

An ornamental sword, identified as one stolen during a burglary on the city's east side Oct. 9, was also recovered according to police.

Police said the mink stole has been positively identified by Mr. and Mrs. Afanasy Kosenko of 1124 Marshall Dr., as the one stolen from their home Oct. 12.

Hamblen's dog was impounded at a local kennel.

City Seeking Noise Pollution Control

Several Des Plaines aldermen are working for creation of a noise pollution ordinance to give the city more control over O'Hare Airport.

The city council's environmental controls committee, (created after the April election) is examining state laws, the new Illinois Constitution, and noise pollution ordinances in other cities to see if Des Plaines could be empowered to take direct legal action against airplane noise, according to committee members.

The new ordinance, which may be brought to the city council in several months for consideration, would also include controls over other noise producers, including cars, trucks, and lawnmowers.

HIGH NOISE levels — including jet engine noise — have been found by medical and psychological research to be harmful, according to committee member Ald. Alan Abrams (8th).

Noise affects the quality of life, and can cause permanent hearing damage, committee members said.

Ald. Robert Michaels (8th), committee chairman has said that the noise in his ward "shakes chandeliers and knocks dishes off shelves, and some residents say the noise is popping nails from the walls because of vibration."

Des Plaines is caught between the flight paths to two of O'Hare Airport's busiest runways at night, the aldermen said. Airplanes fly over the eighth ward every two minutes, during the day, according to Abrams.

A recent report from the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC), indicated that more of Des Plaines than any other Northwest suburb, is being subjected to high noise levels.

The report also said that by 1975 more than half of Des Plaines would be subjected to uncomfortable and unhealthy noise levels. NIPC recommended that in these areas of high noise impact, no new residential homes be constructed. Instead, only highly insulated apartment buildings should be built, to protect residents, according to report.

Unless steps are taken to reduce jet noise by 1975, the high noise impact areas will expand to the north and northeast parts of the city, to include the southern, downtown and northeastern sections of Des Plaines.

CHICAGO PLANS for O'Hare include construction of another runway, which would bring more airplanes over Des Plaines, according to Abrams.

The flightpath for this proposed runway, which Chicago can build without approval of surrounding communities, would be over several Des Plaines schools, including Dempster Junior High, 420 W. Dempster, St. Zachary School, 567 Algonquin, and a new junior high scheduled for construction, according to Abrams.

Des Plaines officials have backed suggestions of closing O'Hare at night. The northeast runway is now closed at night to cut down noise over hospitals in Park Ridge.

The Federal Aviation Administration is now studying landing and take-off techniques found successful at other major airports for reducing jet noise.

New jets, including the DC-10, with quieter engines are beginning to be used, but Michaels said 15 to 20 years will pass before DC-10's are used on a majority of flights.

Ald. Abrams announced last week he would push for Illinois Environmental Protection Agency investigation, public hearings and action on O'Hare airport noise.

Abrams said that several legal and court changes recently have presented stronger possibilities that the city could gain more legal control over airport noise.

IN THE PAST, courts have ruled that cities have little control over airport authorities. But recently some court rulings, and a greater awareness of environmental problems, indicate that the federal courts may be moving from this strict rule, Abrams said.

The new Illinois constitution also granted Des Plaines new powers, which might allow more city control over O'Hare Home rule powers by the city, without state legislature approval, to protect the health and welfare of its citizens, Abrams said.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Police posted a heavy guard at the New York hospital where H. Rap Brown was recuperating from gunshot wounds as a precaution against liberating the long-sought black militant by force.

Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., made public a congressional audit he said indicated the Air Force spent more than $500,000 in 1970 on junkets for civilians. Reuss said the costs of the tours were audited by the General Accounting Office.

Presidential adviser Henry Kissinger and a group of aides spent Sunday in Hawaii making final preparations for their trip to China to discuss details of President Nixon's visit.

The House will consider for the second time this week a proposal to set a specific date for withdrawing all U.S. forces from Indochina. Increased antiwar sentiment indicated a possible close vote, perhaps on Tuesday.

Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., one of two announced candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination, predicted that a Negro could be elected vice president. He said Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Me., made a serious mistake when he said a presidential candidate could not win with a black running mate.

The World

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin left for Canada to tighten the new Soviet-Canadian "partnership" as part of the Kremlin's worldwide public relations campaign. It was the first trip by a Soviet premier to Canada.

Two Israeli soldiers were killed and two others wounded when an anti-vehicle mine planted by Palestinian guerrillas went off in Israeli-occupied Golan Heights.

The War

B52 bombers attacked Communist positions near the Cambodian border in a renewed effort to break up a Communist offensive entering its fourth week near strategic U.S. Fire Base Pace, the U.S. command said.

Sports

The Pittsburgh Pirates capped a stunning comeback by winning the World Series, getting four-hit pitching from Steve Blass and a home run by Roberto Clemente to beat the Baltimore Orioles, 2-1. The seventh-game victory gave Pittsburgh its first world championship since 1960.

Help Our Schools, Local Officials Urge Legislators

by VICKI HAMENDE

Officials of local school districts Saturday called for increased state aid to education and new state laws banning strikes by public school teachers.

The officials told two state legislators at a special breakfast meeting Saturday that the crisis in school finances and the lack of state guidelines for collective bargaining are their two major concerns.

However, the legislators said it is doubtful that new laws to meet these concerns will come from the current General Assembly session in Springfield.

At the breakfast, hosted by Des Plaines Elementary School Dist. 62 and Maine Township High School Dist. 207 at Maine East High School in Park Ridge, State Rep. Robert Juckett, R-Park Ridge, and State Sen. John Carroll, R-4th, first listened to comments from local school superintendents and board of education officials on legislation affecting their school districts and then told the group the status in Springfield of such legislation.

State Rep. Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie, and State Rep. Arthur Simmons, R-Skokie, were unable to attend the Fourth Legislative District breakfast, part of a series being promoted throughout the state by the Illinois Association of School Boards.

KATHRYN SCIEZ, Dist. 62 school board member, said the purpose of the breakfast was "to help make the legislators cognizant of our concerns as school board members in trying to face problems such as finances and teacher-board relationships.

Rep. Robert Juckett

"We wanted the legislature to tell us their concerns, too, so together we can create the best possible education for our children," Mrs. Sciez said.

Represented at the breakfast were High School Dist. 207 and 219 and Elementary School Dist. 62, 63, 64, 67, 68, 69, 73 and 73½.

On the financial crisis facing school districts, education officials said they need more state aid, public support for tax increase referendums, reimbursement for new special education programs and a guaranteed replacement to cover the loss of the personal property tax to meet the financial burdens of inflation, growing student population and higher teachers' salaries.

Due to ever-increasing problems in teacher-school board salary negotiations and the fear of teacher strikes, the educators said a collective bargaining bill with a no-strike clause is needed in Illinois.

OTHER CONCERNS voiced to Juckett and Carroll by spokesmen for the school districts included the "extreme" demands of teachers for more control over curricula and methods of teaching, what they termed discrimination in the state aid formula favoring unit school districts over dual districts and the possibility that increased state aid for parochial schools would mean less aid for public schools.

School district spokesman described the makeup of their districts and steps already being taken without the help of legislation to remedy problems, including cutbacks in educational programs and teacher hiring.

Describing Dist. 207 as a district with 12,000 students, an assessed valuation of $690 million, a $20-$22 million budget and a $4 million deficit, board president William Wuehrmann said in order to meet continued increases in the cost of living, "We have to go for a referendum. It's our only conclusion."

A referendum asking for a 27-cent increase in the tax rate for the Dist. 207 educational fund has already been scheduled for Dec. 4, Wuehrmann said, despite the fact that referendums in several school districts near Maine Township have recently failed to win voter approval.

Sen. John Carroll

ROBERT CLAUS, president of the Dist. 62 board, said student population in the district is about 7,500, down 300 from two years ago. That means less state aid, he said, but Dist. 62 still has a good industrial base for taxation.

"That may be shot out from under us if the legislature equalizes industrial and property tax bases," Claus said.

"Our major concerns are money and labor relations. Teacher power is riding at its zenith at the moment . . . negotiations are like a revolving door. We need an enforceable and rigid no-strike clause in a bill," he said.

"We have another problem in Dist. 62 — an increasing number of non-English speaking children are moving into our boundaries. So far we've managed to serve them with our own programs but soon we'll need state financial support," Claus said.

Juckett said he was concerned about the school districts' demands for more local control along with more state aid.

"If the state is going to appropriate money, the state is going to run the schools. But to be frank, I don't know where any more money will come from, unless we take it away from somebody else," Juckett said.

"COLLEGE STUDENTS and professors were lobbying last week in Springfield because their state funds have been cut. Welfare people are attacking the governor daily for more funds. He can't run at a deficit. There's only so big a pie. We either have to cut into someone or somehow increase revenue," he said.

"Concerning collective bargaining, in my opinion there will never be a bill with a no-strike clause coming from this legislative session. Bills like that were introduced in 1967 and 1969 but they never passed after they had been weighted down with amendments," Juckett said. "School boards will have to use more backbone when dealing with their teachers."

Juckett said he supports the efforts of education officials to seek an end to state aid discrimination favoring unit over dual districts.

"Small gains have already been made and I must give praise to Richard Short (Dist. 207 superintendent of schools) for that. I saw him in Springfield more than our own legislators. We're on the way, but there is still a difference and that difference shouldn't be," Juckett said.

CARROLL SAID although he has never served on an education committee during his 10 years as a representative and five years as a senator, he recognizes the financial crisis schools are facing.

"Monday is our big problem in Springfield, too," he said. "Something has to be done about putting pressure on taxpayers, but money is needed in other areas besides education. In Chicago, 40 per cent of a taxpayer's payments go for education. In the suburbs, education rates 70 per cent."

Neither Juckett nor Carroll could tell the representatives from the local school districts whether state aid will be increased, how to win voter approval of referendums, whether special education programs mandated by the state will be reimbursed entirely, what will replace the personal property tax, whether collective bargaining between teachers and boards will be adopted or whether parochial schools will get more state aid.

Both praised what Juckett termed "a powerful education lobby in Springfield" working on these concerns.

"The important thing is that the legislators know how we stand on these issues," said Nancy Sheridan, Dist. 62 board member and chairman of the breakfast. "I think for all of us the underlying theme is the welfare of our children."

High School Referendum Date Asked

each year is a hell of a big chunk of money. The taxpayers are going to have to help us if they want a qualified educational program for their children. We're hanging on by the skin of our teeth now," Means said.

He said the deficit stems from inflation, salary increases, the opening of Maine North High school and the growth of student population.

"I don't like to see taxes go up. I pay them, too. But we're on the other side and can see what will happen to our educational program if they don't go up," Means said.

"There are a lot of positive things we can say. We've already reduced the overall tax rate by six cents. Our open campus decision will be announced a couple weeks before Dec. 4 so we can't be accused of holding back on that. We'll just have to take our lumps," Means said.

"We've got a lot of work to do and we'll need support. If we get this referendum through, we'll be able to breathe for the next two years. In the meantime there will be the possibilities of more state aid and increased assessed valuation," Means said.

North And South High Schools To Co-Host Debate

Maine North and Maine South high schools will co-host the first area debate tournament of the 1971-72 season Nov. 6 at Maine North, 9611 Harrison St., Des Plaines.

About 150 debaters from 14 Chicago area high schools will participate, according to Dawn Plotter, Maine North's head debate coach.

The topic for the tournament will be judicial reform in America, specifically whether the present jury system should be abolished.

Debate registration will begin at 8:30 a.m., followed by three rounds of debating. Team and individual speaker trophies will be awarded at 1 p.m.

In their first year of competition, the Maine North debate team compiled a 14-10 winning record. Six of the 12 members on the team were selected to become members of the National Forensic League, an honorary society for high school debaters.

The six include Edie Busija, Jan Fritsche and Otto Dube from Des Plaines; Gini Henkels and David Hunter from Glenview and Ken Sandburg from Niles.

Miss Plotter said the entire team began researching this year's topic during the summer at Northwestern University's law library in Evanston.

Any high school debate team can choose to host a tournament, she said. "Maine North and Maine South are honored to host the kickoff tournament," she said.

With October here, brightly colored pumpkins and gourds are piling up in farm stands.

Maine Township Panel To Decide Open Campus

The Maine Township High School Dist. 207 Board of Education has begun the task of deciding whether open campus, which would allow students with their parents' permission to leave school grounds during free periods and at lunch time, will be allowed in the four Maine high schools.

At Thursday night's education committee meeting, board members voted to schedule meetings for Nov. 1 and 2 to consider the open campus issue.

In preparation for those meetings, Michael Bartos, education chairman, gave each board member a copy of the components of open campus and suggested they individually list what they think should be applied to Dist. 207 schools.

He said such listings should be based on the opinions expressed by students and adults at four recent public hearings and on the report of a summer fact-finding committee on open campus policies in several area schools.

"I'm sure that not all of us have come away from the hearings with the same ideas, but we're going to have to reach some consensus, and this might be a start," Bartos said Thursday.

Included as components of open campus on the copies given to the board members to fill out are students who may participate, academic standing needed, voluntary attendance periods, locations available during free time, and parental approval.

Bartos said the board's decision on open campus will be announced at the Nov. 15 board meeting.

Racing's Scandal Figures Spearheaded Disannex Bill

by DOUG RAY

Key figures in the recently disclosed race track scandal spearheaded a bill through the Illinois General Assembly in 1965 which allowed Arlington Park Race Track to disannex from Rolling Meadows.

The legislation benefiting Arlington Park may have been one of the first in a series of legislative bills which were hand-tailored for Illinois racing magnates.

Included among the legislators who actively supported the bill was then president pro tem of the senate Arthur J. Bidwill, R-River Forest, who has been implicated along with other top politicians for having either direct or indirect ownership of race track stocks.

Removal of race track properties from Rolling Meadows meant a loss of only about $2,500 in 1965 but more importantly a reduction in the property valuation for bonding purposes for the newly formed city. However, last year the race track facilities generated more than $300,000 in tax returns to Arlington Heights and with future developments, which may include apartment complexes and a sports arena, the tax revenue will continue to increase.

IN FEBRUARY, 1965 the City of Rolling Meadows was incorporated. Included in the boundaries were the Arlington Park Race Track properties, the Arlington Crest subdivision of 100 homes, the Chicago and North Western Ry., right-of-way, along with adjacent land. Under existing laws there was no way for this property to avoid inclusion in Rolling Meadows.

The law was changed within four months of Rolling Meadows' formation, when House Bill 795 passed the Illinois General Assembly, allowing the track and other properties on the perimeter of the city to disannex. The bill provided that the properties could be removed within a year of annexation, if the majority of the voters and the majority of the land owners requested to be detached.

The bill was introduced in the House on April 19, 1965. After approval by the House Committee on Municipalities, it was approved in the House on May 13 and sent to the Senate.

The Senate voted approval on June 29, the day before its required adjournment.

Gov. William Stratton signed it into law on July 13.

The bill was unanimously passed despite opposition from the Illinois Municipal League. It was termed "special interest legislation."

Legislative leader Bidwill was instrumental in passing the bill. He and other 1965 legislators have recently been named as recipients of race track stocks. According to some published reports, Bidwill's daughter, son and nephew have more than $900,000 in racing stocks. Bidwill has also been named as an intermediary between Illinois officials and former Arlington Park Operator Mrs. Marj Everett.

INCLUDED IN THE 1965 legislature were Paul Powell, former secretary of state; John W. Lewis, present secretary of state, and William E. Pollack and others who have been named in the race track scandal.

Rolling Meadows Ald. Thomas Waldron was a city official at the time of the Arlington Park disannexation and made attempts to stop the legislation.

"I made a telephone call to Bidwill," Waldron said. "I asked him if something couldn't be done." But Waldron recalls that Bidwill said it was not in his power to change the bill's certain passage.

Former Rolling Meadows Mayor John Northcote traveled to Springfield to seek Stratton's veto of the bill. He argued that it would have serious consequences to any newly formed community. But Stratton signed the bill only days after the meeting.

WALDRON SAID he talked to race track representatives and asked why they were seeking disannexation from Rolling Meadows. Arlington Park officials feared restrictions, according to Waldron.

Undoubtedly the track would have been subject to some restrictions by being forceably annexed to Rolling Meadows. Annexation of the race track property without prior negotiations for city benefits to the track, would have been less than desirable to Arlington Park officials.

When the race track was finally annexed to Arlington Heights in 1969, there were many concessions the village guaranteed operator Marj Everett, president of Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises Inc.

(CTE).

Included in the 1969 preannexation agreement, the Village of Arlington Heights guaranteed to furnish additional police protection "as may be required for the effective management of crowds and traffic control." Also police and fire substations may be built on race track property.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS agreed to petition the Illinois Commerce Commission to locate a new passenger station for the Chicago and North Western Ry., on track land and the village agreed to pay its share toward the cost of the station. The CTE contribution was limited to providing the site for the station.

Arlington Heights stated it would amend its liquor control ordinance to permit "sufficient liquor licenses to be issued" as well as an agreement not to oppose any night thoroughbred racing at the track.

Village officials are under contract to "issue all licenses necessary to operate the existing uses and facilities on the property."

As a final agreement between the two groups, the CTE may elect to disconnect the property from the village, if the village breaks "any terms" of the agreement.

When the announcement was made that Arlington Park would become a part of Arlington Heights, Mayor Jack Walsh said the agreement took several years of negotiations.

HOWEVER, IN February 1965 Rolling Meadows took jurisdiction of race track activities without any such agreement. Four months later, the law changed and Arlington Park and all the adjacent property could be and was removed from newly created Rolling Meadows.

Shortly after House Bill 795 passed and was signed by Stratton, the owners of the Arlington Crest subdivision petitioned to remove the area from Rolling Meadows. Then came the disconnection of the railway and then Arlington Park properties pushing back the northern boundaries of Rolling Meadows to Euclid Avenue.

Rolling Meadows attorneys appealed House Bill 795 on grounds it was unconstitutional but the Illinois Supreme Court upheld the legislation in 1968.

School Hands Tied On Track Issue

Local school districts may find their hands tied if they decide to seek redress in the courts for the alleged under-assessment of the Arlington Park Race Track.

According to Allyn Franke, school attorney, "a school district cannot expend funds to pay a lawyer or to pay court costs in a suit against the assessor to force the assessor to change assessments."

The assessment of the track needs to be changed to strike out a $2,322,927 tax break now granted to track owners, according to "Citizens Action Program" (CAP), a non-profit Chicago-based group. CAP and the Daily News recently issued a report which contends Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton has allegedly underassessed five race tracks including Arlington Park.

CAP CLAIMS the alleged under-assessment resulted in a 1970 tax loss of $338,566 in High School Dist. 211; $493,586 in High School Dist. 214; $813,063 in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15; and $66,386 in Harper College Dist. 512.

School boards in the four districts voted last week to authorize their attorneys and administrators to investigate CAP's report. Franke represents three of the districts, while Harper College is represented by Atty. Frank Hines.

The school administrators plan to meet with their attorneys to study the CAP report and discuss action. CAP has urged the school districts to take court action which could involve: 1) a petition for reassessment of the track; 2) A petition for placement of Cullerton's office under a trusteeship or a petition for a special grand jury to remove Cullerton from office.

However, Franke has notified the districts he does not believe they can use school funds for a suit against the assessor. In a letter to the Dist. 211 superintendent, Franke said he based his opinion on a number of Illinois cases in which "municipalities have hired so-called tax ferrets to discover under-assessed property. The courts have consistently held these contracts to be illegal."

FRANKE ADDED that a suit could be filed against the assessor, but the action would have to be taken by some group other than a school district. CAP members earlier said their group does not have enough influence to win such a suit without the school districts' support.

CAP has proposed the school districts bypass the question of legality by obtaining free legal counsel. According to Bob Kramer, CAP director of research, "we think it is possible to obtain free legal counsel for the school districts. The data has already been collected. All the districts have to do is support the court action."

Kramer contends this step is not necessary however, because "our attorney believes public bodies may spend money to force another body to perform its function." Kramer proposed the school officials discuss the conflict in legal opinion at the upcoming meeting.

"The real issue is whether the school boards are willing to become party to this kind of action, not whether they are willing to spend money," added Kramer.

Order Teens To Change Attitude

If the Mount Prospect Park District teen center is to stay open, teens will have to make some changes in the next several weeks.

Paul Caldwell, assistant park director, delivered an ultimatum Wednesday to about 20 teens interested in the center. "The park district is no longer requesting your cooperation, but telling you that unless a change of attitude is evidenced soon there will no longer be a teen center," he said.

Caldwell told teens "the next couple of weeks are going to constitute a probation period for the center," located in the basement of Lions Recreation Center in Mount Prospect.

He suggested the group create a set of rules governing conduct and set up some action to be taken against violators. He said he wanted the group to include rules prohibiting "wanton" damage of equipment and use of intoxicants or drugs on park premises.

"I ALSO WANT an end put to the following practices:

—Loitering in and around the front and side entrance ways.

—Creating a pig-pen every evening in the entrance area, and use of foul language audible to other persons in the facility area."

Caldwell said if changes weren't made, the basement "is ideal for several other programs the park district will sponsor."

Steve Neff, part-time center director, termed the meeting "successful." He said he didn't think teens took the ultimatum as a threat because "they are determined to make the center work and are confident they will be able to avoid the closing."

"The kids are honest and feel there are problem areas, both from the park district's view and from the kid's view," he said. The group spent about 1½ hours Wednesday night trying to find solutions to those problems. Neff last week said the discussion would be continued at 7:30 p.m. yesterday at Lions Recreation Center, 411 S. Maple St.

Teens feel the center atmosphere and a no-smoking rule in the basement are problems. They feel permitting smoking would solve the loitering, littering and atmosphere problem. "They want to smoke, but the only place they can smoke is outside," Neff said. "If they can smoke downstairs, they'll go downstairs." Park officials set the no-smoking rule after pressure from several parents.

FORMATION OF A rules committee and a court procedure for violators, with punishment determined by a court decision are also some suggested solutions, Neff said.

He said the court, if implemented, would consist entirely of teens. Teens also defined continuing painting the basement, providing music, changing the atmosphere and programming activities as "interest areas" they would like to work on.

"They talked about forming committees," Neff said. "But they want them to be loosely formed. There is resentment over having a tight power structure, for now at least." He said he would provide a list of committees at Sunday's meeting for teens to vote on.

"We want a fair representation on the committees and that's kind of a hard thing to do," he said. "We would like more students involved."

Since the center opened in February, park officials have tried to make the facility more attractive to teens. When a talking area and music did not seem to be the answer, officials installed pool tables and ping pong tables. But that also failed.

Grateful For 15 Years In Convent

Ex-Nun Now Lively Teacher

by WANDALYN RICE

For 15 years Helen Martin watched the changes in the Catholic Church from an insider's viewpoint as a Franciscan nun.

Now the attractive, youthful woman is living a life that is both different and much the same as her past — she is teaching social studies at Thomas Lively Junior High School in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59.

The change is not too great because Miss Martin has been teaching most of her adult life in Catholic schools at almost every level from nursery school through college.

Ex-nuns are extremely lucky because we are professionally prepared. I've gone to school all my life. It isn't like former priests who aren't prepared for anything except the priesthood," she said.

MISS MARTIN was newly graduated from high school when, over mild objections from her parents, she entered the convent.

"I felt that was where I had to be if I wanted to serve God," she said.

Three years ago, after long and careful thought, she shed the role and left the convent. "It was difficult," she said, "because I had always loved it. I'd never been unhappy. It's hard to pinpoint a reason, but it was mostly the realization that it wasn't necessary to be a nun in order to serve God."

When she left her fellow sisters, 150 of them, they "were very sad," she said. "You had very close friends in the convent and you saw them frequently."

She has gone back to visit since then, and she has been welcome, she said, but she does not go back frequently.

Her first step when she left was to get a job in a rural school district near her parents' home in Peoria. The following year, because she wanted to move to the Chicago area, she took the job in Dist. 59.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS and parochial schools do not differ dramatically, she said, but she has had to adjust to some changes. "I had always taught in a self-contained classroom in elementary school. Here in junior high you have the children for only 45 minutes and then they move. I had to get used to the difference."

Another difference between Catholic and public education, she said, is the fact that "the Catholic is completely inundated by God. You bring God into anything you can — science or history."

In addition, at least when she was starting, the habit did help in preserving discipline in the classroom.

"There was a time when 'sister said' was all that was needed for authority," she said.

While she was teaching in a rural Catholic elementary school, she said, her religious order first relaxed its rules to allow a shortened habit and modified veil that would show the nun's hair.

"The day before I wore it I tried to prepare my students that I would look different," she said. "I told them I had red hair and that my habit would be different the next day."

THE NEXT morning, she recalled, the students gathered around the convent to watch for her. As she came out, "one little kid was so scared at seeing my hair that he hid behind the telephone pole. He thought there was something wrong with seeing it."

The changed habit, which by the time she was working as a college counselor was "mostly like a black-and-white dress with a very small veil," is only one of the many changes that have taken place in the church.

She said she has difficulty explaining how she feels about the changes in the church, but adds, "I think they are going to bring about a better understanding of what God is eventually, but until then there has been a great deal of confusion."

Miss Martin still retains close ties to the Church — "God is very important to me" — and is otherwise leading the normal life of a single woman.

"I have married friends, single friends, I go out and I love to dance. I guess my social life is like the social life of almost anyone."

RIGHT NOW, she said, she is "playing it by ear," as far as the future is con-

NO ONE CALLS Helen Martin "Sister" now that she teaches in Dist. 59.

Prospects Dim For 4-Town Shared Computer Facility

The prospects for a plan to establish a four-town shared computer facility were dimmed last week when the finance committee of the Mount Prospect Village Board tentatively agreed not to recommend approval of the present plan.

Officials in the other three communities, Arlington Heights, Des Plaines and Park Ridge, have already given the go-ahead on the computer plan, prepared by Touche, Ross & Co. The accounting firm has recommended the four towns set up and share the cost of a centralized computer and personnel.

Committee Chairman Trustee Donald B. Furst said the committee "felt the idea of the four towns getting together was good" but the committee was concerned with the cost of the currently proposed plan.

"To try and do what they suggest (the four towns buying their own computer equipment) on the time table they suggest would be prohibitive," Furst said.

"Another factor is that we would be paying for a lot of dead time if we purchased a computer." "Dead time" is time when the computer would not be in operation.

FURST SAID his committee would accept the report as a feasibility study but could not act on the proposed plan. "We have some four or five alternative suggestions we would like to discuss with the other three communities," he said.

Other possibilities include renting a computer, buying time on a computer or "innumerable other ways," he said.

The other three towns have authorized their respective finance directors and attorneys to start working on an agreement that would set up an organizational structure for the computer facility. The central computer facility would be used by the individual towns for water billing, payroll, compiling police information and other operations.

The Lighter Side

by Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The letter, or rather the computer print-out, on the front of the Christmas gift catalog began as follows:

"Important final notice to the Wests, our records show you have not made any purchases from us for quite some time even though we have sent you our catalogs regularly. Ordinarily we would remove the West name from our mailing list without notice. But we are giving you one last chance."

I went immediately to the telephone and called my lawyer, Virgil Whiplash.

"A mail order gift house is threatening to remove my name from their mailing list," I said, voice a tremble. "Can they do that to me?"

WHIPLASH GAVE a low whistle.

"Suffering subpoenas!" Whiplash thundered. "This is more serious than I thought. Were they sending you their catalogs regularly during the period in which you allegedly failed to make any purchases?"

"I, I, ah, gu-gu-guess so," I stammered, trying not to sound too guilty. "But I don't have any conscious recollection of receiving them."

"If they have records showing they were sending you the catalogs regularly, they've got you nailed to the wall," Whiplash said. "You won't have a leg to stand on."

"Isn't there anything you can do?" I whined.

"A LOT DEPENDS on intent," the attorney replied. "If it appears you deliberately failed to order anything from a catalog that was sent to you in good faith, your goose is cooked. But if we can convince the jury that it was an inadvertent oversight, you might have a chance."

"I'll do anything," I blubbered. "I couldn't stand the humiliation of having my name dropped from a junk mail list."

"You're lucky they didn't summarily remove your name from the list without notice," Whiplash said. "At least they are giving you one last chance, which, I might add, is more than you deserve."

"What shall I do?" I cried desperately.

"My advise is to try to settle out of court."

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Oswald: "Your grandfather used to say that bad cards made bad players."

Jim: "I guess he meant that when you hold bad cards you tend to get careless and give up."

Oswald: "Partly that — partly that a man who has been holding bad cards is likely to go berserk when he finally picks up a decent hand."

Jim: "You're right about that. Here is a hand where East should have scored a profit. Instead South wrapped up the rubber and took it home. He took his ace of spades and disgustingly returned his partner's lead."

Oswald: "A good example of the give-up play. The spade return was hopeless."

Jim: "If East had thought he would have seen that there was one chance to defeat the four heart contract. That would be to lead a diamond. Since West holds the ace of diamonds and the king of trumps this play succeeds. The defense collects two aces, the king of trumps and a diamond ruff."

Oswald: "This isn't a difficult play at all. It merely requires that East be alert enough to recognize the possibility that

Religion Today

by Rev. Lester Kinsolving

When it comes to grandiose titles, neither the most "High Exalted Ruler" of any lodge or Ethiopia's Emperor Haile Selassie ("Lion of Judah," etc.) have anything on San Francisco's Michael Itkin.

For this diminutive and ecclesiastically ubiquitous young man not only wears the large cross, ring and purple shirt of a bishop, but identifies himself as:

"President and Metropolitan Bishop-Abbot of The Holy Orthodox Catholic Synod of the Syro-Chaldean Rite: Evangelical Catholic Communion Brotherhood of The Love of Christ, Incorporated."

The Exceptionally Reverend Itkin, in addition to pastoring a somewhat skeletal coerie of devotees, occasionally has made ecumenical visitations (uninvited) to the more orthodox and established churches of the city, where he usually creates something of a sensation by processing in his vivid ecclesiastical vesture.

In his conversation, as well as in a stream of documents he issues, Itkin manifests a rather impressive ecclesiastical vocabulary — which sounds as if he were a senior member of the Vatican's Curia. A bulk of these documents consist of ordination or consecration certificates, the number of which is very nearly matched by his fiery anathemas, suspensions, depositions and excommunications — frequently of the same people he had previously ordained or consecrated.

One particularly notable Itkin encyclical was illustrated: a nude man with an erection.

FOR ITKIN is one of a growing number of homosexuals who play church in the grand manner, creating occasional havoc and frequently obtaining recognition, honor and hospitality due to bona fide prelates.

They disdain the crude, if ludicrous, technique of California's illiterate ordaining machine, "Dr." Kirby Hensley, of Modesto's Universal Life Church (700,000 people ordained, plus a number of cocker spaniels and Siamese cats). Instead, these "paper priests" carefully acquire a smattering acquaintance with liturgies (the study of worship) and church history — and use both to the hilt.

They learn there have been thousands of different denominations in history, some of whom have the Apostolic Succession. This theory, cherished by Roman Catholics, Orthodox and Anglicans, holds that Christ's 12 Apostles passed their authority directly to select successors, and through history to the bishops of today.

Occasionally, however, there have been bishops who have been willing to pass on this authority by consecrating everyone and anyone — either for fame, profit or to recruit followers while leading a schism. This has led to the existence of a small army of questionable prelates, which the Church of England tried valiantly to catalog in a book called "Episcopi Vagantes," which is now, unfortunately, out of print.

One experience of San Francisco's Roman Catholic Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken illustrates the problem. The Archbishop recalls that during the consecration of Bishop Mark Hurley

"SOMEONE SHOWED up for the procession in a very impressive regalia, wearing something that looked like a helmet — and which outshone my mitre! So he was seated up in the chancel near Cardinal McIntyre, while a leading Oriental prelate was left down in the pews. This prelate knew who the first man was — and we certainly heard about this after the service!"

National publicity, even in the "The National Catholic Reporter" as well as the homophile press, has been given to another of these paper priests: "Father" Robert J. Richards, founder of the "Community of St. John The Beloved."

This homosexual group has held regular services on the campus of the Jesuit-owned University of San Francisco. "Father" Richards, whose real name is Robert Tato, was received into the Catholic Church — after being ordained a priest of the Antiochian Orthodox Archdiocese of Toledo. He claims that since he is a priest and a Catholic, he is therefore a Catholic priest. But Archbishop McGucken does not recognize his claim and on March 6, 1971, Antiochian Archbishop Michael of Toledo wrote:

"Robert Tato has been suspended for many violations, plus leaving here with many debts to many people, businesses and churches."

Still another in the unnumbered host of paper priests is the Rev. Donald Pierce, whose "St. Valentine's — A Church For Lovers" was bounced out of San Francisco's First Unitarian Church. This despite Unitarian minister James Stoll, a self-professed homosexual, having been appointed "Minister to The Loving Revolution" by this denomination's Pacific Central District Board, headquartered in Berkeley.

Scofflaws Being Nailed At Record-Breaking Rate

Scofflaws are being caught at a record-setting pace this year, according to Cook County Circuit Court Clerk Matthew J. Danaher.

He reported last week that revenue for the first eight months in 1971 in the Traffic Court's scofflaw project is $5.1 million — an increase of $1.4 million over last year's collection.

A scofflaw is a person who is a habitual parking violator. The crackdown, limited to Chicago, has produced 600 arrests a month, according to Danaher.

"He said, anyone with more than five outstanding parking tickets is liable to arrest by the Chicago Police. In the 28 months since Scofflaw Court began, it has resulted in the collection of over 600,000 unpaid parking tickets and produced additional revenue of $5,986,699."

Sacred Heart To Form Advisory Unit

An open meeting will be held tonight to set up a lay advisory board at Sacred Heart of Mary High School, in Rolling Meadows.

Parents of the 550 girls who attend the school are invited to attend the meeting at 7:30 in the school cafeteria, 2800 Central Rd.

Principal Leonard Baenen said he hopes a 10 to 12-member board can be set up by April.

The Doctor Says

by LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Two years ago I had a stroke, not severe, thank goodness, and I recovered the use of my hand and could walk with a walker in a short while. But my leg is heavy and I drag my foot when I walk. Can you help me? Would circulation pills help? I've heard of some people taking them and I would appreciate any other help you can give to us folks.

Dear Reader — A stroke commonly means that an area of the brain has been damaged. Usually this is from a clot or related mechanism that plugs an artery to part of the brain. So the real disease that causes the problem is in the blood vessel.

The brain and spinal cord cells that are destroyed cannot be regenerated like a broken bone or many other parts of the body. Since almost all of our functions can be pinpointed to a specific part of the brain the area damaged determines if a stroke victim is paralyzed, can't speak or has other problems.

To illustrate, there is a small spot on the surface of the left side of the brain that is the central point for controlling the right leg. When you want to move the right leg impulses pass from this point, cross over to the left side of the spinal cord and eventually stimulate the right leg muscles to control movement. This sounds simple but it involves the integration of many complex signals to relax some muscles and contract others in a smooth fashion. If these cells in the brain are damaged you may not be able to move the leg at all.

Sometimes other cells in the brain that escape injury take over the function of the damaged ones or can be trained to replace them. A good example is speech. You can develop another area for speech in some cases, but it takes a long period of training. I suspect there is much yet to be learned in training the brain to take over functions of areas that have been damaged.

A STROKE PATIENT needs to have particular attention to the development of his muscles by special exercises so he can make the most of his ability and prevent, in so far as possible, crippling or loss of function.

Regarding circulation pills, if a person has high blood pressure it is sometimes advisable to treat this to prevent further changes in the blood vessels and possible further damage to the brain. There are other medicines that are given to help the brain function when the circulation is poor. No generalization can be made. The things that prevent heart damage from blood vessel disease apply equally well to strokes, preferably before they occur. This means, no cigarettes, prevention of obesity, a proper diet, limited in any kind of fat, or saturated fat, avoiding too much cholesterol and getting proper exercise.

Drug Overdose Death Statistics Revealed

The person who died of a drug overdose last month in Cook County was most likely to be a white male between 20 and 30 years of age and a resident of Chicago.

Most like that person died of an overdose of heroin or morphine, statistics released last week reveal.

Those statistics also reveal that victims of drug overdoses died in record numbers last month.

County Coroner Andrew J. Toman reported there were 48 overdose death last month, compared to 30 for September 1970. He reports the total is the largest on record.

"This is the largest number of overdose cases that we have reported since we began keeping statistics three years ago. This indicates an alarming trend that may result in making 1971 a record year for drug overdose deaths."

A TOTAL OF 214 persons died of drug overdoses from January to September of this year. For the same period last year, only 194 died.

Last year 277 overdose deaths were reported. It was an all-time record, according to Toman.

Statistics outline the "typical" victim of a drug overdose last month:

—29 whites, 17 blacks and two Orientals died of drug overdoses.

—Thirty men and 18 women died of overdoses in September.

—By age, the 20-30 age category had 16 victims. The second largest age category was 40-50 years of age, in which there were 12 victims.

—37 of the overdose deaths occurred in Chicago; eleven in suburban Cook County.

—32 persons died of morphine or heroin overdoses last month (the two substances are chemically identical in the human body). Twelve of the victims died of barbiturate overdoses.

Rep. Chapman Seeks To Block College Aid Veto

State Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman, R-Arlington Heights, hopes to bring to a vote in the Illinois House of Representatives tomorrow a motion to override Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's vetoes of legislation raising the amount of state aid to junior colleges.

Ogilvie used his expanded veto powers under the new state constitution to veto various items in the legislation sponsored by Mrs. Chapman.

The most significant of the vetoed items was a provision to raise to $19 per credit hour the amount of the state grant to community colleges. Ogilvie used his "line-item" veto to reduce that amount to $15.50 per hour, the same as the amount paid last year.

HARPER COLLEGE officials have estimated that the reduction will cut their revenue by $400,000 to $500,000 this year.

The House must vote on the measure by Wednesday to override the veto. The constitution allows each house of the legislature 15 days to act on vetoed items. If the veto is overridden in the House, the Senate will then have 15 days to vote.

A simple majority is required in each house to override "line item" vetoes.

Soroptimists Model Fall Fashions

Fall fashions in a variety of styles were shown at the recent "Autumn Festival of Fashions" sponsored by the Soroptimist Club of Des Plaines. The Cynthia Shoppe, Des Plaines, provided ensembles for women of all ages and figures while Svoboda's Store For Men, Des Plaines, featured fashions for men.

Modeling were Soroptimist members Helen Burt, Helen's Knit Shop; Lila Guthardt, assistant vice president of the First National Bank of Des Plaines; Eleanor Hayd, secretary to the president of the Des Plaines National Bank; Vesper Herzog, corporate secretary of Des Plaines Publishing Co.; Hazel Lange, former secretary-treasurer of General Telephone Directory Co.; and Geraldine Rinkle, assistant vice president of the Des Plaines National Bank. Also modeling were Rosabelle Gragg of Des Plaines National Bank and Nancy Herzog, president of the Ventures Club of Des Plaines.

MUSIC WAS provided by Grace Coash of the organization. Hair styling was done by Judy Dolphin of the Dolphin Beauty Salon of Des Plaines. Betty Carl commented the show.

The fund-raising event was held Sept. 21 at the Casa Royale in Des Plaines. Dinner preceded the show.

The Soroptimist Club of Des Plaines, chartered in 1963, is one of 1,650 Soroptimist clubs located in 44 countries. The classified service club unites professional and executive business women and is celebrating their 50th anniversary this month.

Dear Dorothy: For the first time we are moving into a home that's serviced by a septic tank. This being a new experience for us, we'd welcome any particular do's and don'ts. Just thought knowing a little about it might help prevent trouble. — Al K.

We had a septic tank for years and had not the slightest trouble. All we did was to follow the rules — and they are quite simple. Items like paper towels, newspapers, wrapping paper, rags or sticks should never be flushed down the toilet. They may not decompose and could lead to clogging of the plumbing and disposal system.

Depending on the number of people in the household, we were told the tank should be cleaned about every five years, which we did. There are any number of firms that clean these tanks. When we thought of getting a garbage disposer, we checked with the health department (which, as a rule, has the plans of most septic tank systems) and learned our tank was too small. Never having had a disposer, never knew what I missed. In short, ordinary prudence should give you

THE FIVE o'clock double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Clifford Kaufmann by candlelight. Yellow daisies and glads decked the altar, and yellow daisies also trimmed pew decorations for the candies which lighted the church aisle.

Linda's attendants wore navy blue organza dresses with white lace Venice bodice and wide lace cuffs on the bishop sleeves. They carried yellow daisies, white roses and baby's breath in a nose-gay bouquet.

The bride's gown was of white silk organza with peau d'ange lace trim. The lace motif covered the Empire bodice and accented the bishop sleeves and flowing skirt and train. A small lace bow held Linda's shoulder-length veil of nylon tulle.

Kathy Piepenbrink of Mount Prospect was maid of honor, while Paul's wife, Linda Seils, Hoffman Estates; Wendie Seils, a cousin from Elmhurst; and Kathy Mordue, sister of the groom, served as bridesmaids.

GEORGE DOLAN of Des Plaines was best man, and ushers were the couple's brothers, Tim Mordue and Paul Seils, and Lester Worchester of Mount Prospect.

For the reception dinner afterwards at the Carmel Restaurant, Mrs. Seils greeted in a mint green dress and Mrs. Mordue in light green, each with an orchid corsage. Dancing followed dinner for the 1970 guests.

The newlyweds had a week's honeymoon in California before settling in Arizona.

Linda is a graduate of Prospect High School and Harper College and was a legal secretary until her marriage. Edward attended Maine West High School.

Next On The Agenda

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD "Autumn Centerpieces" will be the subject of the October meeting of the Crafts Guild of St. Martin's Episcopal Church Women, Monday, Oct. 25.

Participants are asked to bring their own container (vase, bowl or basket) and a spray or small branch of bright autumn leaves for the foundation of the centerpiece. Cat tails, dried wheat, rabbit's ears and Chinese dollar plant will be available at the meeting.

The session will begin at 8 p.m. in the undercroft of the church, 1069 Thacker St. For further information call 827-4172.

SPARES

The new night pastor of Chicago, the Rev. R. Bruce Wheeler, will speak before the Spares Sunday Evening Club this Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Rev. Wheeler spent four years as chaplain at the Chicago House of Correction and was one of the original members of the Illinois Narcotics Advisory Council. He worked in Illinois drug abuse programs, operated by the Department of Mental Health, doing court referral procedures and left that position to get back into church work. In 1969 he went to St. Hilary's Church, Prospect Heights, and remained there until assuming his present position.

Louise S. Roback, the Spares' public relations chairman, will also be honored at this meeting. She will be presented with a plaque expressing the club's appreciation for constructing and issuing publicity releases to 187 outlets over the last 20 months.

Spares meetings are held the second and fourth Sundays of the month at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, 2328 Central Rd., Glenview. The non-sectarian club is open to all single, widowed, divorced and legally separated people.

NORTHWEST AAUW

Samuel Sublett, junior administrator of the Department of Corrections, Juvenile Division, will address the Northwest Suburban Branch of the American Association of University Women at Thursday's meeting at Trinity Lutheran Church, Algonquin Road and Fifth Avenue, Des Plaines.

Introduced by Mrs. Keith Bode, program chairman, Sublett will discuss the juvenile offender and what happens to him after discharge. Sublett holds a bachelor's and master's degree from DePaul University and a master of science degree from Northern Illinois. He has worked with boys at the Illinois State Training School for Boys since 1951.

Another portion of the meeting will be devoted to a discussion by Mrs. S. H. Loska of Des Plaines, president of the branch, during which she will share some of the outstanding events she experienced at the Philadelphia Conference of the International Federation of University Women this summer.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. All graduates of recognized colleges are invited to attend and to inquire about membership.

NOTRE DAME MOTHERS

Notre Dame Mother's Club will hold its annual Pantry Shower for the Holy Cross Fathers on Tuesday, Oct. 26, at 8 p.m. in the school cafeteria. The program will be "Pleasures from Treasures" presented by Mrs. J. McClure.

All members and interested guests are invited to attend.

The public is invited to attend. Chairman, Frankie Mazurek promises a fun-filled evening for all.

A Special Bridal Bouquet

Exceptional care went into the bridal bouquet carried by Linda Ruth Seils on her wedding day. Her brother, Paul Seils, a designer at Busse Flowers in Mount Prospect, created the arrangement especially for her. It was a cascade of white roses, daisies, carnations and stephanotis with touches of ivy.

Linda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Seils of 305 N. Maple, Mount Prospect, became the bride of Edward Allen Mordue of Des Plaines on Sept. 11 in St. Paul Lutheran Church. The newlyweds are now living in Chandler, Ariz., while the bridegroom is stationed at Williams Air Force Base.

Edward's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mordue of 326 Wisconsin Drive, Des Plaines.

MURDER STRIDING. Mike Dean of Maine North hurdles over a Norsemen teammate with on stride on Saturday's action against Niles West in a Central Suburban League contest. Scoring on the play is Maine North tackle Greg Polan. Niles West won the contest with 33 points in the second half, 40-20.

NOT THIS TIME. Mike Dean of Maine North has a tremendous day carrying the ball Saturday against Niles West but not on this play. Dean, who had 159 yards rushing, is halted by John Nabolotny (88) and Bill Mitz (56). Niles West was a 40-20 victory on its own field.

Score Deceiving On Explosive Afternoon

Maine North Comes Of Age In 40-20 League Loss

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

Maine North High School football came of age Saturday.

On that day one can mark the beginning of Maine North football's pride and tradition.

Maine North lost Saturday, 40-20 to Niles West, but the Norsemen came up with a performance which brought raves from Niles West fans as well as Norsemen followers.

In its first crucial, "must" game in its young history, Maine North played Niles West to a near standstill — or, rather, marching motion — for more than three periods on the victor's home field.

By no means was the final score indicative of the tight struggle which existed for 42 of the game's 48 minutes. With six and a half minutes left in the game, Maine North trailed by as little as 25-20.

For those who enjoy offensive football, the contest was a paradise. The two teams combined for no less than 774 yards in total offense, which ranks right up there with Germany's rushing yardage in the early going of World War II.

After it was all over, more than one spectator wondered how the score possibly stood at 7-6, in Niles West's favor, at halftime. In the second half, all of the offensive firepower was unleashed with Niles West getting 33 points, 21 in the fourth quarter alone, and Maine North 14 points.

Getting most of the yardage, which totaled more than a half of a mile, were Warren Nemanich, Mike Schreiber and Scott Zolke of Niles West and Mike Dean and Gary Halls of Maine North.

Nemanich, an All-Conference selection in 1970, gained 132 yards on 19 carries and Schreiber threw in 81 yards on 15 carries. Zolke, another All-Conference pick as a junior, completed 11 out of 16 passes for 141 yards and ran the ball 12 times for 49 yards.

Ironically, Maine North's defense, such as it was, forced Niles West out of its best offensive weapon — the triple option. Most of the Indians' yards were gained on crossback scissors and half-back delay plays up the middle behind the tremendous trap block blocking of guards Larry Snyder and Ron Dassinger.

Dean picked up 159 yards on only 12 carries and that does not include a 55-yard kickoff return. Halls' statistics read 134 yards on 11 rushes and 46 yards passing on five completions out of 12 attempts.

The touchdown which sewed up Niles West's fourth victory (against no losses and one tie) was a 37-yard pass from Zolke to end Richard Lain with 6:08 remaining in the game. A two-point conversion pass from Zolke to Jim Thornton gave Niles West a 33-20 lead which proved to be safe.

Maine North opened the scoring in the first quarter after halting a Niles West drive which advanced to the Norsemen 12 yard line.

After Dean ran for three yards, he broke loose around the right end, cut back to the left sideline, avoided a last-gasp tackle by safety Dave Conti and went all the way into the end zone to complete an 85-yard touchdown scamper. It was the first touchdown Maine North had scored in the first quarter this season.

The attempt for the two-point conversion failed due to a fumbled snap from center but Maine North had a 6-0 lead with 6:33 left in the initial stanza.

After a booming 45-yard kick by Norsemen punter Les Leonard, Niles West established the best drive of the afternoon — a 93 yarder.

It took the Indians 11 plays to cover the distance with the big gainers being a 17-yard run by Nemanich and an 18-yard run by Schreiber. Nemanich ran into the end zone from the seven yard line on the familiar halfback delay behind a trap block by Dassinger to tie the score 6-6.

Zolke, who does about everything except lead the cheerleading unit, kicked the extra point to make it 7-6 with 7:59 left in the second quarter.

Incredible as it may seem, that was all the scoring for the first half.

But then came the second half which kept the scoreboard blinking its number lights as well as any psychedelic shows.

A 65-yard kickoff return by Schreiber gave Niles West good field position at the start of the second half at the Maine North 33 yard line. Seven plays later full-back Ray Lain plowed over the goal line from the one yard line to give Niles West a 13-6 lead. The run for the two-point conversion failed at 8:43.

A 51-yard touchdown drive, highlighted by a 16-yard pass by Zolke and a 15-yard run by Nemanich, gave the Indians a 19-6 advantage. It was Nemanich getting the touchdown from the three yard line but the extra point failed with 2:46 left in the third quarter.

Right then and there, trailing by 13 points to a superior Niles West contingent, Maine North could have quit and said, "Aw, shucks, let's wait until next week." But the Norsemen didn't, and here is where the Maine North pride and tradition was born.

The next time Maine North received a kickoff, Dean raced 55 yards to the Niles West 38 yard line. Three plays later, the best being a 17-yard pass from Halls to Leonard, the Norsemen had the ball on the 16 yard line with a third-and-eight situation.

Halls dropped back to pass and, after four seconds unsuccessfully finding an open receiver he tucked the ball under his arm and ran up the right sideline all the way to the goal line. Though the attempt for the two-point conversion failed, Maine North was right back in the ball game, trailing 19-12 with 33 seconds remaining in the period.

Niles West's offense came rolling back, however, marching 60 yards for another score, mostly on a 15-yard penalty against the Norsemen and Zolke completions for 19, nine and 11 yards.

Zolke scored the touchdown on a quarterback sneak from the one yard line and Nemanich ran for the two-point conversion to make it 23-12 with 10:16 left in game.

Again, the Norsemen could have hung it up, and hung their heads low. They did not.

After Zolke boomed the kickoff out of the end zone, Maine North had the ball on its own 20 yard line. It was from that point that Halls did his thing.

The Norsemen quarterback sprinted out around right end, cut back toward the center of the field, continued toward the left sideline, cut back across the middle of the field and ended up crossing the goal line near the right sideline, from which he started out.

The run covered 18 seconds and, officially, 80 yards. Something close to 120 yards of running was the closest measurement.

Dean, behind blocks by Mike Cranshaw and Leonard, swept right end for the two-point conversion and the Norsemen came within five points, at 25-20, with 9:58 left in the game.

Niles West, relentless as ever came right back with a 63-yard scoring drive, capped by the 37-yard pass from Zolke to Richard Lain. The two-point conversion pass made it 33-20 with 6:08 remaining.

A 31-yard punt return by Jim Thornton set up the Indians' final touchdown, a 34-yard drive capped by a seven-yard pass from Zolke to Bob Thornton. Zolke booted the extra point to make it 40-20 with 2:12 left to play.

The Norsemen still fought back, however, and advanced to the Niles West 26 yard line with most of the yardage coming on a 59-yard run by Dean.

But time, and yardage, ran out on the Norsemen.

Though pride certainly did not.

Maine West's Harriers Take Dual Meet Title

By the slimmest of margins, Maine West won the Central Suburban League dual meet cross country title over Maine South last week.

The Warriors also won on the sophomore and freshman levels.

Maine West tallied 27 points to arch-rival Maine South's 28 to win the dual meet title. The Warriors must finish at least second in the CSL meet this Saturday to win a share of the overall championship. If Maine West wins the entire meet, the Warriors will be undisputed champs.

Both Maine West and Maine South defeated Maine North 15-50 on the varsity level since the Norsemen did not have enough entries.

A Maine South harrier took first place in the varsity meet with a 15:22 over the three-mile course. Kevin Wright nabbed second place in 15:34 and Chip Barbour was third in 15:37 for the Warriors.

After Maine South took fourth and fifth places, Kerry Arko of Maine North was sixth in 15:59. Dean Kamin of Maine West was seventh in 16:03 and teammate Dan Long was eighth in 16:06.

Maine South took ninth place but Scott Sedlack of West sewed up the Warrior victory with a 10th place in 16:37 to give the Warriors 27 points. A Maine South harrier took 11th for the Hawks' 28th point.

Other Warrior harriers who contributed toward the Maine West title this season were Kevin Skahan in 14th place, Mike Paul 18th, Brad Frost 20th, Garth Ware 21st, Fred Schultz 23rd, Kurt Heinrich 25th, Dave LeFavour 29th, Gary Gundersen 30th, Bill Bettsner 31st, Frank Basiles 32nd, Bob Berquist 34th, Pete Burchard 35th, John Fisher, 36th, Rich Jay 37th, Joe Long 39th, Bruce Swartswaller 40th, Vito Brunetti 41st, Chuck Michelsen 42nd and Barclay Herman 43rd.

Other finishers for Maine North were Robin Thompson in 28th and John Hennessey in 45th.

Maine West won the sophomore meets, 21-38 over previously unbeaten Maine North and 15-48 over Maine South. Maine North defeated Maine South 25-30.

For the Warriors, Brian Dunavant was first in 16:34 and Glen Oland second in 16:42. Bob O'Donnell took third in 16:53 and Bill Fancher fourth in 16:58 for Maine North.

Paul Frost, Joe Andrew and Rich Schmit took fifth, sixth and seventh for Maine West while Mike Sharpe took eighth for North.

Greg Klebe was ninth for West, Lance Carlile 12th for West, Jeff Lloyd 14th for West, Dan Jacobsen 15th for North, Scott Fowler 16th for West, Bruce Winclester 17th for West and Bill Becker 18th for North.

In the frosh meet, Maine West defeated Maine South 27-29 and Maine North 15-50. South defeated North 15-42.

Leon Williams was first in 11:56 and Gary Brenner second in 12:01 over two miles for Maine West. Paul Mademam was seventh, Jim Loris eighth, Norm Hillner ninth, Joe Paul 10th and John Bocksay 12th for Maine West.

After Brad Furukawa took 13th for North, Gary Salavitch was 14th for West as Seeger took 15th, Schuster 16th and Strba 18th for Maine North.

SCHNEIDER RIDER. Forest View's Dave Schneider, a two-way performer for head coach Paul Jordan is corralled by Elk Grove safety Keith Chuipak, but not before grinding out six yards. Schneider averaged 7.6 yards on five carries Friday, but the Falcons dropped a heart-breaking 23-22 final.

Stewart Scores Three Touchdowns

South Showdown Goes To Elk Grove, 23-22

by JIM COOK

A simple blue pill called "Compose."

Without it, you were risking anything from a severe case of bloody fingernails to complete cardiac arrest.

It was like following a tennis ball in a professional match. Elk Grove and Forest View played on a seesaw until both the Falcon offense and the clock ran out with the Grenadiers in the air, 23-22.

With just 1:20 remaining and the Grove leading by its eventual winning margin, the Falcons were romping down the field behind the running and gunning of bullet Mike Pryor.

The pocket-rocket, praised by Elk Grove defensive coach Brendan Flynn as the best area running back since Jack Bastable, was primarily responsible for digging the Falcons out of a hole at their own 17 in a gasping last-minute drive.

A 15-yard infraction against the Grenadiers, coupled with scampers of 14, two and one yards by Pryor, climaxed in a fourth down and three yards to go situation on the Elk Grove 39.

To absolutely no one's surprise, including Elk Grove cornerback Dave Chernick, Pryor got the crucial call, but Chernick came up quickly, lowered his head and blasted Mike out of bounds — a yard short of the needed yardage.

"You can't help but call that play as the turning point of the game," a collected Don Schnake said. He didn't even want to think of what may have developed had Pryor given the Falcons a new lease on life.

He didn't have to. The Grenadiers are now all alone atop the Mid-Suburban League's South Division standings with an unblemished 3-0 record.

Listing individual Grenadier heroes would be like recopying Webster's Dictionary. The most obvious were quarterback Jeff Stewart who cleverly rampaged for all three of the victor's touchdowns and had two more called back on a clipping infraction and for hitting the chalk stripe on the Forest View sideline; Gary Adams who drilled a paramount 21-yard field goal; John Bicego who completed his first pass of the season and no less than seven running backs who accumulated 320 impressive rushing yards.

Elk Grove put points on the board in its first series of possession when Adams' foot clicked against the wind from the Forest View 11 to cap a 13-play drive spearheaded on 11 carries by Jim Leopardo.

The Falcons, meanwhile, recorded one first down — a 10-yard jaunt by Pryor before being forced to punt in a fourth and 10. Booster Tom Mueller was roughed on the kick, however, and Forest View resumed their attack at the Grove 33.

Falcon bulldozer Dave Schneider rammed 23 yards to the 14 and Pryor netted 13 more to the enemy one. Mike got the deserving nod and plunged in for the score. He also angled left for a two-point conversion and Forest View led, 8-3 at quarter's end.

By that time, though, Elk Grove was busy marching again. Stewart lumbered for an apparent TD from 60 yards away, but the ball was spotted at the Falcon 46 where he stepped out of bounds.

Jeff, racking up 115 yards rushing, varied his game plan by throwing to Bicego for 12 and a first down at the Falcon 33. Gary Martin promptly moved the chains again when he was stopped at the 19 before workhorse Leopardo established still another with a first and goal from the seven.

Stewart proceeded to drop back into the pocket, fumble, recover and carry it to paydirt — the broken play earning Elk Grove a 9-8 advantage since Adams erred on his first extra point attempt in one and one-half years of varsity play.

The first of only four punts in the contest was registered by Forest View when its drive on the ensuing kickoff stalled at the 47.

Stewart, realizing how effective a broken play can be, was forced into another desperate situation after the Grenadiers boomed for three first downs to the FV 13 upon receiving the punt.

Jeff retreated into the pocket once more, got set to pass, and panicked when the Falcons had blanketed his receivers. The outstanding blocking from his offensive linemates, enabled him to escape unscathed into the endzone.

On Adams' next conversion try, holder

SIDELINE STRIDE. Elk Grove quarterback Jeff Stewart had already stepped out of bounds on this run that eventually went for a touchdown despite the efforts of Forest View's Frank Bohac. The play was called back, but eight plays later, the Grenadiers were on the board — courtesy of a seven-yard scamper by Stewart. Elk Grove won, 23-22. (Photo by Jim Frost)

Bicego jumped up and fired a bullet to Mike Muli for two points and a 17-8 Grenadier margin.

Both teams were stymied as the half ended, but the fireworks continued 15 minutes later with Forest View now lighting the fuse.

They gave up the ball on an interception to open the second half, but dug in on defense and regained possession on an Elk Grove punt. Back-to-back first downs by Pryor and hard-running Don Divito pushed the ball into Grenadier territory at the 47 where Bill Millner caught the EG secondary with a perfect spiral to Mueller who was wide open at the 17 and could have crawled into the endzone. Pryor's second running conversion brought the Falcons to within one at 17-16.

The ball bounced Forest View's way again when Stewart fumbled in the backfield and a heap of Falcons, led by Tom Parker, smothered the pigskin at the Elk Grove 26.

Mueller hit Schneider with a screen to the EG 15 before Divito set up a first and goal from the four with a nifty cutback up the middle. Pryor swept left and Forest View had rallied for a 22-17 lead.

Pryor duplicated the feat on the conversion, but an illegal motion penalty canceled the run and gained even more significance when Millner's conversion pass from the eight fell incomplete.

The pressure shifted to the Grenadiers as the final period began clicking off. A first-down Stewart to Muli pass combination brought Elk Grove to its own 41 while a six yard gainer by Tony Tringali netted another at the Falcon 43.

After an incomplete, Stewart tucked the ball under his arm from a quarterback draw setup and galloped 43 yards with Muli springing the decisive ramble with a key block downfield. The kick failed, but the 23-22 Elk Grove advantage and defense didn't.

A 65-yard run by Stewart on the quarterback bootleg became only a mirage when a red flag for clipping wiped out what would have been the Elk Grove clinch. It only served to create more tension and faster heartbeats during Forest View's concluding series.

Maybe even "Compose" didn't help. But a tranquilizer salesman would have made a fortune.

Maine West Tips

North In Soccer

After three scoreless periods, Maine East tallied three goals in the final quarter to defeat Maine North 3-0 in varsity soccer action at Maryville.

The first Demon goal was not scored until five minutes had elapsed in the fourth period.

"They had a bit more depth and experience than we had," said Norsemen coach Bob Retel. "Because of their depth, they were able to substitute more and they wore us down late in the game."

Maine East won the frosh-soph contest 2-0.

South Whips West

A fourth quarter goal enabled Maine South to nip Maine West 1-0 in a soccer contest on the Maine West field.

Maine South also won the frosh-soph game 2-1.

Against New Trier West earlier in the week, the Warriors lost 2-0 on the varsity level and 3-0 on the frosh-soph level.

Two-Day Minority Group Exposition At Randhurst

'Alls Fair' In Love, War And Business World

by ALAN AKERSON
Winford Bryant and Everett Jones first met early last summer at an Operation Breadbasket meeting in Chicago.

Now, only a few months later, the two have formed a corporation that makes and leases business and home security equipment at a price, they say, that is far below that of their competitors.

Bryant and Jones, both black, were among the minority group entrepreneurs — some 40 in all — who came to Mount Prospect's Randhurst Shopping Center last week to show their wares to the Northwest suburbs.

The two-day minority group business exposition, called "Alls Fair," was sponsored and paid for by more than 30 area human relations groups, churches, individuals and businesses.

Thousands of shoppers at Randhurst saw the exhibits in the shopping center's mall Saturday and Sunday. It was the second "Alls Fair," the first being held in June, 1970.

AMONG THE exhibitors were black artists, Indians displaying clothing from their country, and Mexican-Americans who sell Mexican food products.

According to Patricia Vockereth, a spokesman for the event, the goal of Alls Fair is to give Northwest suburban residents a chance "to view the multi-faceted talents and accomplishments of the various minority groups" that live in the Chicago area.

The businesses represented at the event ran the gamut from one-man operations to corporations that cost thousands of dollars to organize.

As for Bryant and Jones their start was of the shoestring variety. "All our products, I invented," says 22-year-old Bryant, who, incidentally, dropped out of school in the ninth grade.

HIS PARTNER, Jones, is 33, holds a bachelor's degree in business administration, a master's degree in urban studies and is a former college teacher.

Jones said that after they met, he became impressed with Bryant's inventive abilities that led to the corporation. Bryant said it took him about three weeks to build the security device, known as the "Ghost Control System," and ready it for marketing. The device looks like nothing more than a gray metal box about the size of a cigar box. But, the two contend it can detect a break-in, a fire or any other kind of damage in any size business or home.

And, while the two readily admit the profit motive was behind their enterprise, there is another reason for their business: "Currently we are employing three mothers on welfare," said Jones.

At the other end of the financial scale is the Azteca Corn Products Corp., also from Chicago. Set up by 10 Chicago Mexican-Americans, it required an initial investment of about a quarter million dollars, according to one of the backers, Joseph Canchola, a Chicago stockbroker.

THE FACTORY, currently employing 17 persons, most of whom are Mexican-Americans, supplies Mexican corn-based foods to Chicago area grocery store chains and to several Mexican restaurants. "We're here at Alls Fair," explained Canchola, "to introduce the product to the Anglo market — one which we feel the surface has only barely been scratched in. And, there's no question the market is growing. There's lot of potential out here."

The Azteca Corn Products Corp. has done about $50,000 business thus far in its first year. Canchola's prediction for next year? "We are shooting for a million five."

EVERYTHING FROM ART objects to oil filters was on business exposition held last weekend at Randhurst display for shoppers at the "Alls Fair," a minority group Shopping Center.

Schools Join To Hire Lobbyist

The High School Dist. 214 School Board has voted to join with a North Shore high school district cooperative in hiring a lobbyist to represent local districts in the Illinois Legislature this year.

The cooperative, called the "Education Research and Development Association" (ED-RED), has already hired William Henkel at a salary of $24,000. Henkel is a former legislative representative of the county education office.

With the addition of Dist. 214, ED-RED will include 13 districts and represent about one sixth of the legislation strength of the state. The group will also represent 30 representative districts and one third of the student population in Illinois.

Board To Eye School Name

The Board of Education of Elk Grove Township Elementary Dist. 59 will consider a name for the new junior high school in Des Plaines at tonight's meeting.

The board will hear recommendations from board members Sharrie Hilbrandt and Paul Neuhauser on the name at 8 p.m. in the administration building, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

The new junior high school will be located next to St. Zachary Catholic School near Algonquin and Elmhurst roads in Des Plaines.

The board also plans to adjourn its Monday night meeting until Tuesday at which time the architect's final plans will be submitted for approval.

Man Found Guilty After Gas Station Tiff

A Buffalo Grove man who charged Elk Grove Village police beat him March 14 was found guilty of aggravated battery and resisting arrest Friday by a jury in a trial marked by conflicting testimony.

Byron Crowell, 33, of 871 Westbourne Ln., was found guilty of misdemeanor charges after the jury deliberated three hours to end a four-day trial in the Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court before Associate Judge John Ouska.

Crowell's nephew, Allen Batton, 19, of Michigan, who also was on trial, was found guilty of resisting arrest but not guilty of aggravated battery. Another hearing in the case is set for Nov. 30.

Both men, who admittedly had been drinking, charged police used unnecessary force in arresting them last March in an incident at a gas station at 1 E.

Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village.

Included in the trial was the testimony of Crowell's 10-year-old daughter, who said she saw her father struck by police in the service station while watching from a parked car, and of Crowell's wife.

THE INCIDENT stemmed from an argument when Batton lost 45 cents in a cigarette vending machine in the service station. The argument became heated when a service station attendant refused to return the change, but told Batton to leave his name and address.

Crowell joined the argument and police were then called in.

'Swap Shop' Daily On School Radio

Radio Station WMTH (88.5 FM) of Maine West High School is presenting "Swap Shop" daily from 10:50 to 11 a.m. The program is a public service for the community, according to Daryl Schultz, radio and television teacher at Maine West and adviser for the radio station.

Anyone may call the radio station at 827-6176 or write to WMTH, 1755 S. Wolf Rd., Des Plaines, and give information on what they want to buy or sell. Interested parties should include their name and address or their phone number.

Make It A Treat For UNICEF

There will be 3.6 million Spooks trick-or-treating for UNICEF this Halloween and this is why.

This year is UNICEF's (United Nations Children's Fund) 25th anniversary. It is giving help to one out of 10 children in the developing countries and this year's slogan is "A future for every child."

UNICEF began 25 years ago, when the nations of the world for the first time accepted their common responsibility to protect needy children in the wake of World War II. On Dec. 11, 1946, UNICEF was formed.

A massive campaign was mounted to feed and clothe the hungry and orphaned children of Europe. This was so successful that in the early 50s the task was completed and the need for UNICEF's continuing help was questioned.

THE UNITED NATIONS then took a look at the conditions under which the hundreds of millions of children in the developing countries lived. It was decided the agency that could best meet the emergency situation for educational, nutritional and medical care, was UNICEF.

The years that followed were years of change. New needs became apparent and were accepted in the agency's program. And UNICEF began to work in the fields of nutrition, basic health, disease control, education, and family and child welfare, as the provision of relief aid in emergencies that arose through the years.

These and many other long-term projects are UNICEF's daily task. Often there are additional programs of emergency relief and rehabilitation, necessitated by such conditions as the disaster in East Pakistan and the earthquake in Peru.

The United Nations Children's Fund is supported by voluntary contributions of governments, organizations, and individuals.

Today, UNICEF's income (exclusive of special emergency funds) is $50 million a year — the same amount of money the world spends on two hours of war. UNICEF has promised the world's children that by 1975 it will spend $100 million annually on their behalf.

No Mail Delivery On Veteran's Day

There will be no mail delivery Monday, Oct. 25, in observance of Veteran's Day, the U.S. Post Office has announced.

Collection of mail will be made on the holiday schedule and only special delivery parcels and letters will be distributed.
